Mine Owners Aroused; Talks To Open Today

Operators Accuse Administration Of Abdicating To Lewis' Demands

VACATION RULING TERMED "ILLEGAL"

UMW Chief Musters Statisics To Bolster Arguments For Pay Hike

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31 (AP)—Soft coal operators tonight accused the administration of abdicating "to the demands of a wilful labor leader" on the eve of John L. Lewis' new contract talks with government officials.

While Lewis mustered statistics to bolster his arguments for higher pay for his United Mine Workers, the operators' wrath was aroused by a government settlement in favor of the miners on the vacation issue of the present contract.

John D. Battle, executive secretary of the National Coal Association, termed the vacation ruling "unwarranted; wholly illegal and further evidence of the abdication of the administration to the demands of a wilful labor leader."

Battle said in a statement this labor leader's power had been built up by the administration to a point "which it would appear it is now unable or unwilling to control."

Vacation Order

The vacation order which Battle described was one by Capt. N. H. Collisson, Coal Mines Administrator. It held that vacation pay benefits were not limited to those who have been on the payroll only since the government took over the mines last spring, but could be allowed on a pro-rata basis to miners who had worked earlier months.

Lewis had demanded that this be granted, saying that otherwise miners entitled to a share of the $100 yearly vacation payment would get nothing.

"The effect of this order," commented Battle, "is to require the mine owners to pay a so-called vacation bonus to persons who are not now in their employ and who have never been in their employ since the mines came into possession of the government."

Battle said it is not a matter of interpreting the government contract with Lewis "or what some arbitrator decided."

The fact is, he continued, that "by no sort of sophistry can it be asserted that the executive order (taking over the mines) or statute authorizing emergency seizure of mines purported to authorize the administrator to divert public funds as a retroactive bonus to former employes of a mining corporation with whom the government had no relation whatever."

The coal mine owners are on the sidelines as far as tomorrow's government-UMW talks are concerned, but they are watching developments closely.

Shorter Week, Same Pay

A major operator said that if the government grants a "small" wage adjustment to enable the miners to work a shorter week while retaining their present take-home pay, that in itself would pose no obstacle to

Wallace Urges "Frank" U. S.-Russian Agreement

MADISON, Wis., Oct. 31 (AP)—Former Secretary of Commerce Henry A. Wallace declared in an address tonight that the "first prerequisite for the truly abundant postwar life to which our modern atomic technology entitles us is a frank agreement between the United States and Russia."

"At the present time," Wallace told a meeting of the Wisconsin Association of Co-operatives, "both countries have plenty of reason to be suspicious of each other. Both are spending huge sums on new types of warfare involving guided missiles, atomic energy, bacteria and poisons. Both are vigorously engaged in propagandizing and proselytizing for their brand of civilization outside of their own boundaries."

United Nations Assembly, Making Up For Lost Time, Approves 56-Item Agenda

Plane Passengers, In ATC Test, Cross Nation In Reverse

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31 (AP)—Like the mythical bird that didn't care where he was going but wanted to see where he had just been, a planeload of passengers flew backward today from Washington to California.

It was an Air Transport Command experiment, applying new safety theories and testing passenger reaction.

The plane is a standard C-54 with all seats reversed, facing the tail. It is the first passenger plane in the United States to have all seats so arranged, although prewar sleeper planes had half of them set in that manner, like a railroad sleeper.

The principal reason for the change was a study of combat and crash research findings which showed that in rough landings passengers are safer when the shock is distributed over most of the body and absorbed by the back of the seat.

Russian Disarmament Proposal, Spanish Question Will Be Aired

NEW YORK, Oct. 31 (AP) — The United Nations Assembly, in a surprising burst of speed, unanimously decided tonight to give Russia's armaments limitation proposals and the Spanish question a thorough airing and cleared the way for consideration of a long list of other problems facing the delegates of 51 nations.

The Assembly adopted the 56-item agenda presented by the Steering Committee with little debate in a 61-minute session which ended at 5:15 p. m. EST. It thus made up for some of the time lost by the week's speeches in general debate which were completed this morning when the Soviet Ukrainian Foreign Minister, Dmitri Manuilsky, unleashed a heated attack on Cuba and Australia for advocating changes in the veto system.

The time that the Soviet arms plan and Spain will be taken up remains indefinite but it is expected that the Assembly's political committee, to which they were referred, will lose little time in sending them to the floor.

Brief Flurry Follows Adoption

There was a brief flurry after the agenda was adopted. Australia's N. J. O. Makin proposed that items should be referred to committee only after debate in the Assembly. The Assembly president, Paul-Henri Spaak, and Philip Noel-Baker, of Britain, objected it would take too much time and Makin withdrew his motion on Spaak's urging.

An expected floor fight between South Africa and India on the floor over India's complaint that South Africa is mistreating Indian nationals failed to develop when Spaak announced both sides had agreed that the dispute should go to the Political and Legal Committees for action.

The Assembly took its first vote when Cuba, objecting to its veto proposals going to the Political Committee alone, suggested that it be assigned to the Political and Legal Committees. The vote was 11 for Cuba and 18 against, with Russia, Britain and the United States voting against Cuba.

Committee Phase To Begin

The committee phase of the Assembly, which was expected to begin yesterday, will start tomorrow when the Social - Humanitarian - Cultural and the Administrative - Budgetary Committees meet at 11 a. m. EST at the Lake Success headquarters of the United Nations.

The Economic-Financial and the Trusteeship Committees will meet there at 3 p. m. EST.

There will be no session at Flushing Meadow, where only the meetings on the full Assembly and of the Steering Committee are held.

The Political Committee, the most important of the six, will meet Saturday morning.

The Assembly lost headway during speeches by 39 of the 51 delegations. Twelve small nations passed up their opportunity to be heard in the lead-off general debate.

Arabs Schedule Demonstration; Uprising Feared

"Not Protest" Against Bombings But "Show Of Strength"

JERUSALEM, Oct. 31 (AP)—Leaders of the Palestine Arab army Futuwah called for a parade and mass meeting tomorrow in Nablus, 33 miles north of Jerusalem, and many authorities expressed fear it might be an occasion for an Arab eruption against the Jews.

The army leaders declared it was "not a protest" against bombings yesterday in which six Arabs were injured, but other Arab informants declared it as "a show of strength by Arabs on the heels of the same sort of demonstration by the Jews."

Two Tommies Killed

Two British soldiers were killed and two others critically wounded tonight when their truck struck a road mine a few miles north of Tel Aviv, it was reported officially. The deaths were the fourth and fifth among British army personnel in the past 40 hours.

At Haifa, the Jewish Community Council called for a three-hour general strike tomorrow morning as a protest against the resumed transfer of refugees of Cyprus, where already about 5,000 Jews lacking Palestine entry permits are interned. The strike is to be accompanied by a mass meeting and demonstration.

The Jewish National Council (Vaad Leumi) issued a statement calling the methods of Jewish extremists "heinous," an "unforgivable crime," and "acts of madness" most dangerous to Zionism.

Underground Group Defiant

A Jewish Agency spokesman said his organization "and other Jewish authorities will combat with all the resources at our disposal the criminal activities of gangs which not only terrorize British authorities but Palestine Jews as well."

Earlier, a broadcast by the secret resistance organization Irgun Zvai Leumi declared it would not obey the inner Zionist Council's call for an end to violence, and said it would fight on two fronts if necessary—against the British and against any Jewish organization trying to interfere with its activities.

Authorities who expressed the fear of Arab retaliation against the Jews recalled that five Arabs had died in the robbery of the Ottoman Bank at Jaffa recently and said that yesterday's violence heightened tension.

State Chairman

BALTIMORE, Oct. 31 (AP)—Mrs Ralph J. Wells, Silver Spring, was named chairman of the United Democratic Women's Clubs of Maryland today to succeed Mrs. August Klecka, Baltimore.

Watson Convicted In Jewel Theft

FRANKFURT, Germany, Oct. 31 (AP)—A military court of 10 United States Army colonels convicted Maj. David F. Watson today of conspiracy and receiving stolen property in the $1,500,000 Hesse family jewel theft and sentenced him to three years imprisonment and dismissal from the Army.

Watson, who was described by his attorney in an impassioned plea for acquittal as "nothing but a dupe" in the theft, stood grim and erect as he heard the verdict. His trial opened October 15. The judges deliberated an hour and a half.

The big, balding major from Burlingame, Calif., was acquitted of actually stealing the jewels from their hiding place in the Army-occupied Kronberg Castle last fall, but was found guilty of conspiring with Col. Jack Durant and his WAC wife, Capt. Kathleen Nash Durant, to convert the gems to their own use and receiving a portion, "well knowing them to be stolen."

Mrs. Nash, convicted of stealing the jewels, drew a five-year sentence in an earlier trial. Her husband is awaiting trial.

Movie Projectionist To Die In Gas Chamber

RALEIGH, N. C., Oct. 31 (AP) — Robert L. Nash, 43, Raleigh moving oicture projectionist, who will die tomorrow in the state's gas chamber at Central Prison for the fatal shooting of Mrs. Margie L. Parker, 20, said today "I am laying down my life for the girl I love."

Nash said in an interview that he was not giving up his life for what he had done but for the girl he loved. He declined to talk about his shooting of Mrs. Parker as she left her work at an office to join her husband, saying "only Margie and I know the truth about it."

Nobel Prize Winner Says Japs May Inherit Bomb Effects For Centuries

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31 (AP)—Some Japanese exposed to the atomic bomb may transmit hereditary ill effects to their descendants for centuries, Dr. Herman J. Muller said tonight.

If they could foresee the results 1,000 years from now, he added, they might consider themselves more fortunate if the bomb had killed them.

Dr. Muller, geneticist at the University of Indiana, received reporters after being informed he had been awarded the Nobel Prize in medicine and physiology for work in heredity.

For 20 years he has been studying the effects of X-rays, and other rays similar to those of the A-bomb, in causing physical changes in insects and animals.

"A tiny fruit fly has thousands of genes, an agent for the transmission of hereditary characteristics," he said. "There is no reason to suppose that a human being has less.

"These genes may be changed by exposure to certain rays. This causes changes in the physical characteristics passed from parent to offspring. While the genes are changed immediately, the actual physical changes may not be manifest for generations—perhaps for 1,000 years in the case of human beings.

"The A-bomb rays are the kind that cause changes, and at Nagasaki and Hiroshima it is likely these changes will be manifest for 1,000 years. The effects pile up with the generations."

BOMBING INVESTIGATED—Police Detectives A. W. Lyle (left) and Henley Wilbur inspect damage at the home of Minnie Sibley, negro, after a dynamite blast rocked the house yesterday at Atlanta, Ga. One was injured. Detective Superintendent E. L. Hilderbrand said police were investigating an anti-negro group, but that there was no evidence connecting the group with the blast.

Byrnes Arranges Talks On German Peace Agreement

Secretary Summons U. S. Occupation Officials In Germany Home

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31 (AP)—Secretary of State Byrnes today pictured the road to Allied agreement on a peace treaty for Germany as long and rocky.

For a start, he told a news conference, he is summoning top American occupation officials in Germany home for consultations.

These talks will precede a New York meeting in which the Big Four Foreign Ministers take up the German treaty question.

Byrnes, mindful of unasked advice and criticism from various quarters, reminded reporters that grandstand coaching has always been simpler than actual contest on the field.

Clay, Murphy Called Home

It is the easiest thing he knows of, the Secretary of State said, to sit in the grandstand and throw pop bottles at the players.

Lt. Gen. Lucius D. Clay, deputy American military governor in Germany, and his political adviser, Ambassador Robert D. Murphy, have been asked to join Byrnes in New York about November 10, Byrnes said. He added it was his best guess that the Foreign Ministers would not take up the German question until about November 20.

The foreign Ministers — Byrnes; Bevin, of Britain; Molotov, of Russia, and Bidault, of France—are slated to begin discussions next Tuesday on the final drafts of peace treaties for Italy, Romania, Bulgaria, Hungary and Finland.

Byrnes said it should become evident, once the German questions have been taken up, whether substantial progress will be possible at the New York meeting, or whether a number of additional later conferences by deputies will be necessary.

Unanimous Jury

He has learned from experience on the other treaties, Byrnes said, that agreements frequently take a long time when concurrence by four persons — a unanimous jury, he called it—is always necessary.

He has no desire to go to Europe for another conference until some of the preliminary questions related to the German treaty are resolved, Byrnes said. He has made six round trips to that continent since he was sworn in as Secretary of State less than a year and a half ago.

Among these preliminary questions will be those of fixing the permanent boundaries of Germany, and other problems of occupation policy he said.

Perseverance Pays Off; Hard-Working Robbers Net $3,000

NEW YORK, Oct. 31 (AP) — Burglars set to work on a two-and-a-half-foot square safe at a restaurant during the early morning hours today and, police said, in the ensuing four hours they:

Rolled it around on the floor.

Attacked it with iron bars.

Heaved it down a flight of marble steps.

Tore at its bottom with kitchen knives, cleavers, forks and every other kind of implement available in the kitchen.

It was, said officers of the police scientific squad, the worst job of safe-cracking they ever saw in these parts—but the hard-working burglars finally got it open and made off with $3,000 in cash and jewelry.

Churchill Urges Arms Inspections

LONDON, Oct. 31 (AP) — Winston Churchill, taking a stand similar to that of former Sen. Warren R. Austin, urged today that the United Nations ascertain the full facts of world armaments by "an interchange of actual military facts supported by adequate reciprocal inspection" among all nations.

Yesterday Austin, head of the United States delegation to the United Nations, endorsed disarmament proposals made by Soviet Foreign Minister Molotov but added that "effective safeguards by way of inspection and other means" should be incorporated into any world disarmament plan.

Without mentioning either the proposals of Molotov or Austin, Churchill commented in a speech at his home accepting the freedom of the City of Birmingham, that United Nations investigation of world armaments would be " a great step forward in itself and may lead the way to others."

In a statement generally regarded as a further reply to the "instigator of a new war" accusation made against him earlier this week by Generalissimo Stalin, the former Prime Minister said:

"We are told that one of the great evils from which we suffer is international suspicion. There is a very good remedy for suspicion.

"It is the full disclosure of the facts, and that simple sovereign remedy, I hope, will be applied to the world situation by the United Nations Organization now meeting in the United States."

Dynamite Rocks Negro Woman's Home In Atlanta

Blast Punctuates Police Probe Of Columbians, Anti-Negro Group

ATLANTA, Oct. 31 (AP)—A dynamite blast rocked the home of a negro woman today while Atlanta police investigated an anti-negro group they accused of trying to usurp police prerogatives by patrolling streets and doing "guard" duty.

Detective Superintendent E. L. Hilderbrand said there was not direct evidence to link an explosion that disturbed the home of Minnie Sibley at 3:30 a. m. with the "negro-hating" group. However, Hilderbrand added, it was in a community where other "terroristic" outbreaks have occurred and will be included in a general probe of anti-racial activity

Tossed From Auto

A dynamite-charged bomb exploded near the entrance of the Sibley home. Hilderbrand said it apparently was tossed from a moving automobile. No one was injured.

To have more time to round up their inquiry, police obtained postponement until Tuesday of a recorder's court hearing for James R. Childers, 17, on charges of blackjacking into a state of hysteria a negro who claimed he was "tending to his own business."

Childers appeared in court wearing on his collar the red lightning flash insignia of the Columbians, one of whose chartered aims was given as promoting "a progressive white community." With him was Homer L. Loomis, Jr., identified as local organizer and secretary of the secret order.

Learned To Hate Jews, Negroes

Hilderbrand quoted Loomis as saying his home was at Lawrenceville, Va., but just out of the Army, he had spent some time in New York where he "learned to hate Jews and negroes." Loomis added, the detective said, that he "decided to come South and start something."

Hilderbrand said Loomis stationed Childers as a "guard" at the home of a white family near where the attack occurred. He also referred to a report of other detectives that they had attended a Columbians meeting and that members "take it upon themselves to patrol streets, hoeck up and watch negroes in certain sections."

Wagner Says Brewster Sought "Headlines"

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31 (AP) — Sen. Wagner (D-NY) declared today that Sen. Brewster (R-Maine) had indulged in "a desperate measure to capture headlines for political gain" by his recent release of what the Maine Senator called a "long-suppressed report" on housing by the Senate War Investigating Committee.

Sen. Kilgore (D-WVA), chairman of the committee, said Tuesday that the report was only an inter-office memorandum prepared by a committee investigator. He added that the memorandum was not approved by committee counsel because its "sweeping conclusions" were not sufficiently documented.

Beef Overabundant

WASHINGTON, Oct 31 (AP)—Beef is overabundant now in Washington. A wholesale meat dealer reported today "the supply is way beyond the demand—at present prices."

Killed In Crash

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31 (AP)—Albert F. Niedomansky, 52, died today from injuries suffered when his automobile collided with a street car in Northeast Washington.

President Is Home-Bound To Cast Vote

Chief Executive May Make Platform Appearances In Missouri

ABOARD PRESIDENTIAL SPECIAL TRAIN EN ROUTE TO MISSOURI, Oct. 31 (AP)—President Truman traveled home today to vote in the Tuesday elections which will bear crucially on his job as Chief Executive for the next two years.

These elections, in which the voters will decide whether to give him a Democratic or Republican Congress to work with, are the first on a nationwide scale since Mr. Truman entered the White House.

For the most part, the President has steered clear of the fall campaigning, but there is a possibility of platform appearances in Missouri tomorrow

"Operational Stop"

Presidential Secretary Charles Ross told a news conference in Washington that Mr. Truman might appear on the platform when his train reaches St. Louis at 10 a. m. (CST) and also at Jefferson City and Sedalia.

"We will be 15 minutes in St. Louis," Ross said. "The President might appear on the platform there."

Then he added: "No plans have been made. It will be a very brief operational stop and also for the purpose of letting off those who are not going beyond St. Louis."

He said the same possibilities applied to Jefferson City and Sedalia.

Will Pass Up Rally

Mr. Truman is passing up a hometown Democratic rally in Independence tomorrow night at which House Speaker Sam Rayburn is to speak, although Rayburn went along with him on his special train.

The White House said Mr. Truman planned to drive from Independence to Grandview, Mo., tomorrow night to visit with his 93-year-old mother, Mrs. Martha E. Truman, and his sister, Miss Mary Jane Truman.

On his last visit to Independence to vote in the Democratic primary in August, the President stayed away from nearby Kansas City despite his endorsement of Enos Axtell, who was nominated for Congress over Rep. Roger Slaughter (D). Independence is in a neighboring congressional district, represented by Jasper Bell (D).

Washington Hotel Strike Is Settled

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31 (AP)—The Washington hotel strike ended late today, with union and management accepting a compromise which the White House stepped in to offer because "the strike was interfering with operations of the government."

Eighteen hotels, variously affected but all hurt by the three-week walkout of 5,000 maids, waiters, cooks, bartenders and others, arranged to get back into normal operation as soon as possible.

Some hotel managements said it would take only minutes; others said a day or so.

Settlement meant an end to community losses which the Washington Evening Star had calculated at more than $3,000,000—including indirect as well as direct losses.

Settlement was on the basis of a pay raise of six cents an hour for employes who do not receive tips and three cents for those who do.

48 Estonians Soon May Call U.S. Home

MIAMI, Fla., Oct. 31 (AP)—Prospects brightened today that the 48 Estonian political refugees who sailed to this country from Sweden might soon call the land of the Stars and Stripes home.

Thomas B. Shoemaker, deputy commissioner of immigration, told the group in sympathetic terms that deportation had been stayed until another order is issued by Attorney General Tom Clark. He said he did not know when it would be forthcoming and added there was no hurry.

Shoemaker was sent here by Clark after President Truman had expressed concern over the Estonians' plight. He said he would make a full investigation and report back to Clark.

Lids Removed From Neckties, Hats, Handbags

10,000 Paid Employes Of Agency's 1,642 Boards To Be Dismissed

SILVER AND CLEANING POWDERS DECONTROLLED

Ceilings Lifted From Bathing Suits, Most Sports Accessories

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31 (AP)—The OPA tonight ordered its 1,642 local boards to close up shop November 4 and, pushing on with decontrol, took ceilings off hats, handbags, neckties and some other apparel.

Clothing removed from ceilings represented 10 per cent of the total, on a dollar basis. Other items decontrolled included silver, steel tubing and alloy steel, household scouring powders, and iron ore that is shipped after next January 1.

The clothing action, coming after the decontrol of shoes, was followed by a statement from the National Federation of Apparel Associations demanding that controls on all clothing be removed and saying that it is "time to quit messing up the economy for the sake of politics."

Decontrol "Through Pressure"

Leo F. Gentner, general manager of the association and former OPA official, said that decontrol is "being made effective through pressure and not because of statistical facts or data." Because of "inequities that now exist," he added, "the consumer would be far better off financially" if all controls were lifted.

The closing of the local boards, manned by 10,000 paid employes and 43,000 volunteers, means that the little work left for them to do will be shifted to the 61 OPA regional offices and the 650 area rent control offices. The 10,000 paid employes — some supervisors and 8,613 clerks—will be dismissed.

In New York, an OPA spokesman estimated Porter's move would lead to dismissal of 2,300 paid workers in the Second Region, consisting of New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Delaware, Maryland and the District of Columbia.

The regional office said that at the time Porter's order was issued it had jurisdiction over 208 price control boards compared with the peak figure of 672 war price and rationing boards in July, 1945. At that time, the region had 18,674 paid employes and 16,804 volunteer workers.

Legal Basis For Food Controls

A legal basis for continued price controls on sugar, syrups, molasses and rice—the only foods still controlled—was provided by the Agriculture Department during the day. It reported these items still scarce in issuing the monthly list of farm commodities in short supply as required by the Price Control Act.

The cleaning powders freed from ceilings are those which contain no more than five per cent soap. Controls were retained on soap and soap products.

Bathing suits, and uniforms and accessories for most sports were among the clothing items decontrolled. This order represented a further relaxation of controls in the clothing field following yesterday decontrol of shoes.

OPA Order Will Close 15 Maryland Boards

BALTIMORE, Oct. 31 (AP)—Fifteen consolidated price control boards in Maryland will close next Monday under an order issued by the OPA in Washington tonight.

The OPA order affected its 1,624 local boards.

With the close of the Maryland offices, 103 employes will be released to effect a payroll saving of $231,446 annually, OPA officials here said.

At one time, the state had 50 War Price and Rationing Boards but the number was cut gradually through consolidation.

Buds Fooled

U. S. Has Hodgepodge Of Weather

[By The Associated Press]

Buds burt into bloom in the Northeastern United States yesterday as temperatures shot into the 80s, making it one of the warmest Halloweens on record, but rescue parties had to battle waist-deep snow to reach isolated persons in the Rocky Mountain area. The unseasonable warmth brought new marks for the date in New England and New York City, which had a high of 80. Portland, Me., also reported 80, which was 10 degrees above the previous October 31 high, and Boston had a sizzling 81, breaking a 50-year record.

Sprouting of bulbs and budding of trees was noted in New England and Dr. Paul Dempsey of Massachusetts State College, said the spell of warm weather was certain to cause some damage

In New York, where the Weather Bureau said this October was the warmest in the 75-year history of the office and also one of the driest, gardeners found rose bushes in bloom and many vegetable plants thriving.

Even the fish in eastern waters have been fooled. The New York Fishery Council said about 100 pounds of shad were caught recently in fresh water streams along the New Jersey coast, where the fish ordinarily go to spawn only in spring.

Far across the country in Utah, the early snows made rescue of 33 snowbound persons difficult but all were reported brought to safety or in no immediate danger. At Aberdeen, S. D., the mercury dipped to 23.

Unusually warm weather also prevailed in Southeastern states, with Miami listing 84, Atlanta 80, Charlotte N. C., 79 New Orleans 82, and Memphis 79 at noon. The normal mean temperature in Atlanta for the date is 57.

Gov. O'Conor Applauds Proposal For World Armaments Reduction

BALTIMORE, Oct. 31 (AP)—The proposal for a general reduction of armaments was termed "one of the most heartening aspects of America's international relationships" by Gov. Herbert O'Conor in an address at Towson tonight.

The proposal, which included banishment of the atomic bomb and other weapons of mass destruction, was advanced by Russia's delegate to the United Nations.

O'Conor, whose speech was broadcast over a Baltimore radio station, spoke at a campaign rally along with his running mate, William Preston Lane, Jr., Democratic gubernatorial candidate.

Lane devoted most of his address, also broadcast, to attacks on the record of his opponent, Theodore McKeldin, as mayor of Baltimore. The mayor's "fumbling" with a city "tax mess" was scored also by State Sen. L. Harold Sothoron (D-Prince George's) in a talk earlier today.

In other campaign developments, the Independent Citizen's Committee of the Arts, Sciences and Professions tonight announced its support of Lane. The committee, however, took no stand in the contest for the Senate, finding both Gov. O'Conor and his opponent, Republican D. John Markey, "unsatisfactory."

O'Conor said in his address at Towson:

"Every thoughtful American will subscribe, I am confident, to America's reaction to this proposal

Mine Owners Aroused; Talks To Open Today

Operators Accuse Administration Of Abdicating To Lewis' Demands

UMW Chief Musters Statisics To Bolster Arguments For Pay Hike

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31 (AP)—Soft coal operators tonight accused the administration of abdicating "to the demands of a wilful labor leader" on the eve of John L. Lewis' new contract talks with government officials.

While Lewis mustered statistics to bolster his arguments for higher pay for his United Mine Workers, the operators' wrath was aroused by a government settlement in favor of the miners on the vacation issue of the present contract.

John D. Battle, executive secretary of the National Coal Association, termed the vacation ruling "unwairanted; wholly illegal and further evidence of the abdication of the administration to the demands of a wilful labor leader."

Battle said in a statement this labor leader's power had been built up by the administration to a point "which it would appear it is now unable or unwilling to control."

Vacation Order

The vacation order which Battle described was one by Capt. N. H. Collisson, Coal Mines Administrator. It held that vacation pay benefits were not limited to those who have been on the payroll only since the government took over the mines last spring, but could be allowed on a pro-rata basis to miners who had worked earlier months.

Lewis had demanded that this be granted, saying that otherwise miners entitled to a share of the $100 yearly vacation payment would get nothing.

"The effect of this order," commented Battle, "is to require the mine owners to pay a so-called vacation bonus to persons who are not now in their employ and who have never been in their employ since the mines came into possession of the government."

Battle said it is not a matter of interpreting the government contract with Lewis "or what some arbitrator decided."

The fact is, he continued, that "by no sort of sophistry can it be asserted that the executive order (taking over the mines) or statute authorizing emergency seizure of mines purported to authorize the administrator to divert public funds as a retroactive bonus to former employes of a mining corporation with whom the government had no relation whatever."

The coal mine owners are on the sidelines as far as tomorrow's government-UMW talks are concerned, but they are watching developments closely.

Shorter Week, Same Pay

A major operator said that if the government grants a "small" wage adjustment to enable the miners to work a shorter week while retaining their present take-home pay, that in itself would pose no obstacle to

Wallace Urges "Frank" U. S.-Russian Agreement

MADISON, Wis., Oct. 31 (AP) — Former Secretary of Commerce Henry A. Wallace declared in an address tonight that the "first prerequisite for the truly abundant postwar life to which our modern atomic technology entitles us is a frank agreement between the United States and Russia."

"At the present time," Wallace told a meeting of the Wisconsin Association of Co-operatives, "both countries have plenty of reason to be suspicious of each other. Both are spending huge sums on new types of warfare involving guided missiles, atomic energy, bacteria and poisons. Both are vigorously engaged in propagandizing and proselytizing for their brand of civilization outside of their own boundaries."

United Nations Assembly, Making Up For Lost Time, Approves 56-Item Agenda

Plane Passengers, In ATC Test, Cross Nation In Reverse

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31 (AP) —Like the mythical bird that didn't care where he was going but wanted to see where he had just been, a planeload of passengers flew backward today from Washington to California.

It was an Air Transport Command experiment, applying new safety theories and testing passenger reaction.

The plane is a standard C-54 with all seats reversed, facing the tail. It is the first passenger plane in the United States to have all seats so arranged, although prewar sleeper planes had half of them set in that manner, like a railroad sleeper.

The principal reason for the change was a study of combat and crash research findings which showed that in rough landings passengers are safer when the shock is distributed over most of the body and absorbed by the back of the seat.

Russian Disarmament Proposal, Spanish Question Will Be Aired

NEW YORK, Oct. 31 (AP) — The United Nations Assembly, in a surprising burst of speed, unanimously decided tonight to give Russia's armaments limitation proposals and the Spanish question a thorough airing and cleared the way for consideration of a long list of other problems facing the delegates of 51 nations.

The Assembly adopted the 56-item agenda presented by the Steering Committee with little debate in a 61-minute session which ended at 5:15 p. m. EST. It thus made up for some of the time lost by the week's speeches in general debate which were completed this morning when the Soviet Ukrainian Foreign Minister, Dmitri Manuilsky, unleashed a heated attack on Cuba and Australia for advocating changes in the veto system.

The time that the Soviet arms plan and Spain will be taken up remains indefinite but it is expected that the Assembly's political committee, to which they were referred, will lose little time in sending them to the floor.

Brief Flurry Follows Adoption

There was a brief flurry after the agenda was adopted. Australia's N. J. O. Makin proposed that items should be referred to committee only after debate in the Assembly. The Assembly president, Paul-Henri Spaak, and Philip Noel-Baker, of Britain, objected it would take too much time and Makin withdrew his motion on Spaak's urging.

An expected floor fight between South Africa and India on the floor over India's complaint that South Africa is mistreating Indian nationals failed to develop when Spaak announced both sides had agreed that the dispute should go to the Political and Legal Committees for action.

The Assembly took its first vote when Cuba, objecting to its veto proposals going to the Political Committee alone, suggested that it be assigned to the Political and Legal Committees. The vote was 11 for Cuba and 18 against, with Russia, Britain and the United States voting against Cuba.

Committee Phase To Begin

The committee phase of the Assembly, which was expected to begin yesterday, will start tomorrow when the Social - Humanitarian - Cultural and the Administrative - Budgetary Committees meet at 11 a. m. EST at the Lake Success headquarters of the United Nations.

The Economic-Financial and the Trusteeship Committees will meet there at 3 p. m. EST.

There will be no session at Flushing Meadow, where only the meetings on the full Assembly and of the Steering Committee are held.

The Political Committee, the most important of the six, will meet Saturday morning.

The Assembly lost headway during speeches by 39 of the 51 delegations. Twelve small nations passed up their opportunity to be heard in the lead-off general debate.

Arabs Schedule Demonstration; Uprising Feared

"Not Protest" Against Bombings But "Show Of Strength"

JERUSALEM, Oct. 31 (AP)—Leaders of the Palestine Arab army Futuwah called for a parade and mass meeting tomorrow in Nablus, 33 miles north of Jerusalem, and many authorities expressed fear it might be an occasion for an Arab eruption against the Jews.

The army leaders declared it was "not a protest" against bombings yesterday in which six Arabs were injured, but other Arab informants declared it as "a show of strength by Arabs on the heels of the same sort of demonstration by the Jews."

Two Tommies Killed

Two British soldiers were killed and two others critically wounded tonight when their truck struck a road mine a few miles north of Tel Aviv, it was reported officially. The deaths were the fourth and fifth among British army personnel in the past 40 hours.

At Haifa, the Jewish Community Council called for a three-hour general strike tomorrow morning as a protest against the resumed transfer of refugees of Cyprus, where already about 5,000 Jews lacking Palestine entry permits are interned. The strike is to be accompanied by a mass meeting and demonstration.

The Jewish National Council (Vaad Leumi) issued a statement calling the methods of Jewish extremists "heinous," an "unforgivable crime," and "acts of madness" most dangerous to Zionism.

Underground Group Defiant

A Jewish Agency spokesman said his organization "and other Jewish authorities will combat with all the resources at our disposal the criminal activities of gangs which not only terrorize British authorities but Palestine Jews as well."

Earlier, a broadcast by the secret resistance organization Irgun Zvai Leumi declared it would not obey the inner Zionist Council's call for an end to violence, and said it would fight on two fronts if necessary—against the British and against any Jewish organization trying to interfere with its activities.

Authorities who expressed the fear of Arab retaliation against the Jews recalled that five Arabs had died in the robbery of the Ottoman Bank at Jaffa recently and said that yesterday's violence heightened tension.

Watson Convicted In Jewel Theft

FRANKFURT, Germany, Oct. 31 (AP)—A military court of 10 United States Army colonels convicted Maj. David P. Watson today of conspiracy and receiving stolen property in the $1,500,000 Hesse family jewel theft and sentenced him to three years imprisonment and dismissal from the Army.

Watson, who was described by his attorney in an impassioned plea for acquittal as "nothing but a dupe" in the theft, stood grim and erect as he heard the verdict. His trial opened October 15. The judges deliberated an hour and a half.

The big, balding major from Burlingame, Calif., was acquitted of actually stealing the jewels from their hiding place in the Army-occupied Kronberg Castle last fall, but was found guilty of conspiring with Col. Jack Durant and his WAC wife, Capt. Kathleen Nash Durant, to convert the gems to their own use and receiving a portion, "well knowing them to be stolen."

Mrs. Nash, convicted of stealing the jewels, drew a five-year sentence in an earlier trial. Her husband is awaiting trial.

Movie Projectionist To Die In Gas Chamber

RALEIGH, N. C., Oct. 31 (AP) — Robert L. Nash, 43, Raleigh moving picture projectionist, who will die tomorrow in the state's gas chamber at Central Prison for the fatal shooting of Mrs. Margie L. Parker, 20, said today "I am laying down my life for the girl I love."

Nash said in an interview that he was not giving up his life for what he had done but for the girl he loved. He declined to talk about his shooting of Mrs. Parker as she left her work at an office to join her husband, saying "only Margie and I know the truth about it."

BOMBING INVESTIGATED—Police Detectives A. W. Lyle (left) and Henley Wilbur inspect damage at the home of Minnie Sibley, negro, after a dynamite blast rocked the house yesterday at Atlanta, Ga. One was injured. Detective Superintendent E. L. Hilderbrand said police were investigating an anti-negro group, but that there was no evidence connecting the group with the blast.

Byrnes Arranges Talks On German Peace Agreement

Secretary Summons U. S. Occupation Officials In Germany Home

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31 (AP)—Secretary of State Byrnes today pictured the road to Allied agreement on a peace treaty for Germany as long and rocky.

For a start, he told a news conference, he is summoning top American occupation officials in Germany home for consultations.

These talks will precede a New York meeting in which the Big Four Foreign Ministers take up the German treaty question.

Byrnes, mindful of unasked advice and criticism from various quarters, reminded reporters that grandstand coaching has always been simpler than actual contest on the field.

Clay, Murphy Called Home

It is the easiest thing he knows of, the Secretary of State said, to sit in the grandstand and throw pop bottles at the players.

Lt. Gen. Lucius D. Clay, deputy American military governor in Germany, and his political adviser, Ambassador Robert D. Murphy, have been asked to join Byrnes in New York about November 10, Byrnes said. He added it was his best guess that the Foreign Ministers would not take up the German question until about November 20.

The foreign Ministers — Byrnes; Bevin, of Britain; Molotov, of Russia, and Bidault, of France—are slated to begin discussions next Tuesday on the final drafts of peace treaties for Italy, Romania, Bulgaria, Hungary and Finland.

Byrnes said it should become evident, once the German questions have been taken up, whether substantial progress will be possible at the New York meeting, or whether a number of additional later conferences by deputies will be necessary.

Unanimous Jury

He has learned from experience on the other treaties, Byrnes said, that agreements frequently take a long time when concurrence by four persons — a unanimous jury, he called it—is always necessary.

He has no desire to go to Europe for another conference until some of the preliminary questions related to the German treaty are resolved, Byrnes said. He has made six round trips to that continent since he was sworn in as Secretary of State less than a year and a half ago.

Among these preliminary questions will be those of fixing the permanent boundaries of Germany, and other problems of occupation policy he said.

Perseverance Pays Off; Hard-Working Robbers Net $3,000

NEW YORK, Oct. 31 (AP) — Burglars set to work on a two-and-a-half-foot square safe at a restaurant during the early morning hours today and, police said, in the ensuing four hours they:

Rolled it around on the floor.

Attacked it with iron bars.

Heaved it down a flight of marble steps.

Tore at its bottom with kitchen knives, cleavers, forks and every other kind of implement available in the kitchen.

It was, said officers of the police scientific squad, the worst job of safe-cracking they ever saw in these parts—but the hard-working burglars finally got it open and made off with $3,000 in cash and jewelry.

Churchill Urges Arms Inspections

LONDON, Oct. 31 (AP) — Winston Churchill, taking a stand similar to that of former Sen. Warren R. Austin, urged today that the United Nations ascertain the full facts of world armaments by "an interchange of actual military facts supported by adequate reciprocal inspection" among all nations.

Yesterday Austin, head of the United States delegation to the United Nations, endorsed disarmament proposals made by Soviet Foreign Minister Molotov but added that "effective safeguards by way of inspection and other means" should be incorporated into any world disarmament plan.

Without mentioning either the proposals of Molotov or Austin, Churchill commented in a speech at his home accepting the freedom of the City of Birmingham, that United Nations investigation of world armaments would be " a great step forward in itself and may lead the way to others."

In a statement generally regarded as a further reply to the "instigator of a new war" accusation made against him earlier this week by Generalissimo Stalin, the former Prime Minister said:

"We are told that one of the great evils from which we suffer is international suspicion. There is a very good remedy for suspicion.

"It is the full disclosure of the facts, and that simple sovereign remedy, I hope, will be applied to the world situation by the United Nations Organization now meeting in the United States."

Dynamite Rocks Negro Woman's Home In Atlanta

Blast Punctuates Police Probe Of Columbians, Anti-Negro Group

ATLANTA, Oct. 31 (AP)—A dynamite blast rocked the home of a negro woman today while Atlanta police investigated an anti-negro group they accused of trying to usurp police prerogatives by patrolling streets and doing "guard" duty.

Detective Superintendent E. L. Hilderbrand said there was not direct evidence to link an explosion that disturbed the home of Minnie Sibley at 3:30 a. m. with the "negro-hating" group. However, Hilderbrand added, it was in a community where other "terroristic" outbreaks have occurred and will be included in a general probe of anti-racial activity.

Tossed From Auto

A dynamite-charged bomb exploded near the entrance of the Sibley home. Hilderbrand said it apparently was tossed from a moving automobile. No one was injured.

To have more time to round up their inquiry, police obtained postponement until Tuesday of a recorder's court hearing for James R. Childers, 17, on charges of blackjacking into a state of hysteria a negro who claimed he was "tending to his own business."

Childers appeared in court wearing on his collar the red lightning flash insignia of the Columbians, one of whose chartered aims was given as promoting "a progressive white community." With him was Homer L. Loomis, Jr., identified as local organizer and secretary of the secret order.

Learned To Hate Jews, Negroes

Hilderbrand quoted Loomis as saying his home was at Lawrenceville, Va., but just out of the Army, he had spent some time in New York where he "learned to hate Jews and negroes." Loomis added, the detective said, that he "decided to come South and start something."

Hilderbrand said Loomis stationed Childers as a "guard" at the home of a white family near where the attack occurred. He also referred to a report of other detectives that they had attended a Columbians meeting and that members "take it upon themselves to patrol streets, heck up and watch negroes in certain sections."

Wagner Says Brewster Sought "Headlines"

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31 (AP) — Sen. Wagner (D-NY) declared today that Sen. Brewster (R-Maine) had indulged in "a desperate measure to capture headlines for political gain" by his recent release of what the Maine Senator called a "long-suppressed report" on housing by the Senate War Investigating Committee.

Sen. Kilgore (D-WVA), chairman of the committee, said Tuesday that the report was only an inter-office memorandum prepared by a committee investigator. He added that the memorandum was not approved by committee counsel because its "sweeping conclusions" were not sufficiently documented.

Buds Fooled
U. S. Has Hodgepodge Of Weather

[By The Associated Press]

Buds burt into bloom in the Northeastern United States yesterday as temperatures shot into the 80s, making it one of the warmest Halloweens on record, but rescue parties had to battle waist-deep snow to reach isolated persons in the Rocky Mountain area. The unseasonable warmth brought new marks for the date in New England and New York City, which had a high of 80. Portland, Me., also reported 80, which was 10 degrees above the previous October 31 high, and Boston had a sizzling 81, breaking a 50-year record.

Sprouting of bulbs and budding of trees was noted in New England and Dr. Paul Dempsey of Massachusetts State College, said the spell of warm weather was certain to cause some damage.

In New York, where the Weather Bureau said this October was the warmest in the 75-year history of the office and also one of the driest, gardeners found rose bushes in bloom and many vegetable plants thriving.

Even the fish in eastern waters have been fooled. The New York Fishery Council said about 100 pounds of shad were caught recently in fresh water streams along the New Jersey coast, where the fish ordinarily go to spawn only in spring.

Far across the country in Utah, the early snows made rescue of 33 snowbound persons difficult but all were reported brought to safety or in no immediate danger. At Aberdeen, S. D., the mercury dipped to 23.

Unusually warm weather also prevailed in Southeastern states, with Miami listing 84, Atlanta 80, Charlotte N. C., 79 New Orleans 82, and Memphis 79 at noon. The normal mean temperature in Atlanta for the date is 57.

Nobel Prize Winner Says Japs May Inherit Bomb Effects For Centuries

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31 (AP)—Some Japanese exposed to the atomic bomb may transmit hereditary ill effects to their descendants for centuries, Dr. Herman J. Muller said tonight.

If they could foresee the results 1,000 years from now, he added, they might consider themselves more fortunate if the bomb had killed them.

Dr. Muller, geneticist at the University of Indiana, received reporters after being informed he had been awarded the Nobel Prize in medicine and physiology for work in heredity.

For 20 years he has been studying the effects of X-rays, and other rays similar to those of the A-bomb, in causing physical changes in insects and animals.

"A tiny fruit fly has thousands of genes, an agent for the transmission of hereditary characteristics," he said. "There is no reason to suppose that a human being has less.

"These genes may be changed by exposure to certain rays. This causes changes in the physical characteristics passed from parent to offspring. While the genes are changed immediately, the actual physical changes may not be manifest for generations—perhaps for 1,000 years in the case of human beings.

"The A-bomb rays are the kind that cause changes, and at Nagasaki and Hiroshima it is likely these changes will be manifest for 1,000 years. The effects pile up with the generations."

President Is Home-Bound To Cast Vote

Chief Executive May Make Platform Appearances In Missouri

ABOARD PRESIDENTIAL SPECIAL TRAIN EN ROUTE TO MISSOURI, Oct. 31 (AP)—President Truman traveled home today to vote in the Tuesday elections which will bear crucially on his job as Chief Executive for the next two years.

These elections, in which the voters will decide whether to give him a Democratic or Republican Congress to work with, are the first on a nationwide scale since Mr. Truman entered the White House.

For the most part, the President has steered clear of the fall campaigning, but there is a possibility of platform appearances in Missouri tomorrow.

"Operational Stop"

Presidential Secretary Charles Ross told a news conference in Washington that Mr. Truman might appear on the platform when his train reaches St. Louis at 10 a. m. (CST) and also at Jefferson City and Sedalia.

"We will be 15 minutes in St. Louis," Ross said. "The President might appear on the platform there."

Then he added: "No plans have been made. It will be a very brief operational stop and also for the purpose of letting off those who are not going beyond St. Louis."

He said the same possibilities applied to Jefferson City and Sedalia.

Will Pass Up Rally

Mr. Truman is passing up a hometown Democratic rally in Independence tomorrow night at which House Speaker Sam Rayburn is to speak, although Rayburn went along with him on his special train.

The White House said Mr. Truman planned to drive from Independence to Grandview, Mo., tomorrow night to visit with his 93-year-old mother, Mrs. Martha E. Truman, and his sister, Miss Mary Jane Truman.

On his last visit to Independence to vote in the Democratic primary in August, the President stayed away from nearby Kansas City despite his endorsement of Enos Axtell, who was nominated for Congress over Rep. Roger Slaughter (D). Independence is in a neighboring congressional district, represented by Jasper Bell (D).

Washington Hotel Strike Is Settled

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31 (AP)—The Washington hotel strike ended late today, with union and management accepting a compromise which the White House stepped in to offer because "the strike was interfering with operations of the government."

Eighteen hotels, variously affected but all hurt by the three-week walkout of 5,000 maids, waiters, cooks, bartenders and others, arranged to get back into normal operation as soon as possible.

Some hotel managements said it would take only minutes; others said a day or so.

Settlement meant an end to community losses which the Washington Evening Star had calculated at more than $3,000,000—including indirect as well as direct losses.

Settlement was on the basis of a pay raise of six cents an hour for employes who do not receive tips and three cents for those who do.

48 Estonians Soon May Call U.S. Home

MIAMI, Fla., Oct. 31 (AP)—Prospects brightened today that the 48 Estonian political refugees who sailed to this country from Sweden might soon call the land of the Stars and Stripes home.

Thomas B. Shoemaker, deputy commissioner of immigration, told the group in sympathetic terms that deportation had been stayed until another order is issued by Attorney General Tom Clark. He said he did not know when it would be forthcoming and added there was no hurry.

Shoemaker was sent here by Clark after President Truman had expressed concern over the Estonians' plight. He said he would make a full investigation and report back to Clark.

Lids Removed From Neckties, Hats, Handbags

10,000 Paid Employes Of Agency's 1,642 Boards To Be Dismissed

SILVER AND CLEANING POWDERS DECONTROLLED

Ceilings Lifted From Bathing Suits, Most Sports Accessories

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31 (AP)—The OPA tonight ordered its 1,642 local boards to close up shop November 4 and, pushing on with decontrol, took ceilings off hats, handbags, neckties and some other apparel.

Clothing removed from ceilings represented 10 per cent of the total, on a dollar basis. Other items decontrolled included silver, steel tubing and alloy steel, household scouring powders, and iron ore that is shipped after next January 1.

The clothing action, coming after the decontrol of shoes, was followed by a statement from the National Federation of Apparel Associations demanding that controls on all clothing be removed and saying that it is "time to quit messing up the economy for the sake of politics."

Decontrol "Through Pressure"

Leo F. Gentner, general manager of the association and former OPA official, said that decontrol is "being made effective through pressure and not because of statistical facts or data." Because of "inequities that now exist," he added, "the consumer would be far better off financially" if all controls were lifted.

The closing of the local boards, manned by 10,000 paid employes and 43,000 volunteers, means that the little work left for them to do will be shifted to the 61 OPA regional offices and the 650 area rent control offices. The 10,000 paid employes — some supervisors and 8,613 clerks—will be dismissed.

In New York, an OPA spokesman estimated Porter's move would lead to dismissal of 2,300 paid workers in the Second Region, consisting of New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Delaware, Maryland and the District of Columbia.

The regional office said that at the time Porter's order was issued it had jurisdiction over 208 price control boards compared with the peak figure of 672 war price and rationing boards in July, 1945. At that time, the region had 18,674 paid employes and 16,804 volunteer workers.

Legal Basis For Food Controls

A legal basis for continued price controls on sugar, syrups, molasses and rice—the only foods still controlled—was provided by the Agriculture Department during the day. It reported these items still scarce in issuing the monthly list of farm commodities in short supply as required by the Price Control Act.

The cleaning powders freed from ceilings are those which contain no more than five per cent soap. Controls were retained on soap and soap products.

Bathing suits, and uniforms and accessories for most sports were among the clothing items decontrolled. This order represented a further relaxation of controls in the clothing field following yesterday decontrol of shoes.

OPA Order Will Close 15 Maryland Boards

BALTIMORE, Oct. 31 (AP)—Fifteen consolidated price control boards in Maryland will close next Monday under an order issued by the OPA in Washington tonight.

The OPA order affected its 1,624 local boards.

With the close of the Maryland offices, 103 employes will be released to effect a payroll saving of $231,446 annually, OPA officials here said.

At one time, the state had 30 War Price and Rationing Boards but the number was cut gradually through consolidation.

Gov. O'Conor Applauds Proposal For World Armaments Reduction

BALTIMORE, Oct. 31 (AP)—The proposal for a general reduction of armaments was termed "one of the most heartening aspects of America's international relationships" by Gov. Herbert O'Conor in an address at Towson tonight.

The proposal, which included banishment of the atomic bomb and other weapons of mass destruction, was advanced by Russia's delegate to the United Nations.

O'Conor, whose speech was broadcast over a Baltimore radio station, spoke at a campaign rally along with his running mate, William Preston Lane, Jr., Democratic gubernatorial candidate.

Lane devoted most of his address, also broadcast, to attacks on the record of his opponent, Theodore McKeldin, as mayor of Baltimore. The mayor's "fumbling" with a city "tax mess" was scored also by State Sen. L. Harold Sothoron (D-Prince George's) in a talk earlier today.

In other campaign developments, the Independent Citizen's Committee of the Arts, Sciences and Professions tonight announced its support of Lane. The committee, however, took no stand in the contest for the Senate, finding both Gov. O'Conor and his opponent, Republican D. John Markey, "unsatisfactory."

O'Conor said in his address at Towson:

"Every thoughtful American will subscribe. I am confident, to America's reaction to this proposal

Baltimore Police Probe Blast-Fire Which Killed Four

Water-Front Roundup Launched After Bombing Of Rooming House

BALTIMORE, Oct. 31 (AP) — A water-front roundup of all persons "with whom we have ever had any trouble" was launched by police tonight after the bombing of a rooming house in which four merchant seamen were killed and five other persons injured.

Police Commissioner Hamilton R. Atkinson, who termed the incendiary bombing "one of the worst crimes" in the city's history, said he was taking personal charge of the investigation.

Detectives and Eastern District police combed the water-front area in search of clues and announced they had questioned a number of associates of the dead seamen.

Empty Can Is Clue

Principal clues in the investigation, meanwhile were an empty can which smelled of gasoline and a patrolman's report he saw a man running from the scene.

Battalion Chief Thomas Heagerty, of the Fire Department, said the rooming house was set afire by a home-made incendiary bomb apparently thrown through the building's front window — the same window shattered a week ago by a monkey wrench.

The wrench, police said, carried a note reading:

"Stop rooming Finks in your house. This is your final warning."

(Union officials described a "Fink" as a labor spy.)

The dead seamen, all Latin-Americans, were identified at Johns Hopkins Hospital as Manuel Balbero, Marco Tilio Espinoza, Paul Santanas and Ramon Romero. Romero died of burns several hours after the blaze. The other three were taken dead from the debris.

Proprietor Identifies Victims

Jesse Rodriguez, proprietor of the rooming house, identified them. He said he had been acting as hiring agent for Panamanian Steamship Lines and had received permission at union headquarters yesterday to ship some of his men to one of the firm's ships at Newport News, Va. He said the dead men were union seamen.

Police blamed the incident on waterfront tension developed during the recently settled nationwide maritime strike. The manning of foreign-registry ships was a point of contention among seamen during the stoppage.

Mine Owners

subsequent restoration of the mines to the owners. Differences over unionization of supervisors and other issues, however, would remain.

Lewis has not tipped his hand on wage demands, but the opinion is general that Lewis will ask for a shorter work week without loss in take-home pay. The maximum now is $75.25 for a 54-hour week of six nine-hour days including "travel" time.

The Bureau of Labor Statistics says that in August the average soft coal miner worked 42.4 hours and his average pay was $62.37. The fact that most other industries already have cut back to a post-war 40-hour week might enable the government to grant some concession to the miners without setting a higher wage pattern for other industries.

Lewis will open talks with Collisson tomorrow on re-negotiation of the contract. Collisson and Secretary of the Interior Krug have not agreed to scrap the settlement reached with Lewis May 29, but have granted Lewis' request to confer.

STATES U. S. AIM— Warren R. Austin, chief of the United States delegation, tells United Nations Assembly members that the United States supports to the fullest Russia's call for world arms limitation, but would not repeat its previous error of disarming alone.

Churches Combine For Fund Drives

AP Newsfeatures

That cooperative evangelism can help churches raise funds as well as save souls has been demonstrated by 28 churches in Council Bluffs, Ia., says the October issue of the Federal Council Bulletin.

In an article describing how the Council Bluffs churches won the first National Achievement Award given by United Church Canvass for the best united campaign conducted during 1945, the publication credits H. A. Paulson, director of the canvass, with discovering new techniques.

Paulson, a Baptist sales representative for a men's clothing concern, adopted several slogans for the united campaign, the article states. These included: "Make it a dollar a week and over!", "Give as much to missions as for current expenses" and "Let's drop coins for Jesus!"

Telling how the first united fund drive was organized in 1943 by eight Council Bluffs churches, the publication says the joint campaign "proved so satisfying to the laymen of the churches of Council Bluffs that they have organized a United Protestant Church Brotherhood — now in its third year—which sponsors the United Church Canvass every year."

New British Plane Is Operated Like Auto

LONDON (AP)—Britain's "flying motorcar," the Chrislea Ace, a four-seat air runabout which its manufacturers say will cruise for nearly 300 miles at 110 miles an hour on 15 gallons of gasoline is now undergoing test flights.

It comes closer, aviation reporters say, to being an automobile of the skies than anything yet built in Britain. It will sell for slightly under $4,000 and is expected to be on the market in quantity within a year.

A patent three-in-one steering wheel — finished in ivory — operates rudder, elevator and ailerons.

To turn to the left you carry out a double movement with the steering wheel, pulling it to the left to operate the rudder and twisting it in the same direction to apply ailerons. When you want to climb you tilt the wheel forward and pull it down to lower the nose. The designer has also fitted a foot accelerator in addition to the hand trottle.

The Ace has a tricycle undercarriage and brakes.

Settle 100-Year Suit

DAVOS, Switzerland —(AP)—Voters of the community of Davos recently voted to pay the neighboring community of Fideris $4,500 to settle a lawsuit which had been on the books almost 100 years. The suit was filed in connection with a road construction project undertaken jointly by the two communities.

Union Absolved Of Libel Charge

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31 (AP) — A jury absolved the AFL International Teamsters Union today of libel charges by former Naval Lt. Randolph Dickins, Jr., growing out of the "Battle of the Statler Hotel."

The "battle" was a fist fight following a union dinner which the late President Roosevelt addressed during the 1944 campaign.

Dickens sought $200,000 charging the union's official publication libelled him in its account of the affray.

Thomas J. Bradley, counsel for Dickins, announced he will ask the Court of Appeals to reverse the verdict. He told a reporter the Federal District Court jury failed to understand the evidence.

The article on which the case was based accused Dickins and former Lt. Comdr. James H. Suddeth of being "under the influence of liquor" and making profane remarks about the late President.

Gov. O'Conor

as put forth by the chairman of this country's delegation to the United Nations General Assembly yesterday.

"America's willingness to embrace disarmament goes quite a distance beyond Russia's proposal. Not only are we on record as willing to disclose the nature and extent of all forces outside the confines of this country, as Russia proposed, but we are ready to disclose the extent of all mobilized forces at home as well as abroad."

"This is the only way an honest approach to world disarmament can be made," O'Conor asserted.

The candidate said, however, that America should not repeat its "mistake" after World War I—that of disarming "only to find that other nations had evaded their pledges."

At the same time, O'Conor said that his course in dealing with foreign affairs in the Senate, if elected, would "proceed from one simple conviction."

He said he was "convinced that in our time danger of major war arises from fear of war. To the extent we remove fear, in the East and West, we reduce the one cause of war against which mankind today must guard."

Mayor Theodore McKeldin, Republican gubernatorial aspirant, "increased the tax rate from $2.65 per $100 to $2.99, the highest in the history of the City of Baltimore," Lane declared.

"With all this and other increases in city revenues x x x the newspapers have been full of articles x x x showing the deplorable conditions x x x in the public schools," Lane said.

"The streets are still dirty, although he promised to keep them clean."

Ghost Of Houdini Fails To Appear At Detroit Seance

DETROIT, Oct. 31 (AP)—The ghost of Harry Houdini failed to appear tonight at a seance held by a group of Detroit magicians on the 20th anniversary of the great magician's death.

Promptly at the stroke of midnight, Robert Ungerwitter, a Detroit magician, called upon Houdini's spirit to make itself known in a darkened room.

To help the spirit recognize familiar surroundings, a pair of handcuffs once used by Houdini — locked together for the test by Delbert Raymond, police detective and amateur magician — and an autographed book and picture of Houdini were placed upon a table.

At the end of five minutes of silence, Magician Karrell Fox, who arranged the demonstration, announced:

"This test did not get through."

Rome Police Seize Bombing Suspects

ROME, Oct. 31 (AP)—Police seized two suspects tonight for questioning in the time-bomb explosion which wrecked a wing of the blockading British Embassy earlier today.

The police said the suspects were an Italian and "a foreigner," both of whom were held for questioning. Carmine Bottino, chief of the political section of the Rome police, identified the Italian as Nicolino Palitta, 25, a native of Sardinia, who, he said, was removed seriously injured from the bomb wreckage and now is in a hospital. Bottino refused to identify the foreigner.

Authorities refused to say whether they were connected with three men and a women who fled from the vicinity of the Embassy and who were fired upon by police when they did not heed commands to stop.

A few minutes later the powerful blast that awoke half of Rome tore a gaping hole in the front of the Embassy to the depth of two rooms, and so cracked the heavy masonry of the three-story building that police said part of it might have to be pulled down.

Physician Will Receive Calls Via Radio Phone

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31 (AP)—Dr. George J. Weems, Huntington, Md., today became the nation's first physician to receive permission to operate a radio telephone service to receive calls from patients.

The Communications Commission authorized the radio system to help him furnish better medical service in the Huntington area. Calls from patients will be relayed from the land station to Dr. Weems while he is making calls in his automobile.

"This is the first application of its kind," the commission said.

Bookkeeper Held For Embezzlement

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., Oct. 31 (AP)—Assistant Chief of Detectives Charlie Pierce said tonight that William Arthur Nickel, 40, Freeport, L. I., was being held for New York authorities who allege he embezzled $650,000 from the Mergenthaler Linotype Company.

Nickel was arrested at a modest ocean front hotel by Detectives Ernest Harrison and Clarence Huddleston on a telegraphic warrant from Chief Inspector Martin Brown, of New York. Pierce said Nickel had agreed to waive extradition.

Nickel told Pierce he had been employed by the company for 20 years and was a bookkeeper and auditor. He said he last saw his wife and 17-year-old daughter Sunday night and arrived here yesterday.

Informed he was wanted for embezzlement of $650,000, Pierce said Nickel replied:

"You're wrong; it was $750,000."

In New York, police said Nickel earned $60 a week as a cashier and voucher clerk and had obtained the money by endorsing checks made out to firms with which the Mergenthaler Company did business as well as non-existent firms.

Campaigner Suffers Political Handicap

LEBANON, Ky.—(AP)—It had to happen right before the election, too.

Freshman Rep. Frank Chelf of Lebanon (D-Ky) bruised his handshaking hand pounding a table, as he drove home a point in a campaign address.

Then motoring home, Chelf had to fix a flat tire. While he was favoring his injured hand, the jack fell and broke a bone in the right hand.

So the candidate wound up the campaign shaking hands with the left, his right hand in a cast.

Owners Of K9 Veteran Denied Medical Benefits

WATERVLIET, N. Y., Oct. 31 (AP) —The regional Veterans' Administration office ruled today that Topper, Troy K-9 veteran whose owners claimed over exertion in service had weakened the German shepherd's heart, could not collect medical benefits available to GIs.

"The history of the legislation under which K-9 Corps was created indicates xxx" that the dogs were "surrendered to the government unconditionally, without legal claim of any kind on the part of the owner against the government," Director Charles C. Adams explained.

Mrs. Irwin Wheeler, co-owner of Topper with her brother, Horace Turner, said at her Troy home that their claim might be taken to higher authorities.

Baltimore Police Probe Blast-Fire Which Killed Four

Water-Front Roundup Launched After Bombing Of Rooming House

BALTIMORE, Oct. 31 (AP) — A water-front roundup of all persons "with whom we have ever had any trouble" was launched by police tonight after the bombing of a rooming house in which four merchant seamen were killed and five other persons injured.

Police Commissioner Hamilton R. Atkinson, who termed the incendiary bombing "one of the worst crimes" in the city's history, said he was taking personal charge of the investigation.

Detectives and Eastern District police combed the water-front area in search of clues and announced they had questioned a number of associates of the dead seamen.

Empty Can Is Clue

Principal clues in the investigation, meanwhile were an empty can which smelled of gasoline and a patrolman's report he saw a man running from the scene.

Battalion Chief Thomas Heagerty, of the Fire Department, said the rooming house was set afire by a home-made incendiary bomb apparently thrown through the building's front window — the same window shattered a week ago by a monkey wrench.

The wrench, police said, carried a note reading:

"Stop rooming Finks in your house. This is your final warning."

(Union officials described a "Fink" as a labor spy.)

The dead seamen, all Latin-Americans, were identified at Johns Hopkins Hospital as Manuel Balbero, Marco Tilio Espinoza, Paul Santanas and Ramon Romero. Romero died of burns several hours after the blaze. The other three were taken dead from the debris.

Proprietor Identifies Victims

Jesse Rodriguez, proprietor of the rooming house, identified them. He said he had been acting as hiring agent for Panamanian Steamship Lines and had received permission at union headquarters yesterday to ship some of his men to one of the firm's ships at Newport News, Va. He said the dead men were union seamen.

Police blamed the incident on waterfront tension developed during the recently settled nationwide maritime strike. The manning of foreign-registry ships was a point of contention among seamen during the stoppage.

Mine Owners

subsequent restoration of the mines to the owners. Differences over unionization of supervisors and other issues, however, would remain.

Lewis has not tipped his hand on wage demands, but the opinion is general that Lewis will ask for a shorter work week without loss in take-home pay. The maximum now is $75.25 for a 54-hour week of six nine-hour days including "travel" time.

The Bureau of Labor Statistics says that in August the average soft coal miner worked 42.4 hours and his average pay was $62.37. The fact that most other industries already have cut back to a post-war 40-hour week might enable the government to grant some concession to the miners without setting a higher wage pattern for other industries.

Lewis will open talks with Collisson tomorrow on re-negotiation of the contract. Collisson and Secretary of the Interior Krug have not agreed to scrap the settlement reached with Lewis May 29, but have granted Lewis' request to confer.

Churches Combine For Fund Drives

AP Newsfeatures

That cooperative evangelism can help churches raise funds as well as save souls has been demonstrated by 28 churches in Council Bluffs, Ia., says the October issue of the Federal Council Bulletin.

In an article describing how the Council Bluffs churches won the first National Achievement Award given by United Church Canvass for the best united campaign conducted during 1945, the publication credits H. A. Paulson, director of the canvass, with discovering new techniques.

Paulson, a Baptist sales representative for a men's clothing concern, adopted several slogans for the united campaign, the article states. These included: "Make it a dollar a week and over!", "Give as much to missions as for current expenses" and "Let's drop coins for Jesus!"

Telling how the first united fund drive was organized in 1943 by eight Council Bluffs churches, the publication says the joint campaign "proved so satisfying to the laymen of the churches of Council Bluffs that they have organized a United Protestant Church Brotherhood — now in its third year—which sponsors the United Church Canvass every year."

New British Plane Is Operated Like Auto

LONDON (AP)—Britain's "flying motorcar," the Chrislea Ace, a four-seat air runabout which its manufacturers say will cruise for nearly 300 miles at 110 miles an hour on 15 gallons of gasoline is now undergoing test flights.

It comes closer, aviation reporters say, to being an automobile of the skies than anything yet built in Britain. It will sell for slightly under $4,000 and is expected to be on the market in quantity within a year.

A patent three-in-one steering wheel — finished in ivory — operates rudder, elevator and ailerons.

To turn to the left you carry out a double movement with the steering wheel, pulling it to the left to operate the rudder and twisting it in the same direction to apply ailerons. When you want to climb you tilt the wheel forward and pull it down to lower the nose. The designer has also fitted a foot accelerator in addition to the hand trottle.

The Ace has a tricycle undercarriage and brakes.

Union Absolved Of Libel Charge

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31 (AP) — A jury absolved the AFL International Teamsters Union today of libel charges by former Naval Lt. Randolph Dickins, Jr., growing out of the "Battle of the Statler Hotel."

The "battle" was a fist fight following a union dinner which the late President Roosevelt addressed during the 1944 campaign.

Dickens sought $200,000 charging the union's official publication libelled him in its account of the affray.

Thomas J. Bradley, counsel for Dickins, announced he will ask the Court of Appeals to reverse the verdict. He told a reporter the Federal District Court jury failed to understand the evidence.

The article on which the case was based accused Dickins and former Lt. Comdr. James H. Suddeth of being "under the influence of liquor" and making profane remarks about the late President.

"America's willingness to embrace disarmament goes quite a distance beyond Russia's proposal. Not only are we on record as willing to disclose the nature and extent of all forces outside the confines of this country, as Russia proposed, but we are ready to disclose the extent of all mobilized forces at home as well as abroad."

"This is the only way an honest approach to world disarmament can be made," O'Conor asserted.

The candidate said, however, that America should not repeat its "mistake" after World War I—that of disarming "only to find that other nations had evaded their pledges."

At the same time, O'Conor said that his course in dealing with foreign affairs in the Senate, if elected, would "proceed from one simple conviction."

He said he was "convinced that in our time danger of major war arises from fear of war. To the extent we remove fear, in the East and West, we reduce the one cause of war against which mankind today must guard."

Mayor Theodore McKeldin, Republican gubernatorial aspirant, "increased the tax rate from $2.65 per $100 to $2.99, the highest in the history of the City of Baltimore," Lane declared.

"With all this and other increases in city revenues x x x the newspapers have been full of articles x x x showing the deplorable conditions x x x in the public schools," Lane said.

"The streets are still dirty, although he promised to keep them clean."

Ghost Of Houdini Fails To Appear At Detroit Seance

DETROIT, Oct. 31 (AP)—The ghost of Harry Houdini failed to appear tonight at a seance held by a group of Detroit magicians on the 20th anniversary of the great magician's death.

Promptly at the stroke of midnight, Robert Ungerwitter, a Detroit magician, called upon Houdini's spirit to make itself known in a darkened room.

To help the spirit recognize familiar surroundings, a pair of handcuffs once used by Houdini — locked together for the test by Delbert Raymond, police detective and amateur magician — and an autographed book and picture of Houdini were placed upon a table.

At the end of five minutes of silence, Magician Karrell Fox, who arranged the demonstration, announced:

"This test did not get through."

Rome Police Seize Bombing Suspects

ROME, Oct. 31 (AP)—Police seized two suspects tonight for questioning in the time-bomb explosion which wrecked a wing of the blockading British Embassy earlier today.

The police said the suspects were an Italian and "a foreigner," both of whom were held for questioning. Carmine Bottino, chief of the political section of the Rome police identified the Italian as Nicolino Palitta, 25, a native of Sardinia who, he said, was removed seriously injured from the bomb wreckage and now is in a hospital. Bottino refused to identify the foreigner.

Authorities refused to say whether they were connected with three men and a women who fled from the vicinity of the Embassy and who were fired upon by police when they did not heed commands to stop.

A few minutes later the powerful blast that awoke half of Rome tore a gaping hole in the front of the Embassy to the depth of two rooms and so cracked the heavy masonry of the three-story building that police said part of it might have to be pulled down.

"This is the first application of its kind," the commission said.

Election Will Start Real Fight For GOP Presidential Nomination

Gallup Will Take Popularity Poll To Measure Tuesday's Outcome

By DR. GEORGE GALLUP
Director, American Institute of Public Opinion

PRINCETON, N. J., Oct. 31—The outcome of next week's election, with its expected Republican gains, will start one of the hottest fights in history for the next GOP presidential nomination.

The man who gets that nomination will have a better chance of becoming president than any Republic air has had since 1928.

What effect next Tuesday's election will have on the political standing of such presidential possibilities as Governor Thomas E. Dewey of New York, John W. Bricker of Ohio, who is running for the Senate, Arthur H. Vandenberg of Michigan, up for Senate re-election, and Earl Warren, California's governor, is something that all political observers are thinking about.

Completes Survey

The Institute has just completed a survey among Republican voters to ascertain their choices for 1948 at the present time. It will repeat the survey immediately after next Tuesday's election, to see how the returns of that election affect the popular standing of the various men.

Governor Dewey and Harold E. Stassen are the top two in popularity today, followed by Bricker, Senator Vandenberg, Senator Robert A. Taft, and Governor Warren. Generals Douglas A. MacArthur and Dwight D. Eisenhower also receive prominent mention, although General Eisenhower has remained aloof from politics.

All those Republican voters naming a choice today for the 1948 GOP nomination divide as follows:

Dewey	40%
Stassen	22
Bricker	8
Vandenberg	7
Taft	6
Warren	6
MacArthur	5
Eisenhower	2
Saltonstall	1
Hoover	1
Others	2

Governor Edward Martin Pennsylvania, Governor Dwight Green of Illinois, Governor Raymond Baldwin of Connecticut, Former Justice Owen J. Roberts, and Henry Cabot Lodge, Jr., of Massachusetts, are among those in the category of "others" in the table above.

Dewey, Stassen About Even

Today's results show no marked change of sentiment since the last poll on the subject reported August 23. At that time Dewey led with 37 per cent, to 25 per cent for Stassen and 9 per cent for Bricker. The popularity of the remaining men in the list shows virtually no change since August.

In today's balloting approximately one Republican voter in three (33 per cent) named no particular choice of Republican candidate at this time.

One interesting sidelight of the poll is that Dewey and Stassen rank about equally in popularity among voters who were Democratic in 1944 but say they are shifting parties this year to vote for the GOP in the congressional election in their district.

The preference of these "shift" voters included in the survey, who play a great part in determining the outcome of the 1948 presidential race, are as follows:

Dewey, 34%; Stassen, 31%; MacArthur, 7%; Bricker, 5%; Taft, 5%; Vandenberg, 5%; Warren, 4%; Eisenhower, 4%; Saltonstall, 2%; Eric Johnston, 1%; Others 2%.

Local Farm Security Administration Has New Name And New Program

Farmers' Home Administration Program Is Effective Today

The local Farm Security Administration office will open this morning with a new name and a new program of loans and services to Allegany County farmers.

County Supervisor B. Beeson Snyder announced at his office, in the Garrett National Bank Building, Oakland, yesterday, that the new Farmers' Home Administration program, established by Congress at its last session to simplify and improve credit services for farmers, is effective as of today and that the local office will be doing business as the FHA rather than FSA from today forward.

Snyder said the new program will follow closely the 10-year-old Farm Security program of loans and supervision for farmers who have difficulty locating satisfactory credit through standard credit channels.

The Farm Security operating loans for feed, seed, fertilizer, tools, livestock and other non real estate expenses will be replaced by FHA operating loans at the same rates, terms and interest (one-to-five year loans at five per cent, up to $3,500) but with a limit of $5,000 in loans to any one farmer at any one time.

In Allegany County 15 farmers are now financing their operations with loans of this type.

The Farm Security loans for Farm Ownership, made under the Bankhead-Jones Farm Tenant Act, will continue much as before but with interest raised from 3 to 3½ per cent. These loans are 40 year credits for outright purchase and repair of family-type farms. The maxmium loan to be made in Allegany County has been increased from $5,097 to $10,000 under the terms of new legislation.

The new law also provides a program for insurance of mortgages on family-type farms which gives the farmer for the first time an equivalent of the insured mortgages which finance city-dwellers' homes. The insurance will guarantee repayment of 90 per cent of the face value of loans made under the same terms as the direct Farm Ownership loans. Terms will be 40 years at 3½ per cent with one per cent deducted from the lender's return to cover cost of insurance.

Snyder explained that preference in all types of FHA credit will be given to veterans of any war, which will for the time being at least, virtually eliminate the possibility of ownership loans to non-veterans.

The ending of the FSA program after 10 years of work in Allegany County marks the close of the depression-born agency's work with low-income farmers. In its work here, aid has been extended to 56 farm families.

Governor Edward Martin Pennsylvania, Governor Dwight Green of Illinois, Governor Raymond Baldwin of Connecticut, Former Justice Owen J. Roberts, and Henry Cabot Lodge, Jr., of Massachusetts, are among those in the category of "others" in the table above.

Dewey, Stassen About Even

Today's results show no marked change of sentiment since the last poll on the subject reported August 23. At that time Dewey led with 37 per cent, to 25 per cent for Stassen and 9 per cent for Bricker. The popularity of the remaining men in the list shows virtually no change since August.

In today's balloting approximately one Republican voter in three (33 per cent) named no particular choice of Republican candidate at this time.

One interesting sidelight of the poll is that Dewey and Stassen rank about equally in popularity among voters who were Democratic in 1944 but say they are shifting parties this year to vote for the GOP in the congressional election in their district.

The preference of these "shift" voters included in the survey, who play a great part in determining the outcome of the 1948 presidential race, are as follows:

Dewey, 34%; Stassen, 31%; MacArthur, 7%; Bricker, 5%; Taft, 5%; Vandenberg, 5%; Warren, 4%; Eisenhower, 4%; Saltonstall, 2%; Eric Johnston, 1%; Others 2%.

Local Farm Security Administration Has New Name And New Program

Farmers' Home Administration Program Is Effective Today

The local Farm Security Administration office will open this morning with a new name and a new program of loans and services to Allegany County farmers.

County Supervisor B. Beeson Snyder announced at his office, in the Garrett National Bank Building, Oakland, yesterday, that the new Farmers' Home Administration program, established by Congress at its last session to simplify and improve credit services for farmers, is effective as of today and that the local office will be doing business as the FHA rather than FSA from today forward.

Snyder said the new program will follow closely the 10-year-old Farm Security program of loans and supervision for farmers who have difficulty locating satisfactory credit through standard credit channels.

The Farm Security operating loans for feed, seed, fertilizer, tools, livestock and other non real estate expenses will be replaced by FHA operating loans at the same rates, terms and interest (one-to-five year loans at five per cent, up to $3,500) but with a limit of $5,000 in loans to any one farmer at any one time.

In Allegany County 15 farmers are now financing their operations with loans of this type.

The Farm Security loans for Farm Ownership, made under the Bankhead-Jones Farm Tenant Act, will continue much as before but with interest raised from 3 to 3½ per cent. These loans are 40 year credits for outright purchase and repair of family-type farms. The maxmium loan to be made in Allegany County has been increased from $5,097 to $10,000 under the terms of new legislation.

The new law also provides a program for insurance of mortgages on family-type farms which gives the farmer for the first time an equivalent of the insured mortgages which finance city-dwellers' homes. The insurance will guarantee repayment of 90 per cent of the face value of loans made under the same terms as the direct Farm Ownership loans. Terms will be 40 years at 3½ per cent with one per cent deducted from the lender's return to cover cost of insurance.

Snyder explained that preference in all types of FHA credit will be given to veterans of any war, which will for the time being at least, virtually eliminate the possibility of ownership loans to non-veterans.

The ending of the FSA program after 10 years of work in Allegany County marks the close of the depression-born agency's work with low-income farmers. In its work here, aid has been extended to 56 farm families.

Vets Have Understanding Supporter In Colonel Markey

Veterans of Maryland should not overlook the fact that in Col. D. John Markey, Republican candidate for the United States Senate, they have a friend who knows their every need, and who will see to it that their interests are protected should he be successful at the polls next Tuesday.

Col. Markey came up from the ranks as a soldier in three wars, beginning with the Spanish-American conflict when he ran away from home to enlist at the age of 15. He fought through World Wars I and II. During that time he absorbed the hard knocks that befall a soldier, and his military career afforded him the opportunity to rub elbows with men of every walk of life, to study their habits and characteristics, and to acquaint himself with their problems of life.

Col. Markey displayed the unusual talents as a soldier that won for him merited advancements in the ranks, to be climaxed when his superiors elevated him to the position enjoyed at the time of his retirement a few months ago. They recognized in him a leader, and in the last years of his service he was given the responsibility of training more than 60,000 men for the grueling days they would face on the battlefields.

His military training and the experience gained through his close association with men of every type will stand him in good stead, as a member of the United States Senate, in helping to mold the future policies of our country, and in giving understanding aid to veterans. He is a man of outstanding integrity and sterling character.

During his aggressive campaign now coming to a close, he has outlined a well-rounded program of purpose, and, being the military man he is, will fill a long-felt need in the legislative branch of the government. He has had an opportunity to study the workings of government at long range, and is well equipped to play an important part in bringing to an end the siege of confusion and abuses of peoples' rights. He has said one of his aims as a United States Senator will be to seek relief for the individuals burdened with taxation as a result of mismanagement in government. He is one of the many Republicans up for election who are determined to bring to an end the extravagance of thirteen years standing.

Col. Markey is equally familiar with our foreign affairs and the knowledge gained during his military career will permit him to take his place in the front ranks of the supposedly more seasoned lawmakers, whether they be lawyers by profession, industrialists or former governors. His familiarity with the workings of those who would undermind this government permits him to speak with authority. In this connection he has voiced the opinion of thousands of Marylanders when he expressed his concern over the "apparently steady advances being made by subversive and Communistic elements within our government." He is determined that Washington shall be cleansed of those who pose as Americans and work, on the payroll of the taxpayers, through the ranks of organized labor, and fraternities, and even churches, to create discontent and unrest, with the sole aim of destroying our economic system, our free enterprise, and the freedom of life of the individual.

The voters should keep in mind the qualifications of this soldier when they go into the voting booth next Tuesday. To make sure that New Dealism, controlled defeatism and corruption, that have created a constant reign of confusion, are swept out of Washington, put an X mark after the name of Col. D John Markey.

The Prize Boner Of The 1946 Campaign

On the eve of the Democratic Party's greatest national defeat in eighteen years, it is interesting to speculate what was the prize boner of the Democratic campaign. There were many, of course, including the big meat famine brought about by Truman's insistence on extension of the OPA far into peacetime.

But perhaps overshadowing even this as the prize boner was the endorsement by the Russian press and radio of candidates backed by the Political Action Committee of the CIO, all Democrats. It was obvious that the Russians were only trying to help their friends here, but it was an admission that Moscow hopes to prevert the American form of government to communism. It was proof that the reds see in the CIO a force friendly to such change.

The reaction to the Moscow intervention in the election should be a warning to the rank and file of labor about the direction in which they are being led. It should serve notice to CIO leaders that an alliance with Russia will only hasten their undoing.

Season Of Scents

Autumn not only is the most colorful of seasons, but it also is the most odorous. The fragrance of Spring blossoms and the scent of Summer's new-mown hay are faint emanations when compared with the pungent odor of burning leaves. At no other season does cookery produce such enticing smells as Autumn's ketchup and chili sauce, apple butter, pumpkin and mince pies.

Then there's the odor of moth balls on clothing and blankets, the "hot" smell as stoves and furnaces are started for the first time, the aroma of tar being used to patch streets in preparation for Winter, the redolence of paint and cleaning fluid, parfum de skunk on the crisp night air.

Yes, even a person who was blind and deaf would know when it was Fall.

PAIN IN THE SACROILIAC REGION

BETTER BABIES THRU PROPER DIET

THE diet of the expectant mother is extremely important. When it is adequate and contains sufficient proteins, minerals and vitamins, not only will her health be protected but normal growth and development of the babe are encouraged. In this respect, the physician is concerned about the current shortages, especially of meat.

Many experiments have been performed which serve to stress the need of proper nutrition at this time. Recently Toronto scientists made a study of three groups of women during the last half of the term. One hundred and twenty were in the low income brackets and lived on sketchy meals. An additional 90 were in the same classification but were given extra rations of milk, eggs, cheese, oranges, tomatoes, wheat germ oil, and vitamin D. A third group of 170 had the means of purchasing all the essential foods.

When the results were analyzed, it was found that many in the first series had miscarriages, premature births, and stillbirths. By contrast, the others enjoyed better health throughout pregnancy and bore strong infants.

Another more striking investigation was conducted by Burke who followed 216 subjects on various types of diets. Sixty-eight per cent of the mothers whose eating habits were excellent or good had no complications during the entire period. Furthermore, 42 per cent of the children delivered were superior; another 52 per cent had one or occasionally two minor physical counts against them. The average weight of these infants, was 8 pounds, 8 ounces and length, 20.7 inches. Few were under 7 pounds.

The story was different in undernourished women. Only 42 per cent went thru the ordeal without any trouble. An equal number encountered toxemia. Concurrently, 67 per cent of the infants were below par physically. Some did not survive. A few had congenital defects or were underdeveloped in some way other than weight. Prematurity was common. Another 25 per cent were only in fair condition. The average weight of this group was 5 pounds, 13 ounces, and length, 18.8 inches.

The comparison is impressive and should make every prospective mother understand what she should not eat and why as well as what she should eat and why. Apparently it is not a question of quantity but quality.

A well balanced regimen provides enough protein, calcium, phosphorus, iron, and vitamins A, C, D, and B. The bulk of these elements is distributed in relatively few items. For example, a quart of milk will satisfy the calcium allowance and supply 32 grams of protein. Moreover, it yields considerable phosphorus, riboflavin, thiamin, and vitamin A.

The daily menus should also include meat, eggs, butter, fruits, vegetables, and cereals. Many authorities recommend supplementary doses of vitamin D. Edibles which consist mainly of fat and carbohydrate make up the remainder of the diet but do not always furnish the basic requirements. These constituents are high in calories and when taken in excess, lead to overweight. As a general rule, the mother-to-be need not gain more than 25 pounds above the ideal weight for height, age, and build.

TUBERCULIN TEST

A.S.R. writes: Is a negative tuberculin test positive proof that one does not have tuberculosis?

REPLY

As a general rule, yes, altho there are exceptions. The patient may have a freshly acquired infection which is so recent that the reaction has not had a chance to become positive. A negative response may also be obtained if the individual is quite ill from another infectious disease of a lingering illness, as well as in those whose lesions have been inactive for many years.

OVERSTIMULATED

T. L. writes: What is a simple name for overactive peristalsis?

REPLY

None, that I know of. The term refers to increased contractions of the intestinal wall, which causes the digesting food to be passed along quickly. Sometimes the condition is accompanied by pain, as in spastic colitis. In others, diarrhea results.

PROTRACTED SIEGE

F. R. writes: Why does it take so long to get over yellow jaundice?

REPLY

Convalescence is an individual problem and depends upon the severity of the attack. There is probably no other disease in which the physician is so careful in telling the patient how long he will be ill. Some cases recover in two or three days; others require months.

TAKE IT STRAIGHT

R. H. writes: I have been told that orange juice should never be taken pure—that it should be diluted with water. Is this so?

REPLY

No truth in this statement, as evidenced by the fact that thousands use it undiluted.

NASAL MEMBRANES

R. T. writes. What is meant by vasomotor changes in the nose?

REPLY

This is an allergic condition, somewhat similar to hay fever, altho pollens are not responsible. Some sufferers are sensitive to dust, cosmetics, medications, or certain foods. If the nonallergic type, glandular disturbances may be responsible.

GRAVELLIKE SENSATION

Mrs. M. M. writes: For a few months I have been troubled with a sandy feeling in the spaces between the fingers. Lotions and creams do no good. What could this be?

REPLY

In the absence of a rash, this is probably a nervous reaction. Perhaps your physician can prescribe a mild sedative until the sensation disappears.

THE WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

U. S. Firms Once Again Start Flirting With Nazis Business; Rogge Report Shows U. S.-Nazi Business Political Contacts Before War

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31—If President Truman had read the Rogge report on Nazi tie-ups with high-up Americans, he might well have saved John Rogge's dismissal from the Justice Department.

For, in reading the report, he probably would have compared it with certain things which are happening between Americans and Nazis today.

One of the most serious handicaps to U. S. war preparedness was the business tie-ups between American and German firms. I. G. Farben's monopoly agreement with Standard Oil of New Jresey prevented the United States from developing synthetic rubber and kept the American public without rubber tires for four years. The monopoly between the Aluminum Corporation of America and I. G. Farben kept magnesium away from the American aircraft industry and retarded our production of airplanes. Bausch and Lomb's secret agreement with Carl Zeiss was extremely detrimental to the U. S. Navy on submarine sights.

Today, however, some interesting things are happening in Germany all over again. Among the first Americans to arrive in Germany after V-E Day were three vice-presidents of International Telephone and Telegraph. One of them, K. E. Stockford, was even dressed in a U. S. Army uniform. The other two were Mark Sandstrum and Frank Page.

Nazi Business Comeback

Significantly the men they conferred with were Baron Kurt von Schroeder, the big Nazi banker who financed Hitler, and Dr. Gerard Westrick, the Hitler agent who came to the United States in 1940 to urge American business leaders, including I. T. & T., to keep the United States neutral. These two powerful Nazi figures were not then prisoners but lived in a German castle—thanks to their friendship with American big business.

All this happened just before the end of the war.

Now to get the significance, you have to study the suppressed Rogge report to see what happened at the start of the war. President Truman obviously intends that this report shall stay suppressed, but this column has obtained a copy and is able to publish Westrick's own version of his attempt to prevent the United States from aiding the Allies.

It will be remembered that Hitler's whole strategy was to bring all of Europe to its knees before lethargic U. S. public opinion could realize what was happening. To this end Dr. Westrick tells the rest of the story.

"Westrick was well equipped with money," according to the testimony of von Strempel, secretary of the German Embassy in Washington. "He could use funds a double way. He had a dollar fund and he said he could influence prominent businessmen through unfreezing their blocked credits in Germany.

"According to Thomsen (Nazi Ambassador in Washington), Westrick received a salary from the Embassy of about $3,000 a month.

Westrick's Own Story

"This is Westrick's own account of his trip," continues the Rogge report.

"'I was a Berlin lawyer. My most important connection with American business was with International Telephone and Telegraph Company, whose president was Col. Sosthenes Behn. Behn was also a director of Standard Elektrizitass Gesellschaft (Westrick was president of this company) which was affiliated with International Telephone and Telegraph Company.

"'I also represented The Underwood Elliott-Fisher Company which owned a German company by the name of Mercedes Buremaschinen A. G.; the Eastman Kodak Company which owned the Kodak A. G.; the International Milk Corporation which owned a subsidiary in Hamburg and various others.

"'In 1939 I had a talk in Berlin with Secretary of State Keppler and Col. Sosthenes Behn. This discussion took place before September 1939. At the end of 1939, Keppler phoned me and told me that I should see Ambassador Dieckhoff, who had been the German Ambassador in Washington, and discuss my going over to the United States.

"'I told Dieckhoff that I could not make a decisive answer before discussing the matter with Col. Behn. I then saw Col. Behn either at the Hague in Holland or maybe in Beligum at Antwerp. I am not sure about this, but I think it was The Hague. I told Behn about the plan. Coming back to Berlin, I told Dieckhoff that I was willing to do the job. A few days later I had an interview with Ribbentrop himself.

"'Thereafter, I left Berlin and went to San Francisco by way of Siberia. From San Francisco I went to New York. My first talk with Ribbentrop was at the end of December 1939, or in the first days of January 1940. Among those I saw in the United States were Torkild Rieber of the Texas Company, Eberhard Faber of the Faber Company, James Mooney of General Motors, and Edsel Ford and Henry Ford. I first saw Edsel Ford, and when I got to New York, I got a phone call from the secretary of Henry Ford asking me to come again to see Henry Ford.

Keep U. S. Neutral!

"'I paid Mooney (of General Motors) a visit and one day he come to visit me in the Waldorf-Astoria, and on his own intiative he told me that he and a group of other people had the intention of seeing the President and trying to convince the President that he should insist on normal politicial relations between the United States and Germany. This was after Germany had invaded France, Belgium, and Norway. Mooney said:

"'Our idea is that Germany, as well as England, should just state exactly what their aims of the war would be and then the United States could decide to enter the war or stay out, of the war, or even try to come to some understanding between the belligerent nations.'

"I asked Mooney: 'Why do you tell me this? I can't do anything.'

"He said: 'You have to go to the German charge d'affaires and we cannot do that because he is a German official.'"

To all this Rogge adds: "The collaboration between German and American industrialists is beyond the scope of this report. However, it is not inappropriate to remark that one of the documents in the hands of Justice Jackson's staff is a copy of a letter from Westrick to Sosthenes Behn, written AFTER the Nazis overran Czechoslovakia, in which Westrick proposes the division of the assets of a Czechslovakian company."

Note—President Truman might not only read the Rogge report but should also check into his Export-Import Bank and ascertain why it has allotted 14 per cent of all its loans to International Tel and Tel. That company, despite its flirtations with the Nazis, has received more government money than any other.

Sees Republicans Electing Speaker On New Congress

By SAMUEL B. PETTENGILL

Despite the obvious trend from the New Deal, picking up enough seats to control the House of Representatives in Washington is no small job. This, because in wide expanses of the nation, the trend can do no good.

For example, if Colorado, Iowa, Kansas, Maine, Nebraska, Oregon, South Dakota, North Dakota, Vermont, New Hampshire, Delaware and Wyoming went Republican unanimously, it would not add a single Congressman. In Indiana, the G.O.P. has only two chances for additional seats; in Minnesota, two; New Jersey, two; Idaho, one; Montana, one; and Wisconsin, three.

In short, in 18 states, a landslide could add only 11 seats. It's like the 20 yard zone in football. The going gets tougher every step.

Strength Over-Estimated

The most popular poll habitually over-estimates Republican strength, so its rosy forecast is subject to some discount.

President Truman helped his party by decontrolling meat, but the housewives are just as sore about the lack of sugar and cooking oils. This shortage is largely due to the maritime strike that has blockaded the nation. The Administration, by building up industry wide collective bargaining, has put power into a few hands to squeeze your windpipe anytime they please. The C.I.O.-P.A.C. is on the down grade.

The Congressman who voted against O.P.A. last June and July has turned out to be on the winning side. This illustrates what Tom Marshall of Indiana used to say. He always snorted at the idea that politicians decide issues. "Only the people decide the issues of a campaign."

Dewey and Bricker will win big. Warren, in California, has no opposition. Stassen, refusing to run, is in the backwash. Only winners are good Presidential timber.

Guffey Faces Defeat

In the Senate race, Guffey is a sure loser in Pennsylvania. Baldwin (Rep.) will win in Connecticut. The chances favor Lehman (Dem.) in New York. It's a toss up between Walsh and Lodge in Massachusetts. Montana is apt to elect a Republican to succeed Wheeler. California is close, with a chance for the G.O.P. to lose the Senator they already have. A similar situation obtains in Kentucky. Briggs (Dem.) in Missouri will probably be beaten. Vandenberg in Michigan is a sure winner. In New Mexico and Washington the race will be close. Jenner (Rep.) is "in" in Indiana. Maryland will probably elect O'Conor (Dem.) Minnesota will elect a Republican. There is a good chance for a Republican Senator in Oklahoma. I look for Kilgore (Dem.) to be beaten in West Virginia. Wisconsin will elect a G.O.P. senator. O'Mahoney is in trouble in Wyoming.

Although Ohio will go heavily Republican, its popular Democratic governor, Lausche, still may win. If so, he will be talked of on the national ticket in 1948.

GOP Leadership Smart

The Democrats will lose "stay at home" votes among Whitney's railroad trainmen. The Pittsburgh strike is not doing any good to the New Dealers. Polish-American districts will show a heavy fall-off in Democratic strength.

The G.O.P. has an asset in its new chairman, former Congressman Carroll Reece. He is giving the party its smartest leadership in years.

To sum up, my guess is that the Republicans will elect the next Speaker of the House. Not a landslide, but enough — a margin of 10 to 20 seats. In the Senate it will be an eyelash finish. The winning party will have a margin of from 1 to 3 votes. Whichever wins, the anti-New Deal coalition will carry the ball the next two years. They had better not fumble.

Two Attitudes About Russia; One Is Of Distrust And Suspicion

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31.—There are two attitudes about Russia in Washington. The outward attitude is one of friendliness and courtesy and restraint because that is the requirement of successful international intercourse. The inside attitude—the privately expressed feeling—is one of distrust and suspicion.

Whatever Stalin says is regarded as pure progaganda and on a par with the pledges and soothing phrases frequently uttered by Hitler. Indeed, there are many persons in official life who frequently remark upon the parallel between the Nazi pre-war tactics and the post-war Soviet maneuvers in the public press.

Until there is a government in Moscow which is free and which does not operate on a totalitarian basis, there will not be mutual trust or confidence. This does not mean that anyone here believes it is necessary to accomplish such an objective by force but it does mean that over a period of time the influence of the democracies is expected inevitably to penetrate the "iron curtain" so that the Russian people may decide for themselves whether to support a government that is at odds with the rest of mankind.

Russia Must Lift "Iron Curtain"

Meanwhile the American government takes whatever statements are issued by Molotov and Stalin and endeavors to fit them into its policy. If Russia asks for the disclosure of the number of troops used by America and Britain, these two allies agree to reveal those statistics but will also ask for the figures on Russian troops behind the "iron curtain."

If the Russians, through Stalin, say they favor international control of the atomic bomb, the United States government does not hesitate to accept that proposal as a basis for further inquiry as to how such control can be effective.

But fundamentally there isn't much hope or optimism as yet. Stalin is looked upon not as the sole dictator but as a member of a small dictatorial group. The situation was accurately described by former Prime Minister Churchill in a speech recently to the House of Commons when he said:

"It was easier in Hitler's day to feel and forecast the general movement of events than it is now. Now we have to deal, not with Hitler and his crude Nazi gang with anti-semitism as its principal theme; we are in the presence of something very much more difficult to measure than what was set out so plainly in the pages of 'Mein Kampf.'

Minds Cannot Be Defined

"We are in the presence of the collective mind whose springs of action we cannot define. There are 13 or 14 very able men in the Kremlin who hold all Russia and more than a third of Europe in their control. Many stresses and pressures, internal as well as external, are working upon them as upon all human beings. I cannot presume to forecast what decisions they will take, or to observe what decisions they may have already taken, still less can I attempt to foresee the time factor in their affairs.

"One of our main difficulties in judging all these matters is that real intercourse and intimacy between our peoples is to all intents and purposes very much discouraged, and that it is prevented by the Soviet government. There is none of that free comradely life and mixing which very soon would bring immense changes in the relationships of these vast communities and might sweep away suspicion without relaxing vigilance."

Churchill Awakening Britain

Naturally Stalin and the Moscow propagandists turn their guns on Churchill as an "incendiary." That's precisely what Hitler did before 1939 but the British people eventually listened to Churchill and refused to follow the path of appeasement. Today Churchill is again awakening Britain and the whole world while the Attlee government is being pressed from within to appease Russia—a pressure unquestionably originating with the Left Wing and Communist groups whose counterpart is to be found in certain elements in this country attacking Messrs. Byrnes and Baruch. The tactics are all too familiar and they are not fooling officials here.

PITCHING HORSESHOES by Billy Rose

Some of my favorite jokes are about death. Some of my favorite people are those who make jokes about death. It's easy to kid mothers-in-law and fountain pens that write under water. But the final test of a sense of humor is the courage to leave them laughing when you say goodbye.

Billy Rose

Wilson Mizner blew darts at the world all his life and he didn't stop when the great cold was settling around his bones. When the preacher started to pray over him, he used one of his last dozen breaths to say, "I'll be seeing your Boss in a few minutes, Padre, and I'll put in a good word for you."

Then there's the other great Mizner death line. At the funeral of his brother, who had been a fireman, Bill looked into the grave and said, "He's going to his last fire."

I like the story of the dying storekeeper. The family was gathered around his bed. He was too weak to raise his head. "Martha," he called to his wife, "are you there?"

"Yes, dear," said his wife. "I'm here."

"My son, Donald, are you there?"

"I'm here, father," said Donald.

"Hattie, are you there?"

"Yes, father," whispered his daughter.

With his last bit of strength, the dying man propped himself up and demanded angrily, "Well, then, who the heck is minding the store?"

I also like the oldie about the English lord. (Every one you hear it he has a different name.) "I understand you buried your wife this morning," said a friend at his club.

"Had to. Dead, y'know," said his Lordship, and went to his chair and his "Times".

A gag-bag piece like this isn't complete without a Scotch story. A Scotchman's wife was dying. He sat by her bedside until it was time to milk the cow. As he left the room he said, "If you feel yourself going, Bonnie, be sure and blow out the candle."

I don't know whether this one has been around, but I'll tell it anyway. A New Yorker went to Miami for his health. The sun apparently did him no good because he died there. When they brought the body back to New York, one of his friends peered into the coffin and said, "He looks wonderful."

"Why shouldn't he?" said another friend. "He just got back from Florida."

Riffling through an old joke book (Note to linotyper: I said riffling, not rifling) I came across these bits of Outward Bound wisdom: "It's no use worrying about life—you'll never get out of it alive." "Death and taxes are certain, but at least death doesn't get worse every time Congress meets."

I'm indebted to that great smile-file, "Try and Stop Me," for this one. A careful citizen named Johnson went to a friendly undertaker to price a coffin for himself. He was offered a fancy box with silver handles for $300. He said he'd think about it. He came back an hour later hollering man. "Brannigan down the street, who never saw me before, offered me the same coffin for $50 less."

"Go ahead, buy it from Brannigan," said his friend. "But six months after they bury you, don't blame me if your behind is sticking out of the bottom."

One of the best ways I know to thumb your nose at the hooded party Eugene O'Neill calls "The Iceman" is to write your own epitaph. Dorothy Parker has written hers: "Excuse my dust." Owen Davis wants, "Here lies an author—as usual." Clive Brook, with true English politeness, prefers, "Excuse me for not rising." Eddie Cantor suggests this nifty in marble:

"Here in Nature's arms I nestle,
Free at last from Georgie Jessel."

With a bow to my friends at the Stork Club, may I suggest one for myself:

"I finally did."

I'll probably get some nasty letters when this column appears. Some people think jokes about death are in bad taste. I'd suggest they save their stamps.

One of the things I like about the two-legged critter is that he makes jokes about anything, including the Big Mystery. I'm banking on the world's funnybone rather than its grey matter to keep civilization from doing a Humpty-Dumpty. One of these days our statesmen will realize how ridiculous it is to Atomize everybody, and we'll all live happily ever laughter.

AUTHOR! AUTHOR!

Well, they've got me bound again. My sponsor has been suggesting it for years but it always takes a book publisher to do it. This offense is titled "So This Is Peace" and, as my steady reader will know immediately, it's about peace. I dictated to 40 secretaries to get it finished in one week. I figured I'd better get the book out before the subject was.

You can buy it anywhere, but I'd suggest that you get it at your drugstore magazine counter. The druggists are all giving a headache powder with each copy . . . to be used as a bookmark, of course.

You've heard of the Book of the Month. Mine has already been voted the Waste of the Week.

There's a beautiful love interest in the book. What other kind of book could an actor write about himself?

But it'll probably be a flop. It's been on sale for two weeks and hasn't been banned in Boston yet.

Really, it's very easy to write a book. You simply sit down at a typewriter, tap one letter, then another, and so on. When you're down to your knuckles you just lean over and hit "The End" with your nose and you're through.

I sat down and typed steadily, as fast as I could, for three days. Then I dropped. I was so exhausted they had to carry me away and call in a stenographer to finish the page.

No one who knows me well is surprised at my writing a book. I've had a literary background ever since that day I sat down on a newspaper in the Turkish bath.

Vets Have Understanding Supporter In Colonel Markey

Veterans of Maryland should not overlook the fact that in Col. D. John Markey, Republican candidate for the United States Senate, they have a friend who knows their every need, and who will see to it that their interests are protected should he be successful at the polls next Tuesday.

Col. Markey came up from the ranks as a soldier in three wars, beginning with the Spanish-American conflict when he ran away from home to enlist at the age of 15. He fought through World Wars I and II. During that time he absorbed the hard knocks that befall a soldier, and his military career afforded him the opportunity to rub elbows with men of every walk of life, to study their habits and characteristics, and to acquaint himself with their problems of life.

Col. Markey displayed the unusual talents as a soldier that won for him merited advancements in the ranks, to be climaxed when his superiors elevated him to the position enjoyed at the time of his retirement a few months ago. They recognized in him a leader, and in the last years of his service he was given the responsibility of training more than 60,000 men for the grueling days they would face on the battlefields.

His military training and the experience gained through his close association with men of every type will stand him in good stead, as a member of the United States Senate, in helping to mold the future policies of our country, and in giving understanding aid to veterans. He is a man of outstanding integrity and sterling character.

During his aggressive campaign now coming to a close, he has outlined a well-rounded program of purpose, and, being the military man he is, will fill a long-felt need in the legislative branch of the government. He has had an opportunity to study the workings of government at long range, and is well equipped to play an important part in bringing to an end the siege of confusion and abuses of peoples' rights. He has said one of his aims as a United States Senator will be to seek relief for the individuals burdened with taxation as a result of mismanagement in government. He is one of the many Republicans up for election who are determined to bring to an end the extravagance of thirteen years standing.

Col. Markey is equally familiar with our foreign affairs and the knowledge gained during his military career will permit him to take his place in the front ranks of the supposedly more seasoned lawmakers, whether they be lawyers by profession, industrialists or former governors. His familiarity with the workings of those who would undermind this government permits him to speak with authority. In this connection he has voiced the opinion of thousands of Marylanders when he expressed his concern over the "apparently steady advances being made by subversive and Communistic elements within our government." He is determined that Washington shall be cleansed of those who pose as Americans and work, on the payroll of the taxpayers, through the ranks of organized labor, and fraternities, and even churches, to create discontent and unrest, with the sole aim of destroying our economic system, our free enterprise, and the freedom of life of the individual.

The voters should keep in mind the qualifications of this soldier when they go into the voting booth next Tuesday. To make sure that New Dealism, controlled defeatism and corruption, that have created a constant reign of confusion, are swept out of Washington, put an X mark after the name of Col. D John Markey.

The Prize Boner Of The 1946 Campaign

On the eve of the Democratic Party's greatest national defeat in eighteen years, it is interesting to speculate what was the prize boner of the Democratic campaign. There were many, of course, including the big meat famine brought about by Truman's insistence on extension of the OPA far into peacetime.

But perhaps overshadowing even this as the prize boner was the endorsement by the Russian press and radio of candidates backed by the Political Action Committee of the CIO, all Democrats. It was obvious that the Russians were only trying to help their friends here, but it was an admission that Moscow hopes to prevent the American form of government to communism. It was proof that the reds see in the CIO a force friendly to such change.

The reaction to the Moscow intervention in the election should be a warning to the rank and file of labor about the direction in which they are being led. It should serve notice to CIO leaders that an alliance with Russia will only hasten their undoing.

Season Of Scents

Autumn not only is the most colorful of seasons, but it also is the most odorous. The fragrance of Spring blossoms and the scent of Summer's new-mown hay are faint emanations when compared with the pungent odor of burning leaves. At no other season does cookery produce such enticing smells as Autumn's ketchup and chili sauce, apple butter, pumpkin and mince pies.

Then there's the odor of moth balls on clothing and blankets, the "hot" smell as stoves and furnaces are started for the first time, the aroma of tar being used to patch streets in preparation for Winter, the redolence of paint and cleaning fluid, parfum de skunk on the crisp night air.

Yes, even a person who was blind and deaf would know when it was Fall.

BETTER BABIES THRU PROPER DIET

THE diet of the expectant mother is extremely important. When it is adequate and contains sufficient proteins, minerals and vitamins, not only will her health be protected but normal growth and development of the babe are encouraged. In this respect, the physician is concerned about the current shortages, especially of meat.

Many experiments have been performed which serve to stress the need of proper nutrition at this time. Recently Toronto scientists made a study of three groups of women during the last half of the term. One hundred and twenty were in the low income brackets and lived on sketchy meals. An additional 90 were in the same classification but were given extra rations of milk, eggs, cheese, oranges, tomatoes, wheat germ oil, and vitamin D. A third group of 170 had the means of purchasing all the essential foods.

When the results were analyzed, it was found that many in the first series had miscarriages, premature births, and stillbirths. By contrast, the others enjoyed better health throughout pregnancy and bore strong infants.

Another more striking investigation was conducted by Burke who followed 216 subjects on various types of diets. Sixty-eight per cent of the mothers whose eating habits were excellent or good had no complications during the entire period. Furthermore, 42 per cent of the children delivered were superior; another 52 per cent had one or occasionally two minor physical counts against them. The average weight of these infants, was 8 pounds, 8 ounces and length, 20.7 inches. Few were under 7 pounds.

The story was different in undernourished women. Only 42 per cent went thru the ordeal without any trouble. An equal number encountered toxemia. Concurrently, 67 per cent of the infants were below par physically. Some did not survive. A few had congenital defects or were underdeveloped in some way other than weight. Prematurity was common. Another 25 per cent were only in fair condition. The average weight of this group was 5 pounds, 13 ounces, and length, 18.8 inches.

The comparison is impressive and should make every prospective mother understand what she should not eat and why as well as what she should eat and why. Apparently it is not a question of quantity but quality.

A well balanced regimen provides enough protein, calcium, phosphorus, iron, and vitamins A, C, D, and B. The bulk of these elements is distributed in relatively few items. For example, a quart of milk will satisfy the calcium allowance and supply 32 grams of protein. Moreover, it yields considerable phosphorus, riboflavin, thiamin, and vitamin A.

The daily menus should also include meat, eggs, butter, fruits, vegetables, and cereals. Many authorities recommend supplementary doses of vitamin D. Edibles which consist mainly of fat and carbohydrate make up the remainder of the diet but do not always furnish the basic requirements. These constituents are high in calories and when taken in excess, lead to overweight. As a general rule, the mother-to-be need not gain more than 25 pounds above the ideal weight for height, age, and build.

TUBERCULIN TEST

A.S.R. writes: Is a negative tuberculin test positive proof that one does not have tuberculosis?

REPLY

As a general rule, yes, altho there are exceptions. The patient may have a freshly acquired infection which is so recent that the reaction has not had a chance to become positive. A negative response may also be obtained if the individual is quite ill from another infectious disease of a lingering illness, as well as in those whose lesions have been inactive for many years.

OVERSTIMULATED

T. L. writes: What is a simple name for overactive peristalsis?

REPLY

None, that I know of. The term refers to increased contractions of the intestinal wall, which causes the digesting food to be passed along quickly. Sometimes the condition is accompanied by pain, as in spastic colitis. In others, diarrhea results.

PROTRACTED SIEGE

F. R. writes: Why does it take so long to get over yellow jaundice?

REPLY

Convalescence is an individual problem and depends upon the severity of the attack. There is probably no other disease in which the physician is so careful in telling the patient how long he will be ill. Some cases recover in two or three days; others require months.

TAKE IT STRAIGHT

R. H. writes: I have been told that orange juice should never be taken pure—that it should be diluted with water. Is this so?

REPLY

No truth in this statement, as evidenced by the fact that thousands use it undiluted.

NASAL MEMBRANES

R. T. writes. What is meant by vasomotor changes in the nose?

REPLY

This is an allergic condition, somewhat similar to hay fever, altho pollens are not responsible. Some sufferers are sensitive to dust, cosmetics, medications, or certain foods. If the nonallergic type, glandular disturbances may be responsible.

GRAVELLIKE SENSATION

Mrs. M. M. writes: For a few months I have been troubled with a sandy feeling in the spaces between the fingers. Lotions and creams do no good. What could this be?

REPLY

In the absence of a rash, this is probably a nervous reaction. Perhaps your physician can prescribe a mild sedative until the sensation disappears.

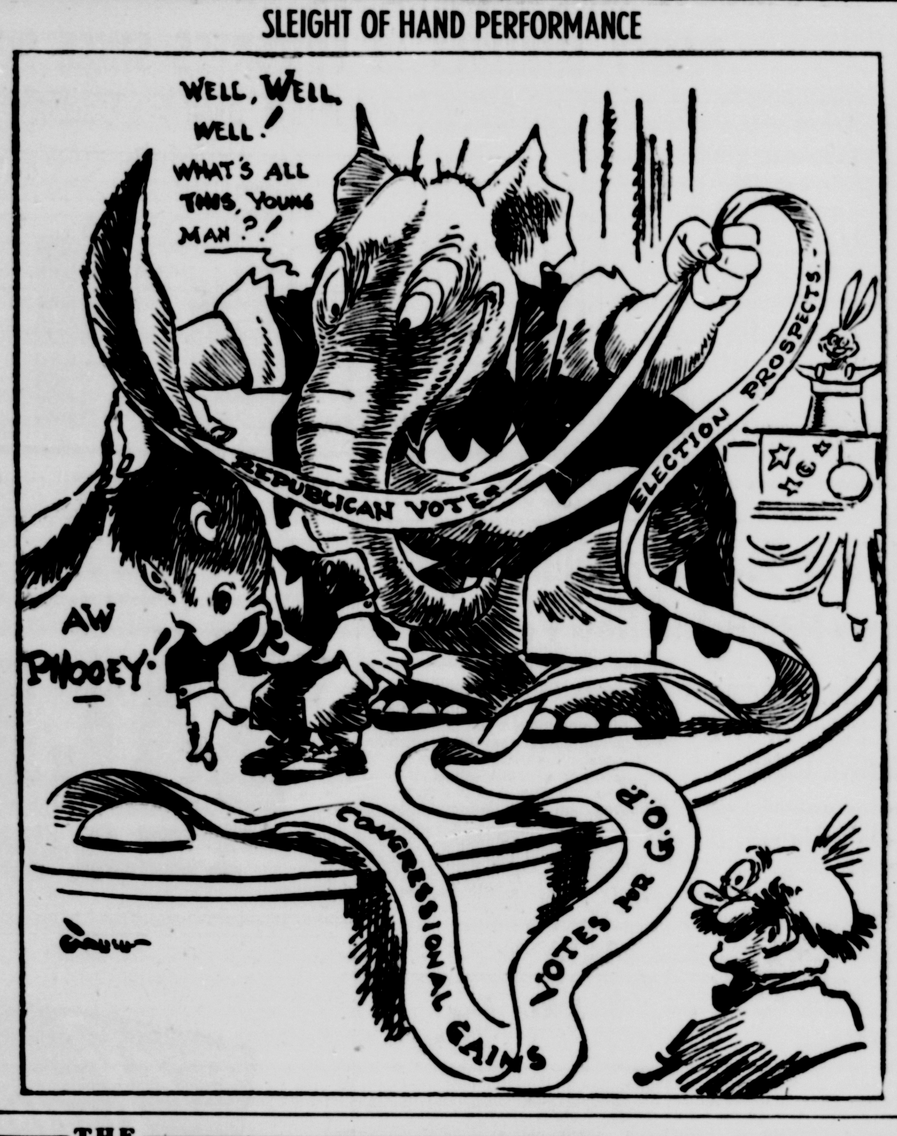
SLEIGHT OF HAND PERFORMANCE



THE WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

U. S. Firms Once Again Start Flirting With Nazis Business; Rogge Report Shows U. S.-Nazi Business Political Contacts Before War

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31—If President Truman had read the Rogge report on Nazi tie-ups with high-up Americans, he might well have saved John Rogge's dismissal from the Justice Department.

For, in reading the report, he probably would have compared it with certain things which are happening between Americans and Nazis today.

One of the most serious handicaps to U. S. war preparedness was the business tie-ups between American and German firms. I. G. Farben's monopoly agreement with Standard Oil of New Jresey prevented the United States from developing synthetic rubber and kept the American public without rubber tires for four years. The monopoly between the Aluminum Corporation of America and I. G. Farben kept magnesium away from the American aircraft industry and retarded our production of airplanes. Bausch and Lomb's secret agreement with Carl Zeiss was extremely detrimental to the U. S. Navy on submarine sights.

Today, however, some interesting things are happening in Germany all over again. Among the first Americans to arrive in Germany after V-E Day were three vice-presidents of International Telephone and Telegraph. One of them, K. E. Stockford, was even dressed in a U. S. Army uniform. The other two were Mark Sandstrum and Frank Page.

Nazi Business Comeback

Significantly the men they conferred with were Baron Kurt von Schroeder, the big Nazi banker who financed Hitler, and Dr. Gerard Westrick, the Hitler agent who came to the United States in 1940 to urge American business leaders, including I. T. & T., to keep the United States neutral. These two powerful Nazi figures were not then prisoners but lived in a German castle—thanks to their friendship with American big business.

All this happened just before the end of the war.

Now to get the significance, you have to study the suppressed Rogge report to see what happened at the start of the war. President Truman obviously intends that this report shall stay suppressed, but this column has obtained a copy and is able to publish Westrick's own version of his attempt to prevent the United States from aiding the Allies.

It will be remembered that Hitler's whole strategy was to bring all of Europe to its knees before lethargic U. S. public opinion could realize what was happening. To this end Dr. Westrick tells the rest of the story.

"Westrick was well equipped with money," according to the testimony of von Strempel, secretary of the German Embassy in Washington. "He could use funds a double way. He had a dollar fund and he said he could influence prominent businessmen through unfreezing their blocked credits in Germany.

"According to Thomsen (Nazi Ambassador in Washington), Westrick received a salary from the Embassy of about $3,000 a month.

Westrick's Own Story

"This is Westrick's own account of his trip," continues the Rogge report.

"'I was a Berlin lawyer. My most important connection with American business was with International Telephone and Telegraph Company, whose president was Col. Sosthenes Behn. Behn was also a director of Standard Elektrizitass Gesellschaft (Westrick was president of this company) which was affiliated with International Telephone and Telegraph Company.

"'I also represented The Underwood Elliott-Fisher Company which owned a German company by the name of Mercedes Buremaschinen A. G.; the Eastman Kodak Company which owned the Kodak A. G.; the International Milk Corporation which owned a subsidiary in Hamburg and various others.

"'In 1939 I had a talk in Berlin with Secretary of State Keppler and Col. Sosthenes Behn. This discussion took place before September 1939. At the end of 1939, Keppler phoned me and told me that I should see Ambassador Dieckhoff, who had been the German Ambassador in Washington, and discuss my going over to the United States.

"'I told Dieckhoff that I could not make a decisive answer before discussing the matter with Col. Behn. I then saw Col. Behn either at the Hague in Holland or maybe in Beligum at Antwerp. I am not sure about this, but I think it was The Hague. I told Behn about the plan. Coming back to Berlin, I told Dieckhoff that I was willing to do the job. A few days later I had an interview with Ribbentrop himself.

"'Thereafter, I left Berlin and went to San Francisco by way of Siberia. From San Francisco I went to New York. My first talk with Ribbentrop was at the end of December 1939, or in the first days of January 1940. Among those I saw in the United States were Torkild Rieber of the Texas Company, Eberhard Faber of the Faber Company, James Mooney of General Motors, and Edsel Ford and Henry Ford. I first saw Edsel Ford, and when I got to New York, I got a phone call from the secretary of Henry Ford asking me to come again to see Henry Ford.

Keep U. S. Neutral!

"'I paid Mooney (of General Motors) a visit and one day he came to visit me in the Waldorf-Astoria, and on his own intiative he told me that he and a group of other people had the intention of seeing the President and trying to convince the President that he should insist on normal politicial relations between the United States and Germany. This was after Germany had invaded France, Belgium, and Norway. Mooney said:

"'Our idea is that Germany, as well as England, should just state exactly what their aims of the war would be and then the United States could decide to enter the war or stay out, of the war, or even try to come to some understanding between the belligerent nations.'

"I asked Mooney: 'Why do you tell me this? I can't do anything.'

"He said: 'You have to go to the German charge d'affaires and we cannot do that because he is a German official.'"

To all this Rogge adds: "The collaboration between German and American industrialists is beyond the scope of this report. However, it is not inappropriate to remark that one of the documents in the hands of Justice Jackson's staff is a copy of a letter from Westrick to Sosthenes Behn, written AFTER the Nazis overran Czechoslovakia, in which Westrick proposes the division of the assets of a Czechslovakian company."

Note—President Truman might not only read the Rogge report but should also check into his Export-Import Bank and ascertain why it has allotted 14 per cent of all its loans to International Tel and Tel. That company, despite its flirtations with the Nazis, has received more government money than any other

By SAMUEL B. PETTENGILL

Despite the obvious trend from the New Deal, picking up enough seats to control the House of Representatives in Washington is no small job. This, because in wide expanses of the nation, the trend can do no good.

For example, if Colorado, Iowa, Kansas, Maine, Nebraska, Oregon, South Dakota, North Dakota, Vermont, New Hampshire, Delaware and Wyoming went Republican unanimously, it would not add a single Congressman. In Indiana, the G.O.P. has only two chances for additional seats; in Minnesota, two; New Jersey, two; Idaho, one; Montana, one; and Wisconsin, three.

In short, in 18 states, a landslide could add only 11 seats. It's like the 20 yard zone in football. The going gets tougher every step.

Strength Over-Estimated

The most popular poll habitually over-estimates Republican strength, so its rosy forecast is subject to some discount.

President Truman helped his party by decontrolling meat, but the housewives are just as sore about the lack of sugar and cooking oils. This shortage is largely due to the maritime strike that has blockaded the nation. The Administration, by building up industry wide collective bargaining, has put power into a few hands to squeeze your windpipe anytime they please. The C.I.O.-P.A.C. is on the down grade

The Congressman who voted against O.P.A. last June and July has turned out to be on the winning side. This illustrates what Tom Marshall of Indiana used to say. He always snorted at the idea that politicians decide issues. "Only the people decide the issues of a campaign."

Dewey and Bricker will win big. Warren, in California, has no opposition. Stassen, refusing to run, is in the backwash. Only winners are good Presidential timber.

Guffey Faces Defeat

In the Senate race, Guffey is a sure loser in Pennsylvania. Baldwin (Rep.) will win in Connecticut. The chances favor Lehman (Dem.) in New York. It's a toss up between Walsh and Lodge in Massachusetts. Montana is apt to elect a Republican to succeed Wheeler. California is close, with a chance for the G.O.P. to lose the Senator they already have. A similar situation obtains in Kentucky. Briggs (Dem.) in Missouri will probably be beaten. Vandenberg in Michigan is a sure winner. In New Mexico and Washington the race will be close. Jenner (Rep.) is "in" in Indiana. Maryland will probably elect O'Conor (Dem.) Minnesota will elect a Republican. There is a good chance for a Republican Senator in Oklahoma. I look for Kilgore (Dem.) to be beaten in West Virginia. Wisconsin will elect a G.O.P. senator. O'Mahoney is in trouble in Wyoming.

Although Ohio will go heavily Republican, its popular Democratic governor, Lausche, still may win. If so, he will be talked of on the national ticket in 1948.

GOP Leadership Smart

The Democrats will lose "stay at home" votes among Whitney's railroad trainmen. The Pittsburgh strike is not doing any good to the New Dealers. Polish-American districts will show a heavy fall-off in Democratic strength.

The G.O.P. has an asset in its new chairman, former Congressman Carroll Reece. He is giving the party its smartest leadership in years.

To sum up, my guess is that the Republicans will elect the next Speaker of the House. Not a landslide, but enough — a margin of 10 to 20 seats. In the Senate it will be an eyelash finish. The winning party will have a margin of from 1 to 3 votes. Whichever wins, the anti-New Deal coalition will carry the ball the next two years. They had better not fumble.

Two Attitudes About Russia; One Is Of Distrust And Suspicion

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31.—There are two attitudes about Russia in Washington. The outward attitude is one of friendliness and courtesy and restraint because that is the requirement of successful international intercourse. The inside attitude—the privately expressed feeling—is one of distrust and suspicion.

Whatever Stalin says is regarded as pure progaganda and on a par with the pledges and soothing phrases frequently uttered by Hitler. Indeed, there are many persons in official life who frequently remark upon the parallel between the Nazi pre-war tactics and the post-war Soviet maneuvers in the public press.

Until there is a government in Moscow which is free and which does not operate on a totalitarian basis, there will not be mutual trust or confidence. This does not mean that anyone here believes it is necessary to accomplish such an objective by force but it does mean that over a period of time the influence of the democracies is expected inevitably to penetrate the "iron curtain" so that the Russian people may decide for themselves whether to support a government that is at odds with the rest of mankind.

Russia Must Lift "Iron Curtain"

Meanwhile the American government takes whatever statements are issued by Molotov and Stalin and endeavors to fit them into its policy. If Russia asks for the disclosure of the number of troops used by America and Britain, these two allies agree to reveal those statistics but will also ask for the figures on Russian troops behind the "iron curtain."

If the Russians, through Stalin, say they favor international control of the atomic bomb, the United States government does not hesitate to accept that proposal as a basis for further inquiry as to how such control can be effective.

But fundamentally there isn't much hope or optimism as yet. Stalin is looked upon not as the sole dictator but as a member of a small dictatorial group. The situation was accurately described by former Prime Minister Churchill in a speech recently to the House of Commons when he said:

"It was easier in Hitler's day to feel and forecast the general movement of events than it is now. Now we have to deal, not with Hitler and his crude Nazi gang with anti-semitism as its principal theme; we are in the presence of something very much more difficult to measure than what was set out so plainly in the pages of 'Mein Kampf.'

Minds Cannot Be Defined

"We are in the presence of the collective mind whose springs of action we cannot define. There are 13 or 14 very able men in the Kremlin who hold all Russia and more than a third of Europe in their control. Many stresses and pressures, internal as well as external, are working upon them as upon all human beings. I cannot presume to forecast what decisions they will take, or to observe what decisions they may have already taken, still less can I attempt to foresee the time factor in their affairs.

"One of our main difficulties in judging all these matters is that real intercourse and intimacy between our peoples is to all intents and purposes very much discouraged, and that it is prevented by the Soviet government. There is none of that free comradely life and mixing which very soon would bring immense changes in the relationships of these vast communities and might sweep away suspicion without relaxing vigilance."

"Yes, dear," said his wife. "I'm here."

"My son, Donald, are you there?"

"I'm here, father," said Donald.

"Hattie, are you there?"

"Yes, father," whispered his daughter.

With his last bit of strength, the dying man propped himself up and demanded angrily, "Well, then, who the heck is minding the store?"

I also like the oldie about the English lord. (Every one you hear it he has a different name.) "I understand you buried your wife this morning," said a friend at his club.

"Had to. Dead, y'know," said his Lordship, and went to his chair and his "Times".

A gag-bag piece like this isn't complete without a Scotch story. A Scotchman's wife was dying. He sat by her bedside until it was time to milk the cow. As he left the room he said, "If you feel yourself going, Bonnie, be sure and blow out the candle."

I don't know whether this one has been around, but I'll tell it anyway. A New Yorker went to Miami for his health. The sun apparently did him no good because he died there. When they brought the body back to New York, one of his friends peered into the coffin and said, "He looks wonderful."

"Why shouldn't he?" said another friend. "He just got back from Florida."

Riffling through an old joke book (Note to linotyper: I said riffling, not rifling) I came across these bits of Outward Bound wisdom: "It's no use worrying about life—you'll never get out of it alive." "Death and taxes are certain, but at least death doesn't get worse every time Congress meets."

I'm indebted to that great smile-file, "Try and Stop Me," for this one. A careful citizen named Johnson went to a friendly undertaker to price a coffin for himself. He was offered a fancy box with silver handles for $300. He said he'd think about it. He came back an hour later hollering man. "Brannigan down the street, who never saw me before, offered me the same coffin for $50 less."

"Go ahead, buy it from Brannigan," said his friend. "But six months after they bury you, don't blame me if your behind is sticking out of the bottom."

One of the best ways I know to thumb your nose at the hooded party Eugene O'Neill calls "The Iceman" is to write your own epitaph. Dorothy Parker has written hers: "Excuse my dust." Owen Davis wants, "Here lies an author—as usual." Clive Brook, with true English politeness, prefers, "Excuse me for not rising." Eddie Cantor suggests this nifty in marble:

"Here in Nature's arms I nestle,
Free at last from Georgie Jessel."

With a bow to my friends at the Stork Club, may I suggest one for myself:

"I finally did."

I'll probably get some nasty letters when this column appears. Some people think jokes about death are in bad taste. I'd suggest they save their stamps.

One of the things I like about the two-legged critter is that he makes jokes about anything, including the Big Mystery. I'm banking on the world's funnybone rather than its grey matter to keep civilization from doing a Humpty-Dumpty. One of these days our statesmen will realize how ridiculous it is to Atomize everybody, and we'll all live happily ever laughter.

AUTHOR! AUTHOR!

Well, they've got me bound again. My sponsor has been suggesting it for years but it always takes a book publisher to do it. This offense is titled "So This Is Peace" and, as my steady reader will know immediately, it's about peace. I dictated to 40 secretaries to get it finished in one week. I figured I'd better get the book out before the subject was.

You can buy it anywhere, but I'd suggest that you get it at your drugstore magazine counter. The druggists are all giving a headache powder with each copy . . . to be used as a bookmark, of course.

You've heard of the Book of the Month. Mine has already been voted the Waste of the Week.

There's a beautiful love interest in the book. What other kind of book could an actor write about himself?

But it'll probably be a flop. It's been on sale for two weeks and hasn't been banned in Boston yet.

Really, it's very easy to write a book. You simply sit down at a typewriter, tap one letter, then another, and so on. When you're down to your knuckles you just lean over and hit "The End" with your nose and you're through.

I sat down and typed steadily, as fast as I could, for three days. Then I dropped. I was so exhausted they had to carry me away and call in a stenographer to finish the page.

No one who knows me well is surprised at my writing a book. I've had a literary background ever since that day I sat down on a newspaper in the Turkish bath.

Advice To The Lovelorn

Average 17-Year-Old Girl Cannot Make Discriminating Choice Of Husbands

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Famous Authority on Problems of Love and Marriage

It's always interesting when people disagree with you.

A few weeks ago, when answering a letter from a 17-year-old girl who thought she was in love with two boys at once, I expressed the opinion that no girl of that age was ready to make a decision on so momentous a matter as love.

Now a reader who is "almost 18," writes in to "object very strongly to this generalization," saying that while she agrees that the girl in question did sound immature, she does not believe she is typical of the average girl of that age.

Then she proceeds to offer "a thumbnail sketch of the man I hope will be my future husband," as proof that she is mature enough to know how to choose one.

So here's her description of the man who measures up to her ideal of a husband. What do you think of it, girls? Does he measure up to your own ideals, and do you agree with her that any girl who picks a man with these qualities has a mature viewpoint on the subject of husbands?

Her young man is 23, and "he is not handsome, nor, as a matter of fact, even cute. He is quite average-looking although with the nicest laugh-lines around his eyes when he smiles, and he doesn't have a glamorous profession. But he has, ever since his discharge from the army, helped to support his mother rather than see her work. He is very considerate of other people, and has excellent manners, also tact.

"Although he lives in a different city, when I had a slight accident, recently, he called me up several times during the week just to cheer me a bit. He has a wonderful sense of humor. He is quite intelligent, but doesn't flaunt it, and he is always willing to learn from others and take well-meant criticism. He is very versatile, and manages to fit into any group, never offending anyone. I can feel perfectly natural with him, and we have as good a time going for a walk as we do dancing in a high-priced atmosphere.

"Does this sound immature?

"E. S."

It sounds, "E. S." as though you were a lucky girl to have found a young man with so many excellent qualities, and if he lives up to them all, then I'm sure he should make you a fine husband. I am not so sure, however, that just because you may have been unusually lucky in having a very worth-while young man come your way, it proves anything about your maturity, or lack of it.

From what you say, I get the impression that you feel it proves something because you appreciate this boy, even though he is not handsome and doesn't have "a glamorous profession" — whatever that may be. But he evidently does have charm, and when you have charm added to all the sound qualities he seems to possess, I would say you had "All this, and Heaven, too!" And I wouldn't think it would need very much mature discrimination to decide to settle for such a desirable young male.

On the other hand, if good fortune hadn't dropped him right in your lap, so to speak, but, instead, another young man had come along—very handsome, with a "glamorous profession," and with equal or more charm, but perhaps not quite so many good qualities—would you have the wisdom to withstand the impact of his charm and hold out for solid worth? That I should say would be the real test of whether or not you were truly mature.

But, if you like, I'll amend my original statement to read that the average 17-year-old girl isn't old enough to make a discriminating choice of husbands. And I'm willing to admit the possibility that you may be above the average. Only I must have better proof than the facts contained in your letter before I would be convinced of it.

MODERN MATA HARI . . . Evening turban studded with big black cabochons, with a swirl of black uncurled ostrich at the side, and gloves to match.

DOLLY MADISON . . . Lilly Dache's historic turban in black and white satin.

By DOROTHY ROE
Associated Press Fashion Editor

Lovely ladies of long ago haunt the mid-winter hat collection of Lilly Dache, who presents headgear for moderns inspired by such historic figures as Cleopatra, Mata Hari, the Witch of Salem and Dolly Madison.

Trend-setting Lilly also pulls a fast one on the engineers this season and employs the principle of the suspension bridge in a series of "suspension hats," which perch on the back of the head apparently without support, but stay put with baffling tenacity.

The designer draws a sharp line between daytime and dinner hats, showing untrimmed felts for wear with suits, reserving flowers and trimmings for wear with cocktail or theater dresses.

A series of bonnets (not to be worn by anyone over 24 years old) are shown, some simple and untrimmed, others wreathed with flowers and tied demurely under the chin.

But the sensations of the collection are the historical toppers, several of which may start a new vogue in hat silhouettes—notably the Dolly Madison turban, worn well back on the head, softly wrapped and with a long side drape.

HATS FROM HISTORY

MODERN MATA HARI . . . Evening turban studded with big black cabochons, with a swirl of black uncurled ostrich at the side, and gloves to match.

CLEOPATRA inspired this gold calot with gilded plume suggesting the asp.

DOLLY MADISON . . . Lilly Dache's historic turban in black and white satin.

By DOROTHY ROE
Associated Press Fashion Editor

Lovely ladies of long ago haunt the mid-winter hat collection of Lilly Dache, who presents headgear for moderns inspired by such historic figures as Cleopatra, Mata Hari, the Witch of Salem and Dolly Madison.

Trend-setting Lilly also pulls a fast one on the engineers this season and employs the principle of the suspension bridge in a series of "suspension hats," which perch on the back of the head apparently without support, but stay put with baffling tenacity.

The designer draws a sharp line between daytime and dinner hats, showing untrimmed felts for wear with suits, reserving flowers and trimmings for wear with cocktail or theater dresses.

A series of bonnets (not to be worn by anyone over 24 years old) are shown, some simple and untrimmed, others wreathed with flowers and tied demurely under the chin.

But the sensations of the collection are the historical toppers, several of which may start a new vogue in hat silhouettes—notably the Dolly Madison turban, worn well back on the head, softly wrapped and with a long side drape.

CHICAGO—(AP)—Emergency housing will be allocated among veterans in New Brunswick, N. J., on a point system. Ten different classifications of hardship will be used, including credits for each child or other dependent, for those facing eviction from their current residences, and for veteran's disability and low income. Points will be given also for husbands and wives now forced to live apart because of the housing shortage.

When the Shouting is all over... these are THE COATS

This season brought many fashions for us to sing out about. But when all the excitement is over, the fashions that reach great success are those fashioned in the simple lines. Fine furs used discretly bring the most applause. Untrimmed coats succeed in both fitted and casual lines. These are the very coats we're offering tomorrow in our second floor fashion shop.

Peyton Reynolds Is Paroled On Two Charges

By LUKE McDOWELL

KEYSER, W. Va., Oct. 31 —Peyton Reynolds appeared in Mineral County Circuit Court at 10:30 a. m. today, and after a consultation of his counsel and Vernon E. Rankin and himself with Judge Ernest A. See, entered pleas of guilty to two indictments brought against him at this term of court, growing out of an accident on U. S. Route 220, at Steward's curve, two miles south of Keyser. A third charge, that of manslaughter is still pending.

In the accident which happened in September, Russell Parker, of Piedmont, was instantly killed when a truck in which he and Parker were riding left the highway and hit a telephone pole. The truck involved was the property of James Pennington. Reynolds was found to be in an intoxicated condition at the time of the accident, officers said.

The indictments, to which he pleaded guilty, were for the theft of the truck and for drunken driving. For the theft of the truck he received a sentence of from one to 10 years in the penitentiary and on the drunken driving charge he was fined $50 and costs.

After sentence had been passed Judge See place Reynolds under a three year parole which provides that he obey all laws, national, state and local and that he waive extradition should the parole at any time be broken. In addition he must pay the fine of $50 and all court costs, and also pay to James Pennington the sum of $300 for damages to the stolen truck.

The charge of manslaughter remains pending. On that charge he was held under his own personal bond in the sum of $500, for his appearance at the next term of court and at such times as the court may direct that he appear.

Blackburn Acquitted

Shortly before noon Cecil Blackburn, of Keyser, went on trial for the theft of $66 and a flashlight from William Sylvester Borror, of Mill Meadow. The state, represented by Vernon E. Rankin, prosecuting attorney, presented testimony to show that the money and flashlight were taken from his home at Mill Meadow on the night of September 27.

The defense counsel by Donald Hott and Howard Shores, contended that the money was picked up on a woodpile at the Borror home while Blackburn was in the act of getting firewood to cook supper for the two men. The case went to the jury at 3:55 p. m.

The jury returned a verdict of "not guilty."

This case was the first in which the two young lawyers, Donald Hott and Howard P. Shores appeared as attorneys before a jury in the Mineral Circuit Court. Blackburn not having counsel, Hott and Shores were appointed by the court.

Later in the afternoon George Moomau, Potomac Heights resident, went on trial charged with malicious assault upon James Edward Rowe.

Rankin prosecuted the case while the defendant was represented by H. G. Shores and Herndon R. Athey.

Women Veterans Form Legion Post In Salt Lake City

Salt Lake City, (AP)—Now comes the lady legionnaire.

Ex-Waves, ex-Wacs and ex-Marines have formed one of the first all-woman American Legion posts in the nation. They report that male legionnaires, once skeptical, have found their female counterparts are loyal Legion workers.

They're not an auxiliary to the Legion—they are the Legion. The lady legionnaires want that understood and intend to prove it. In fact, they say with confidence that they plan to show the men just how a post should be run. They already have 40 members.

Politically, they don't intend to be active, unless some of their fellow members are being "stepped on." Their chief concern, outside of keeping alive the fellowship which stemmed from common service in the armed forces, will be community projects. Child welfare will get their main consideration. They intend to sponsor girl scout troops and work for crippled and underprivileged children.

All branches of the service are represented in this post. Mary Harrington, an ex-Wave petty officer second class, is the post's chairman. Other members include Dorothy Cunningham, who served 26 months in the Marine corps as head of a motor pool and is now earning her living as an insurance agent, and Delores Norman, who was a private-first class in the WAC and is now back to school under the GI Bill of Rights.

Their organization is called the Beth Humphreys post, in memory of a Utah nurse who died in service in the war.

While awaiting their permanent charter, the girls are considering a constitution to be patterned after the national Legion constitution—but with a feminine touch.

They say they may even don uniforms for such special occasions as parades.

North Borneo Must Build From Scratch

Singapore (AP) — Britain's newest crown colony—and one of her smallest, British North Borneo, has economic and administrative problems second in magnitude to no country in this part of the world, reports Malaya's Governor General Malcolm MacDonald after an eight-day tour to the colony.

North Borneo's towns, completely levelled by departing Japanese and Allied bombing, are now ready for the building of "ideal new communities," MacDonald said. He has therefore asked the British government to send out a "really good mission" to plan their building. All structures now going up are purposely only temporary.

Principal cities in the colony—Jesselton, Sandakan and Victoria—were "completely destroyed"; all machinery, furniture and equipment disappeared; jetties are gone and many of the population, particularly junior government servants, were killed.

Most government records disappeared, but reconstruction is proceeding "at a good pace, and is aided immensely by the splendid spirit of the people," the governor general said. Rubber plantations are being rehabilitated, transport is being restored and within two or three years it is hoped a permanent building program will be developed.

Pranksters Hit School Property

ROMNEY, W. Va., Oct. 31 — A school bus, which operates between Slanesville and Capon Bridge High School, was damaged by pranksters several days ago.

Tires were deflated and leaves, sand and rocks were jammed into the gasoline tank. The damage occurred while the bus was idle over the weekend.

A. Clinton Loy, Hampshire county superintendent of schools, reports that bus seats had to be repaired on at least two occasions during the 1945-46 school term when they had been cut by pranksters.

The superintendent also asserted that a new-type bus has been purchased for the above route, but that if when it is placed in operation and similar practices continue, service will be discontinued.

A number of windows were broken in the Slanesville school last Sunday night, Loy also reported. State Trooper L. W. Kelly is investigating.

Women Veterans Form Legion Post In Salt Lake City

Salt Lake City, (AP)—Now comes the lady legionnaire.

Ex-Waves, ex-Wacs and ex-Marines have formed one of the first all-woman American Legion posts in the nation. They report that male legionnaires, once skeptical, have found their female counterparts are loyal Legion workers.

They're not an auxiliary to the Legion—they are the Legion. The lady legionnaires want that understood and intend to prove it. In fact, they say with confidence that they plan to show the men just how a post should be run. They already have 40 members.

Politically, they don't intend to be active, unless some of their fellow members are being "stepped on." Their chief concern, outside of keeping alive the fellowship which stemmed from common service in the armed forces, will be community projects. Child welfare will get their main consideration. They intend to sponsor girl scout troops and work for crippled and underprivileged children.

All branches of the service are represented in this post. Mary Harrington, an ex-Wave petty officer second class, is the post's chairman. Other members include Dorothy Cunningham, who served 26 months in the Marine corps as head of a motor pool and is now earning her living as an insurance agent, and Delores Norman, who was a private-first class in the WAC and is now back to school under the GI Bill of Rights.

Their organization is called the Beth Humphreys post, in memory of a Utah nurse who died in service in the war.

While awaiting their permanent charter, the girls are considering a constitution to be patterned after the national Legion constitution—but with a feminine touch.

They say they may even don uniforms for such special occasions as parades.

LEGION GAL . . . Delores Norman, ex-WAC.

Optimists Club May Sponsor Boys Club

The boys committee of the recently organized Cumberland Optimists Club, at a recent meeting, laid preliminary plans for its first project, the sponsoring of a local boys club.

The session followed the regular meeting of the organization at Central Wednesday night with E. M. Nonnenmann, acting chaplain and song leader, in charge.

A club quartet, composed of Pete Caswell, Cletus Hartsock, R. J. Kompanek and Nonnenmann, sang a number of selections followed by a solo by Nonnenmann.

The guest speaker next Wednesday at 6:15 p. m. will be Lt. Comdr. Aldrich, Baltimore, who will show movies of battles in the South Pacific.

North Borneo Must Build From Scratch

Singapore (AP)—Britain's newest crown colony—and one of her smallest, British North Borneo, has economic and administrative problems second in magnitude to no country in this part of the world, reports Malaya's Governor General Malcolm MacDonald after an eight-day tour to the colony.

North Borneo's towns, completely levelled by departing Japanese and Allied bombing, are now ready for the building of "ideal new communities," MacDonald said. He has therefore asked the British government to send out a "really good mission" to plan their building. All structures now going up are purposely only temporary.

Principal cities in the colony—Jesselton, Sandakan and Victoria—were "completely destroyed"; all machinery, furniture and equipment disappeared; jetties are gone and many of the population, particularly junior government servants, were killed.

Most government records disappeared, but reconstruction is proceeding "at a good pace, and is aided immensely by the splendid spirit of the people," the governor general said. Rubber plantations are being rehabilitated, transport is being restored and within two or three years it is hoped a permanent building program will be developed.

Pranksters Hit School Property

ROMNEY, W. Va., Oct. 31—A school bus, which operates between Slanesville and Capon Bridge High School, was damaged by pranksters several days ago.

Tires were deflated and leaves, sand and rocks were jammed into the gasoline tank. The damage occurred while the bus was idle over the weekend.

A. Clinton Loy, Hampshire county superintendent of schools, reports that bus seats had to be repaired on at least two occasions during the 1945-46 school term when they had been cut by pranksters.

The superintendent also asserted that a new-type bus has been purchased for the above route, but that if when it is placed in operation and similar practices continue, service will be discontinued.

A number of windows were broken in the Slanesville school last Sunday night, Loy also reported State Trooper L. W. Kelly is investigating.

Eels are the only creatures lower than mammals, known to have blood vessels in the retinus of their eyes.

Program Revised

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31 (AP)—The Agriculture Department has announced a revision in its 1947 potato production control program calling for 116,000 fewer planted acres than this year.

South African postoffices are now employing 1,700 ex-servicemen and women.

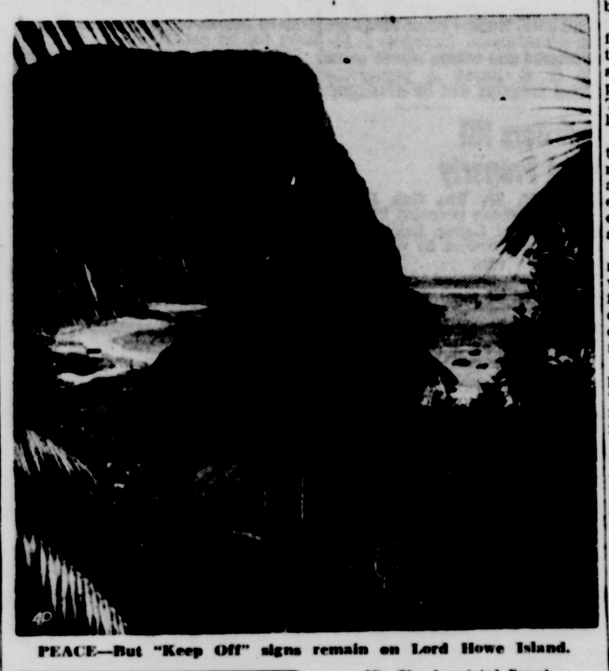
A Private Paradise---No Police, Shortages Or Immigration



PEACE—But "Keep Off" signs remain on Lord Howe Island.

(By The Associated Press)

People who want to get away from atom bombs and food shortages might glance longingly at Lord Howe Island, 450 miles off the Australian coast, but it wouldn't do them much good. They might go there as tourists (the government is planning a plane service) but the 3,220-acre dot in the south Pacific is not open to permanent residents who are not descendants of the original settlers.

Even the present 120 residents cannot own any saleable or transferable right to the island's rich acres. Each resident is alloted an area of land when he comes of age and further allotments are made on marriage and after the birth of each child. But the shares revert to the community on the death of the holder.

The litue community is legally a part of Sydney, but the administration is independent. The island has no policemen and no traffic problem. There is not one automobile there.

Principal source of cash income for the residents are the seeds of the kentia palm which can grow any place in the world, but which produces seed only on the island. These palms are those used in hotel lobbies all over the world.

But the residents also raise poultry, pigs and goats, so there is no meat shortage and the lagoon has a large supply of tuna. The islanders catch enough so that they can export some. Vegetable seeds are another export item.

Their little homeland has the most southern coral reef in the world, but there is no safe harbor for shipping, although in the middle of the nineteenth century, scores of whaling ships called there to replenish water and provisions.

It was settled in 1834 by eight people from New Zealand but they were soon bought out by two Sydney men. The population was 16 in 1851 and 36 in 1869.

In 1912, a royal commission found that the palm seed trade had grown to such an extent that a board was established to administer the affairs of the island. The government reserves the right to take over any of the island property whenever it sees fit.

Split Ventilation Recommended For No. 10 Mine

Improvements in ventilating and blasting methods are recommended for Mine No. 10 of Consolidated Fuel Company, Inc., at Eckhart Mines, Maryland, by a Federal coal mine examiner in a reinspection report released today by the Bureau of Mines. The Allegany County mine employs 74 men, produces 329 tons of coal daily, and was reinspected by Joe Dobashinski a week prior to the effective date of the Federal Mine Safety Code on July 29, 1946.

Inspector Dobashinski suggested a split system of ventilation utilizing air crossings, intake air for haulways and an ample volume passing through the last crosscut in each set of working entries, removal of portable blower fans and the use of line brattice where necessary, seals for certain abandoned workings, air-tight incombustible stoppings, air-lock ventilating doors, and further precautions against fan stoppings. The inspector commended a recent improvement permitting reversal of the air flow.

To minimize blasting hazards, the inspector advocated the use of permissible explosives, transportation of explosives and detonators underground in specially designed cars or containers, use of clay or other incumbustible material for stemming purposes, and certain safeguards in employing blasting cables. He also suggested use only of permissible electric cap lamps and discontinuance of smoking in the mine. Individual explosives and detonator containers, the inspector noted, were satisfactorily stored in the face region.

Other recommendations called for timbering improvements, provision of suitable shelter holes at intervals along haulage roads and at switch stands and doors, continuous unobstructed clearance, use of permissible trip lights, added electrical safeguards, adoption of a check-in-and-out system of identification, wear of protective hats and safety shoes by all underground employees, establishment of a safety organization of officials and workers holding joint monthly meetings and annual first-aid training.

Improvements made since the last inspection in April, 1945, including proper instruction in roof testing, cutting off the power of electrical equipment near the face before and during blasting, removal of coal spillage along conveyor lines, several electrical precautionary measures and wearing of knee pads by workmen.

Man Accused Of Firing Pistol At Constable Held

David DeWitt Is Lodged In Garrett Jail; Arrested In Baltimore

By GEORGE H. HANST

OAKLAND, Md., Oct. 31—David DeWitt, who was being sought on a charge of firing a pistol at Constable Mark H. Moon several days ago, is now a prisoner at the County jail, having been arrested in Baltimore. Authorities had been unable to find him either in Oakland or Mt. Lake Park, and since it was known he had worked in Baltimore previously the Baltimore police were notified. It was learned later he had taken a train to Cumberland and was offered a ride to Baltimore by a passing motorist. He was picked up by police when he returned to a place where he had formerly worked.

J. S. Teats, deputy sheriff, went to Baltimore on Sunday and returned with DeWitt on Monday. He will be given a hearing in the near future.

Mr. Moon declared DeWitt had threatened him with a pistol in the Maryland theatre alley when he had arrested him on another charge, and later tried to flee. It was during the chase along Water street when Moon also declared DeWitt had fired the pistol in his direction. DeWitt was past 40 years of age. Moon said DeWitt's freedom had been a source of anxiety among the people of Oakland, and that a number of women and girls had been fearful of being out alone at night. DeWitt was formerly a patient in the state hospital at Sykesville, and had also been committed to the House of Correction.

Helbig May Be Safe

An intense effort is being made by members of the family of Sgt. Fred W. Helbig, to find out if there is any foundation to the persistent rumors that he was one of a group of fliers found about two weeks ago in the Burma-China area, has resulted in some hope. Sgt. Helbig was declared dead on June 19, a year after he was reported missing while on a flight mission over Burma.

Reports were to the effect that his his name was mentioned over the radio in a news story telling about the discovery of the group. Supposedly they were in a half-starved condition. No official word has been received from the government either by his wife, the former Stella Leighton, or his father, E. W. Helbig, and the rumor was discounted.

Donald Helbig, a brother, in endeavoring to find some person who had actually heard the broadcast, learned Tuesday night from William Hastings, a Pennsylvania Electric employe, who resides on the Rock Lodge road, that he had been listening to a news broadcast about two weeks ago and actually heard the commentator mention Fred W. Helbig as one of those rescued.

Mr. Hastings was not certain which radio station sent out the news and what agency sponsored the program, according to Donald Helbig, and the latter is anxious to find out if any other person in the area heard the news and heard the commentator mention the name of Fred W. Helbig. If there is such a person he asks that he contact Mrs. Edwin Michael, a sister, Monte Vista road, telephone 260-M, and through this manner he believes the source may be traced and the authenticity of the news substantiated.

Mr. Helbig said he felt sure the government would not communicate with members of the family until all facts were learned, which might account for their lack of official information.

Details of Sgt. Helbig's disappearance were released by the government recently. The plane departed from Warazup, north central Burma, on a mission to drop gasoline drums by parachute to an air warning station about 110 miles to the southwest. Because of fog the plane headed for Bhamo. No further contact was made with the plane and an extensive air and ground search was made with no trace ever found of the plane or crew. The continuous rumors have renewed hope among members of the family here. His wife and son reside at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Russell Leighton, west of town. His father and brother reside on South Third street, and his sister, Mrs. Edwin Michael, on Monte Vista road.

Youths Describe Double Slaying

YUBA CITY, Calif., Oct. 31 (AP)—Teen-age Billy Anderson and Nathern James today calmly described the September 8 slaying of Anderson's father and stepmother to the Superior Court jury hearing their trial for murder.

W. H. Anderson, Live Oak rancher, and his wife, Donnie, were shot to death on the evening of September 8, in the bedroom of their home.

"Did you plan to kill them?" District Attorney Loyd Hewitt asked young James, 15.

"Yes," he testified. "If a neighbor woman hadn't come over in the afternoon and asked us to do an errand in Live Oak we would have shot Mr. Anderson then."

That evening, he continued, "we hid on the porch by the window. Yes, we had guns. They were loaded. I pulled the trigger, so as to shoot Donnie."

Fifteen-year-old Billy testified his father was a heavy drinker.

"All the time he slapped and beat me with his closed fist," he said.

"Did you intend to kill your parents?" he was asked.

"No we were just talking about when we were going to do it. We got on the porch and waited. Then Nathern shot and I shot right after him. I squatted on the floor and raised up and closed my eyes and pulled the trigger."

The prosecution closed its case by having Sheriff G. W. Carpenter read the boys' separate confessions.

Australia Plans To Build 60,000 Houses Yearly

CANBERRA (AP)—Australia plans to employ 130,000 men in the building industry for the next 10 years, Prime Minister Joseph B. Chifley has announced.

This labor force is expected to put up 60,000 new houses and apartments a year and increase other building by 20 percent above pre-war construction.

In 1939, the peak year before the war, about 95,000 men were in the building industry and 40,000 new dwelling units were erected.

Chifley said every possible action was being taken to overcome a "serious" shortage of building materials.

Pair Given Long Terms For Baltimore Holdup

BALTIMORE, Oct. 31 (AP)—Julius Taibi and Alfred Rollo, 31-year-old Brooklyn residents, were sentenced to 20 years each in Maryland Penitentiary today by Judge Paul E. Mason after they pleaded guilty to armed holdup of the Century Athletic Club last Fourth of July.

Taibi was given an additional 20-year sentence for alleged participation in the January 13 holdup of the Baltimore Independent Democratic Club. Taibi actually received eight 20-year sentences and Rollo four, but Judge Mason directed they be served concurrently.

The two men changed their innocent pleas made at their arraignment on the charges a week ago. They were arrested in Brooklyn when police traced them through a pawned watch stolen from a victim in the Democratic Club holdup.

Road Accidents Take Two Lives

Bedford, Pa., Oct. 31.—A pedestrian and the driver of a car which crashed into a loaded coal truck were killed in recent Bedford county accidents.

The pedestrian, Marshall Sherman Leasure, 35, was struck by a car one mile east of here. Pvt. Andrew Hudicka of Bedford substation said Leasure was walking along the highway with his back to traffic when he was struck by a car operated by Homer Ritchey, 57, Hopewell, R. D. 1. Authorities said Leasure was wearing dark clothes.

The driver told authorities that he did not see the victim until a moment before his car hit him. Coroner Vernon Geisel listed deatr as accidental and said he could see no reason for holding an inquest.

Mr. Leasure, who was unmarried, was born in Bedford county, March 31, 1911, a son of Luther and Annie (Rose) Leasure. His father preceded him in death. The victim had been employed as a woodsman.

Besides his mother, he leaves a sister, Mrs. Ethel Campbell, of Fredericksburg, Pa.

The other victim was Fred A. Coote, Jr., 33, Everett, whose new car crashed into a truck while ascending Bald Hill, east of Everett. He was returning from Bedford where he had attended a meeting of the Bedford County Elks Lodge at the Arandale Hotel.

Pvt. Hudicka and Cononer Geisel investigated. The truck, loaded with seven tons of coal and driven by Harry M. Miller, Jr., 23, of Glen Burnie, Md., was in creeper gear going up the grade. It carried all the lights required, the authorities said. There was a great deal of fog.

Coroner Geisel said that there would be no inquest. The accident resulted either from the fog or from Mr. Coote falling asleep.

Coote was born January 14, 1913 in Everett, a son of Fred A. and Mary (Bowen) Coote. His father, a former postoffice employe, is dead. His mother lives in Everett.

Surviving are his widow, the former Rebena Williams, two children, and a brother, William.

For more than 15 years, Mr. Coote and his brother have operated a business in Everett bearing the name Coote Electric Company.

Gas Hearing Postponed

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31 (AP)—The Power Commission has postponed to December 3 resumption of a hearing on rates of the Pittsburgh and West Virginia Gas Company and the Kentucky-West Virginia Gas Company. The City of Pittsburgh is a complainant in the case.

Will Seal Mines In Nearby County

The program of sealing abandoned coal mines, suspended during the war, will be resumed in nearby Somerset county, Pa., with the first mines scheduled to be sealed being located on the watershed of the Casselman river in the vicinity of Meyersdale and Salisbury.

Representatives of the Pennsylvania State Sanitary Board were in the county last week checking on mines that could be sealed.

The program of closing abandoned mines was undertaken a number of years ago to protect the fish in the fresh water streams of the state.

Emory Fulton, of Stoystown, a member of the Somerset County Sportsmen's League, and delegate to the recent state convention, reported on a survey made last week of possible lake and pond sites in the county.

Tom O'Hara, engineer for the Pennsylvania State Fish Commission, viewed possible sites in the county. He reportedly was impressed with the sportsmen's first choice for a possible lake site along Route 219 north of Jennerstown.

Other locations surveyed by O'Hara were in the Laurel Hill, Shanksville and Negro Mountain areas.

Road Accidents Take Two Lives

Bedford, Pa., Oct. 31.—A pedestrian and the driver of a car which crashed into a loaded coal truck were killed in recent Bedford county accidents.

The pedestrian, Marshall Sherman Leasure, 35, was struck by a car one mile east of here. Pvt. Andrew Hudicka of Bedford substation said Leasure was walking along the highway with his back to traffic when he was struck by a car operated by Homer Ritchey, 57, Hopewell, R. D. 1. Authorities said Leasure was wearing dark clothes.

The driver told authorities that he did not see the victim until a moment before his car hit him. Coroner Vernon Geisel listed deatr as accidental and said he could see no reason for holding an inquest.

Mr. Leasure, who was unmarried, was born in Bedford county, March 31, 1911, a son of Luther and Annie (Rose) Leasure. His father preceded him in death. The victim had been employed as a woodsman.

Besides his mother, he leaves a sister, Mrs. Ethel Campbell, of Fredericksburg, Pa.

The other victim was Fred A. Coote, Jr., 33, Everett, whose new car crashed into a truck while ascending Bald Hill, east of Everett. He was returning from Bedford where he had attended a meeting of the Bedford County Elks Lodge at the Arandale Hotel.

Pvt. Hudicka and Cononer Geisel investigated. The truck, loaded with seven tons of coal and driven by Harry M. Miller, Jr., 23, of Glen Burnie, Md., was in creeper gear going up the grade. It carried all the lights required, the authorities said. There was a great deal of fog.

Coroner Geisel said that there would be no inquest. The accident resulted either from the fog or from Mr. Coote falling asleep.

Coote was born January 14, 1913 in Everett, a son of Fred A. and Mary (Bowen) Coote. His father, a former postoffice employe, is dead. His mother lives in Everett.

Surviving are his widow, the former Rebena Williams, two children, and a brother, William.

For more than 15 years, Mr. Coote and his brother have operated a business in Everett bearing the name Coote Electric Company.

Gas Hearing Postponed

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31 (AP)—The Power Commission has postponed to December 3 resumption of a hearing on rates of the Pittsburgh and West Virginia Gas Company and the Kentucky-West Virginia Gas Company. The City of Pittsburgh is a complainant in the case.

Will Seal Mines In Nearby County

The program of sealing abandoned coal mines, suspended during the war, will be resumed in nearby Somerset county, Pa., with the first mines scheduled to be sealed being located on the watershed of the Casselman river in the vicinity of Meyersdale and Salisbury.

Representatives of the Pennsylvania State Sanitary Board were in the county last week checking on mines that could be sealed.

The program of closing abandoned mines was undertaken a number of years ago to protect the fish in the fresh water streams of the state.

Emory Fulton, of Stoystown, a member of the Somerset County Sportsmen's League, and delegate to the recent state convention, reported on a survey made last week of possible lake and pond sites in the county.

Tom O'Hara, engineer for the Pennsylvania State Fish Commission, viewed possible sites in the county. He reportedly was impressed with the sportsmen's first choice for a possible lake site along Route 219 north of Jennerstown.

Other locations surveyed by O'Hara were in the Laurel Hill, Shanksville and Negro Mountain areas.

Marie McDonald, Famed as "The Body," Seeks to Rid Herself of That Title

"THE BODY"—Bathing suit reveals good reason for Marie's nickname.

"NOT INTERESTED"—Though Marie McDonald has offered to give Marilyn Buford, above, "Body" title, Marilyn prefers "Miss America."

By VICTOR GUNSON
Central Press Correspondent

HOLLYWOOD — Marie McDonald, rated Hollywood's shapeliest, figures she might use a little advice these days.

For six months past, since she won her contract fight with Hunt Stromberg, she has been trying to divest herself of the title someone dubbed her with three years ago—"The Body."

Today she admitted it was tough.

"I don't know why it should be," she said. "I don't know why anyone should pay any unusual attention to my figure. The attention may be flattering, but my main interest these days is in a solid dramatic career.

"A silly title like someone tagged on me—one which unfortunately stuck—is no help, believe me."

Marie's latest effort to get rid of the title for good was one to pass it along to shapely Marilyn Buferd, the Los Angeles blonde who went to Atlantic City to capture "Miss America" honors.

Miss Buferd is two inches taller and 13 pounds heavier than Marie, but Marie decided that whoever wore "Miss America's" crown should bear the title of "The Body," too.

So she sent Miss Buferd a special message informing her of her "gift."

Marie even added:

"I hope it brings you the same luck it has brought me."

To date Miss Buferd apparently still prefers to be known as plain "Miss America." She has made no move to assume Miss McDonald's title.

Marie began her real efforts to make the public less conscious of her luscious curves two months ago when a studio signed her for the top role of her screen career, opposite sensational Gene Kelly in Gregory La Cava's "Life's for the Loving."

"I just want people to think of me as an actress," she explained.

"When you've been tagged with a title like 'The Body' you can't imagine some of the things some people will shout at you when you're on a personal appearance tour. It's embarrassing!

"Look what the title of the 'Oomph Girl' almost did to Ann Sheridan. It almost killed her career!"

Marie continued:

"I'm perfectly satisfied that I'll firmly establish myself as an actress, too, but I do think these titles they stick on people in Hollywood are ridiculous.

"You just have to work hard to live them down, as others have lived them down."

She could have cited Anita Colby, world famous "cover girl," who came to Hollywood to be dubbed "The Face."

Miss Colby, however, gave up her acting career to take an executive position with the David O. Selznick studio.

Or, Marie might have cited Humphrey Bogart's sultry sultry actress wife, Lauren Bacall, who has been dubbed "The Look."

Mrs. Bogart expects that title will go into the limbo of the forgotten when she gets another role comparable to her first.

Miss McDonald conceded some of the beautiful costumes the studio has given her for her next picture are not altogether conducive to making the public forget her fugure.

"But," said Marie, "I really don't know why my clothes should make any difference."

For the first part of the picture, laid at a garden party around a swimming pool, Marie wears a very form-fitting white swimming suit.

"It's just an ordinary swimming suit like any girl might wear on the beach," insisted Marie, who's an expert swimmer herself.

Then there is a dance rehearsal costume, with full length net stockings.

After that, there is a Grecian dancing costume, also with full length net stockings.

Even Marie's afternoon dresses are cut rather low.

Marie concluded:

"I really don't see why anyone should pay any particular attention to those kind of things. They don't mean anything.

"The people should notice my acting, not what I'm wearing. That's what I intend to make them do."

Bus Hits Parked Car

Nobody was injured yesterday at 1:30 p. m. when a parked car being operated by Mrs. Frances Swisher, 26, 338 Virginia avenue, was struck by a bus at the intersection of Baltimore and South Centre streets. Mrs. Swisher said the bus driver, Walter Miller, Altoona, Pa., cut over from the middle traffic lane and struck the car.

Rosella Smith Becomes Bride Of Sherman Hyde

By MARIE MERRBACH

LONACONING, Oct. 31—Mr. and Mrs. Peter Smith, St. Mary's terrace, announce the marriage of their daughter, Rosella, to Sherman Hyde, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Hyde Sr., of Borden Shaft.

The marriage took place Friday evening, October 25, at 8 o'clock in the parsonage of the First Methodist Church. Rev. John E. Stacks, pastor, performed the single ring ceremony.

The couple's only attendants were Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Ward of Frostburg.

The bride was attired in a blue street-length dress with black accessories. Mrs. Ward wore a brown dress with cherry coke accessories.

The bride is a graduate of Central High school and is employed at the Celanese plant. Mr. Hyde is a veteran of World War II having served two years in Europe. He is now working at the Kelly-Springfield plant.

Following the wedding the couple left for a brief honeymoon in Washington and Baltimore. They will reside in Lonaconing.

Lintz Rites Held

Club Elects Officers

The dance club of Central High school elected officers at their meeting on Tuesday evening at 7:30 o'clock in the auditorium of the school.

Dorothy McIntyre was elected president; Mary Ann Powers was vice president; Shirley Foote was secretary; and Billy Crable was treasurer.

The club meets each Tuesday night from 7:30 to 9:30 p. m. at the school under the supervision of J. Leo Delaney, director of Student Activities. They have a collection of records for dancing.

Select Cheerleaders

Cheerleaders selected this week for Central High school are Shirley Mae Foote, Mary Ann Powers, Dorothy Jean Johnston, Paul Johnson, Billy Neff and Joe Reinhart.

Parade Is Held

The Lonaconing City Band and Goodwill Volunteer Fire Company No. 1 held a masquerade parade on Wednesday night at 7:30 on the Main streets of Lonaconing and then a masquerade dance in the Firemen's Armory. The parade was led by the band and fire company and many participants, both young and old. Buck Dreyer's rescue squad truck was at the end of the line.

Parade winners were Jane Nicols, Florence Duckworth, Emma Wilkes, Elsie McKenzie, Carl Thomas, Joe Jenkins, Shirley Wilson, Eunice Moffatt, Ann Perry Chappell and Billy Nine.

Winners at the dance were Judy Marshall, Rae Ann Eichhorn, Ann Perry Chappell, Mrs. Marhall Creighton, Mrs. Melvin Merrbach, Billy Nine, Bobby Hyde, June Johnson, David Stevenson, Alex Patton and Mrs. William Marshall.

Junior Trost and Shirley Foote won first prize in the jitterbug contest. George Kelly and Betty Lou Robertson won second prize in the jitterbug contest.

Music was provided by an orchestra of members of the Lonaconing city band.

HOLLYWOOD — Marie McDonald, rated Hollywood's shapeliest, figures she might use a little advice these days.

For six months past, since she won her contract fight with Hunt Stromberg, she has been trying to divest herself of the title someone dubbed her with three years ago—"The Body."

Today she admitted it was tough.

"I don't know why it should be," she said. "I don't know why anyone should pay any unusual attention to my figure. The attention may be flattering, but my main interest these days is in a solid dramatic career.

"A silly title like someone tagged on me—one which unfortunately stuck—is no help, believe me."

Marie's latest effort to get rid of the title for good was one to pass it along to shapely Marilyn Buferd, the Los Angeles blonde who went to Atlantic City to capture "Miss America" honors.

Miss Buferd is two inches taller and 13 pounds heavier than Marie, but Marie decided that whoever wore "Miss America's" crown should bear the title of "The Body," too.

So she sent Miss Buferd a special message informing her of her "gift."

Marie even added:

"I hope it brings you the same luck it has brought me."

To date Miss Buferd apparently still prefers to be known as plain "Miss America." She has made no move to assume Miss McDonald's title.

Marie began her real efforts to make the public less conscious of her luscious curves two months ago when a studio signed her for the top role of her screen career, opposite sensational Gene Kelly in Gregory La Cava's "Life's for the Loving."

"I just want people to think of me as an actress," she explained.

"When you've been tagged with a title like 'The Body' you can't imagine some of the things some people will shout at you when you're on a personal appearance tour. It's embarrassing!

"Look what the title of the 'Oomph Girl' almost did to Ann Sheridan. It almost killed her career!"

Marie continued:

"I'm perfectly satisfied that I'll firmly establish myself as an actress, too, but I do think these titles they stick on people in Hollywood are ridiculous.

"You just have to work hard to live them down, as others have lived them down."

She could have cited Anita Colby, world famous "cover girl," who came to Hollywood to be dubbed "The Face."

Miss Colby, however, gave up her acting career to take an executive position with the David O. Selznick studio.

Or, Marie might have cited Humphrey Bogart's sultry sultry actress wife, Lauren Bacall, who has been dubbed "The Look."

Mrs. Bogart expects that title will go into the limbo of the forgotten when she gets another role comparable to her first.

Miss McDonald conceded some of the beautiful costumes the studio has given her for her next picture are not altogether conducive to making the public forget her fugure.

"But," said Marie, "I really don't know why my clothes should make any difference."

For the first part of the picture, laid at a garden party around a swimming pool, Marie wears a very form-fitting white swimming suit.

"It's just an ordinary swimming suit like any girl might wear on the beach," insisted Marie, who's an expert swimmer herself.

Then there is a dance rehearsal costume, with full length net stockings.

After that, there is a Grecian dancing costume, also with full length net stockings.

Even Marie's afternoon dresses are cut rather low.

Marie concluded:

"I really don't see why anyone should pay any particular attention to those kind of things. They don't mean anything.

"The people should notice my acting, not what I'm wearing. That's what I intend to make them do."

similar meeting was scheduled yesterday afternoon.

Charts indicating the monthly trend of veteran's referrals to jobs and placements as well as other matters pertaining to veterans' affairs were explained to Gen. Hershey by Carroll soon after the former arrived.

In addition to Carroll the general was greeted by Arthur L. Schoenthal, assistant director of Region 4 of the USES; Grafton Lee Brown, state director, and Michael F. Prendergast, state director of operations for the USES.

Meets Personnel

A short meeting got underway soon after the personnel of the USES and Maryland Unemployment Compensation Board offices were introduced to the general.

Carroll informed Gen. Hershey that the number of veterans unemployed here totals about 1,800, a considerable drop from the 2,500 to 3,000 listed last winter and spring, and pointed out that Cumberland is the industrial center for the tri-state area which has a population of about 200,000 persons.

Brown reported that 25 per cent of the job placements in this area are made from the local office and said that this is far above the average.

In a brief discussion relating to servicemen's readjustment allowances, Brown told the general that in Maryland about 13,000 veterans are drawing such compensation for an average of eight weeks. He said that comparatively few had drawn the allowance for the limit of 52 weeks.

Brown also informed Gen. Hershey that better than 19,000 veterans have been placed in jobs by the USES in Maryland this year and that nearly 4,000 veterans have been counseled and given special service. Almost 47,000 placements have been made throughout the state, Brown said, and more than half of all placements have been veterans.

Just a short time now until woman's place will be in the fur coat.

Seapower Will Be

seapower, the speaker declared. He said Japan had 100,000 troops on the island when the Americans landed, although with its countless caves Japan could have put 1,000,000 men on the island with ample provisions for a long war had they not been denied the use of the seas by our overwhelming seapower.

The Pacific war could not have been fought much less won without the enormous amount of ships we produced and equipped. All of America enters into seapower, Commodore Eller asserted. Ours was a civilian built Navy, and it was a citizen provided Navy. The cry kept going up for more ships and the civilians gave them to us. Early in the war we had convoys which went across the Atlantic unescorted because we did not have the ships to escort them.

American citizens made the winning of the war possible, and you who stayed at home and furnished us ships and supplies, had as much a part in the war as those of us who were in combat.

The Navy must be progressive in its training, the speaker asserted, and said that it was a greatly expanded peacetime organization with which we fought and won the war.

Commodore Eller in concluding his talk said that he felt sure seapower would survive the next revolution in modern warfare as it has down through the history of America. The development of submarines and aircraft did not make seapower obsolete instead both have been integrated into the Navy giving us the greatest seapower force in the world and the greatest ever developed.

Green, a miner employed at the old Hampshire mine, near Franklin, this county, was instantly killed on Wednesday by a fall of rock."

A copy of the Evening Times for February 27, 1905, bears no resemblance to today's edition. All stories on the front page have headlines only one column wide, and the right hand side of the page is devoted to advertising. There is a dispatch on the fighting in Manchuria, a story about a woman in New York who underwent a surgical operation intended for another person, other national and world-wide news, and one story from the Maryland Geological Survey on an exhibit of mineral resources at the World's Fair in St. Louis.

Mining Journal Discovered

The April 3, 1905 edition of the Daily News carries larger headlines than most of the other papers found yesterday in the Bedford street home. There is a two-column headline on a fire in Murphy's grocery store, Lonaconing, and another two-column heading on a story about a new warehouse to be built by Swift and Company. Nearly half of the front page is devoted to advertising purposes.

A smaller paper of that time, the Independent, "A Paper of Quality," has only three stories on the top half of the page, each with small one-line headlines. One is an account of the prison life of Nan Patterson, an actress accused of killing a bookmaker; the second is an editorial on the action of the State Department in proposing to refund to China most of the "Boxer Rebellion" indemnity; and the third is a fashion story, which remarks that "Women of the next generation are to have big feet."

The "Mining Journal" of Frostburg, in its July 16, 1904 edition, carries its advertising in the two left-hand columns; a syndicated short story, and only two regular news stories, one on a miners' strike in Colorado and the other on money wasted in highway repairs throughout the country.

The house in which the papers were found was formerly a Lutheran parsonage. Later it belonged to Hervey Shuck, Sr., one-time register of wills, and last February it was purchased by C. J. Goodrich. One of the old newspapers bears a pencil notation "register of wills office," across the top, probably to identify the subscriber for whom it was intended.

Mrs. Florence Rohrer, who resides in the two-story house, obligingly tied up sample copies of the old newspapers for a reporter, but the remainder, yellowed and torn, will be burned.

Sweeney Endorsed By Veterans At Parsons Meeting

By HELEN COLLETT

PARSONS, Oct. 31—At a meeting of the "Veteran's Snyder for Congress Club" held in the Court House Tuesday evening, the group went on record as endorsing the candidacy of Thomas Sweeney, of Wheeling, for the office of the United States Senate now held by Harley Kilgore.

At the open meeting, where all veterans of both World War I and II had been invited to take part, the endorsement of Mr. Sweeney was carried without a dissenting vote, and several talks in support of he and Melvin C. Snyder, were made.

Cleon W. Raese, of Davis, candidate for the House of Delegates on the Republican ticket, a veteran of World War I, who lost two sons in World War II, talked briefly, as well as Dr. W. E. Whitesides, and Gordon Lambert, both of Parsons and both veterans of World War II.

Robert Shrout, president of the local organization, who presided, said that the person responsible for the spread which ran on the front page of the local Democratic paper last week should publicly announce that Mr. Randolph is not a veteran of any war and is not entitled to the use of the emblem for political purposes.

The spread referred to by Mr. Shrout, ran across the bottom of the paper with the discharge emblem on one side, a picture of Mr. Randolph on the other side, and the words "Support the man who has supported you", carried between.

Mr. Shrout said further that of the 17 laws concerning benefits for veterans of World War II, Mr. Randolph voted for five, during his stay in Washington, a fact which would discount any claim made by Randolph supporters for veteran's support.

Herbert James Drowned

Word has been received that the body of Herbert James has been shipped from Oakland, Calif., on October 29th and will arrive at Thomas on a special train on Saturday, November 2.

The services will be held on Sunday at the Texas Mountain Church near Horseshoe Run.

Pfc. Herbert James, 18, was drowned on Luzon on September 17 and his body was started home at that time. He was born in Kempton, January 2, 1928 and entered the service August 16, 1945. He is the son of Arthur and Oda James and is survived by his parents, three brothers, Walter, Arthur, Jr., and William, all at home and one sister, Mrs. Freda Repetesky also of Kempton.

Principal's Meeting Held

Felix Colabrese, principal of the Douglas Grade school, was elected as president of the Tucker county Principal's association at their reorganization meeting held in the county superintendent's office in Parsons on Tuesday evening. Other officers elected were Earl Corcoran, principal of Hamrick as vice-president, Mrs. Naomi Kneisly, principal of Davis grades as secretary-treasurer.

The members voted to endorse the proposed school amendment. The next meeting of the association will be held in Thomas on November 26th and they will be feted by the Home Economics class of that school.

4-H Clubs Elect

Several more 4-H clubs of the county have been organized during the past week including Parsons Junior High school with 53 members enrolled. Leader is Miss Margaret Moore and president, Jean Fraley, vice-president, Nancy Auvil, secretary-treasurer, Phil Wolfe, and song leaders, Nancy Barb and Jane Hamrick. Reporter is Edwin Booth.

Pleasant Vale has Mrs. Kathleen Sampson as leader, Opal Knotts as president, Willard Lickens as vice president, Bonnie Hanline a secretary-treasurer and Hubert Knotts as reporter. Adalene Knotts is program chairman.

Sweeney Endorsed By Veterans At Parsons Meeting

By HELEN COLLETT

PARSONS, Oct. 31—At a meeting of the "Veteran's Snyder for Congress Club" held in the Court House Tuesday evening, the group went on record as endorsing the candidacy of Thomas Sweeney, of Wheeling, for the office of the United States Senate now held by Harley Kilgore.

At the open meeting, where all veterans of both World War I and II had been invited to take part, the endorsement of Mr. Sweeney was carried without a dissenting vote, and several talks in support of he and Melvin C. Snyder, were made.

Cleon W. Raese, of Davis, candidate for the House of Delegates on the Republican ticket, a veteran of World War I, who lost two sons in World War II, talked briefly, as well as Dr. W. E. Whitesides, and Gordon Lambert, both of Parsons and both veterans of World War II.

Robert Shrout, president of the local organization, who presided, said that the person responsible for the spread which ran on the front page of the local Democratic paper last week should publicly announce that Mr. Randolph is not a veteran of any war and is not entitled to the use of the emblem for political purposes.

The spread referred to by Mr. Shrout, ran across the bottom of the paper with the discharge emblem on one side, a picture of Mr. Randolph on the other side, and the words "Support the man who has supported you", carried between.

Mr. Shrout said further that of the 17 laws concerning benefits for veterans of World War II, Mr. Randolph voted for five, during his stay in Washington, a fact which would discount any claim made by Randolph supporters for veteran's support.

He is the son of Arthur and Oda James and is survived by his parents, three brothers, Walter, Arthur, Jr., and William, all at home and one sister, Mrs. Freda Repetesky also of Kempton.

Principal's Meeting Held

Felix Colabrese, principal of the Douglas Grade school, was elected as president of the Tucker county Principal's association at their reorganization meeting held in the county superintendent's office in Parsons on Tuesday evening. Other officers elected were Earl Corcoran, principal of Hamrick as vice-president, Mrs. Naomi Kneisly, principal of Davis grades as secretary-treasurer.

Son Of Former Editor Of Sunpapers Found Dead

BALTIMORE, Oct. 31 (AP)—John W. Owens, Jr., 24-year-old son of the editor-emeritus and former editor-in-chief of the Baltimore Sunpapers, was found dead of a bullet wound in the mouth today at the room to which he moved when he entered law school following discharge from the Marine Corps.

Police reported a handyman found the body when he entered the room with a passkey. They estimated young Owens had been dead several hours but questioning of other tenants developed none heard a shot.

POW Operates Own Business

MELBOURNE (AP)—Ronny Leimbach, a German internee, escaped from Tatura internment camp last December, went to the country and got a job as a farm hand.

He worked hard and saved hard. When he thought he had enough in his pocket, he set himself up in business making leather brief cases—a trade he learned as an internee—and persuaded the landlady of his boarding house to go into partnership with him.

She did all the buying and selling, and the business thrived until the other day when detectives arrived and took Leimbach to his internment camp.

Traffic Light Needed To Steer Burglars

HAGERSTOWN, Md.—(AP)—If burglar No. 5 attempts to break into W. M. Chaney's oft-ransacked filling station he'll really be courting trouble.

Chaney, heartily tired of being robbed—it happened three times this year—was on the premises when a fourth attempt was made recently. He blasted away with an automatic pistol, firing seven shots. All missed and the burglar, accomplishing nothing, ran.

But, says Chaney grimly, "The next man who tires had better be prepared to meet his undertaker."

Veterans Protest Fairchild Layoffs

HAGERSTOWN, Md., Oct. 31 (AP)—Twenty veterans, among 500 persons given discharge notices by the Fairchild aircraft plant, staged a protest meeting today in the regional Veterans' Administration office, Manager William W. Baker said.

Baker said a spokesman for the former servicemen reported that while the layoffs were according to seniority they protested continued employment of women in production jobs.

Baker informed the group the VA could not become involved in the matter and he advised them to seek assistance of veterans' organizations.

Richard S. Boutelle, Fairchild vice president, said "our working force is being leveled off to meet scheduled requirements" and confirmed the 500 discharge notices. He said the layoffs were made in accordance with a contract with the United Auto Workers (CIO) under which women have the same seniority rights as men.

To keep scissors and shears working well, oil them about every six months. A drop of sewing machine oil on both sides of the screw holding the blades together is sufficient.

R. G. Wells Weds Miss Lorraine Byrd

The ceremony was performed October 28 in St. Philips Episcopal church, with Rev. G. Stanley Schwind officiating. Mrs. Roberta Thompson was her sister's matron of honor and George Thompson gave his sister-in-law in marriage. Howard William Wells served as his brother's best man.

The bride is a graduate of Carver High School and is employed at Montgomery Ward store. The bridegroom also attended Carver High School and is employed by Hubert Franklin.

The couple will reside at the home of the bride's mother.

Democrats Work To Tighten Defenses In New York And Chicago

By JACK BELL

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31 (AP)—Republicans are linking an effort to win House and Senate control in next Tuesday's election with an all-out attempt to drive a wedge into Democratic big-city strongholds that would pay dividends in the 1948 presidential race.

Democrats, well aware of what is going on, are working desperately to tighten their defenses in such key cities as New York, Chicago, Los Angeles, Pittsburgh, Boston, Jersey City and Kansas City.

These and a dozen other heavily-populated areas are generally credited by politicians with providing the margin by which Presidents are elected in contests that otherwise might be close.

Chicago Battleground

With this thought frankly in mind, Illinois Republicans are putting more steam than they have for years into an effort to crack open Mayor Edward Kelly's control of the city and county machinery in Chicago.

Their belief, as expressed by Sen. C. Wayland Brooks (R-Ill) to this reporter, is that if the GOP organization there ever "tastes blood" by breaking through to win even one of the four major county offices at stake Tuesday, they will be hard to stop in the city elections next spring and in the 1948 presidential battle.

Kelly, on the other hand, remains confident his organization will return at least a 200,000 Cook county (Chicago) majority for the Democratic ticket next week. It gave President Roosevelt a 363,000 majority over Gov. Thomas E. Dewey in the 1944 presidential race.

GOP Counting Philadelphia

Pittsburgh, knocked off balance by a prolonged power strike, is looked upon by Republicans as ripe for some picking this year.

GOP leaders generally expect the Democratic majority there—which added up to nearly 80,000 for President Roosevelt in 1944—to be sharply reduced.

Republicans count Philadelphia a GOP city, despite the majority it gave the late President, and confidently predict it will stay in their column in 1948 if it gives Gov. Edward Martin (R) the margin they expect in the Senate race this year.

But Sen. Guffey (D), seeking re-election, told this reporter he thinks he will break even in Philadelphia and overcome rural Republican majorities with the vote he gets in Pittsburgh.

Food for Thought

STABILIZATION of farm prices and expansion of world agriculture are essential to lasting world peace, declared Sir John Boyd Orr during a conference at the U.S. Department of Agriculture in Washington. Director General of the U.N. Food and Agricultural Organization, Sir John warned that "there can be no peace in a hungry world." (International)

Reds Give Ports Back To Poland

WARSAW, Poland. (AP)—Poland is continuing to take over administration of Baltic ports areas which have been occupied by the Soviets since the end of the war, the semi-official newspaper Rzeczpospolita reported.

At Swinoujscie, formerly the German port of Swinemunde, Soviet authorities handed over the passenger harbor, the winter basin and southern basin.

The new and old part of the western pier and a shipyard for the construction of iron and concrete vessels was given to the Poles at Derlowo. Pontoon bridges and warehouses also were included. All properties require major repairs.

Kelly, on the other hand, remains confident his organization will return at least a 200,000 Cook county (Chicago) majority for the Democratic ticket next week. It gave President Roosevelt a 363,000 majority over Gov. Thomas E. Dewey in the 1944 presidential race.

GOP Counting Philadelphia

Pittsburgh, knocked off balance by a prolonged power strike, is looked upon by Republicans as ripe for some picking this year.

GOP leaders generally expect the Democratic majority there—which added up to nearly 80,000 for President Roosevelt in 1944—to be sharply reduced.

Republicans count Philadelphia a GOP city, despite the majority it gave the late President, and confidently predict it will stay in their column in 1948 if it gives Gov. Edward Martin (R) the margin they expect in the Senate race this year.

But Sen. Guffey (D), seeking re-election, told this reporter he thinks he will break even in Philadelphia and overcome rural Republican majorities with the vote he gets in Pittsburgh.

Food for Thought

STABILIZATION of farm prices and expansion of world agriculture are essential to lasting world peace, declared Sir John Boyd Orr during a conference at the U.S. Department of Agriculture in Washington. Director General of the U.N. Food and Agricultural Organization, Sir John warned that "there can be no peace in a hungry world." (International)

Reds Give Ports Back To Poland

WARSAW, Poland. (AP)—Poland is continuing to take over administration of Baltic ports areas which have been occupied by the Soviets since the end of the war, the semi-official newspaper Rzeczpospolita reported.

At Swinoujscie, formerly the German port of Swinemunde, Soviet authorities handed over the passenger harbor, the winter basin and southern basin.

The new and old part of the western pier and a shipyard for the construction of iron and concrete vessels was given to the Poles at Derlowo. Pontoon bridges and warehouses also were included. All properties require major repairs.

Speeder Forfeits Bond

FRESH BLOOD A MUST FOR FREE ENERGY

Do you feel like you are tied to a drag everytime you try to do something? If so, don't let a low blood count hold you down when you may release vibrant energy to every muscle, fibre, cell.

Every day—every hour—millions of tiny red-blood-cells must pour forth from the marrow of your bones to replace those that are worn-out. A low blood count may affect you in several ways: no appetite, underweight, no energy, a run-down condition, lack of resistance to infection and disease.

To get real relief you must keep up your blood strength. Medical authorities, by analysis of the blood, have by positive proof shown that SSS Tonic is amazingly effective in building up low blood strength in non-organic nutritional anemia. This is due to the SSS Tonic formula which contains special and potent activating ingredients.

Also, SSS Tonic helps you enjoy the food you eat by increasing the gastric digestive juice when it is non-organically too little or scanty—thus the stomach will have little cause to get balky with gas, bloat and give off that sour food taste.

Don't wait! Energize your body with rich, red-blood. Start on SSS Tonic now. As vigorous blood surges throughout your whole body, greater freshness and strength should make you eat better, sleep better, feel better, work better, play better, have a healthy color glow in your skin—firm flesh fill out hollow places. Millions of bottles sold. Get a bottle from your drug store. SSS Tonic helps Build Sturdy Health.

Chronic bronchitis may develop if your cough, chest cold, or acute bronchitis is not treated and you cannot afford to take a chance with any medicine less potent than Creomulsion which goes right to the seat of the trouble to help loosen and expel germ laden phlegm and aid nature to soothe and heal raw, tender, inflamed bronchial mucous membranes.

Creomulsion blends beechwood creosote by special process with other time tested medicines for coughs. It contains no narcotics.

No matter how many medicines you have tried, tell your druggist to sell you a bottle of Creomulsion with the understanding you must like the way it quickly allays the cough, permitting rest and sleep, or you are to have your money back. (Adv.)

KEEPING UP WITH

HOLLYWOOD

By LOUELLA PARSONS

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 31. — Ever since I first knew Anthony Quinn and Katherine De Mille, they have been talking about making a movie together and that's quite a long time. They have been married nine years. Now their dream comes true. They co-star in "Black Gold" Monogram's most ambitious film to date, and they'll play Indians. Black Gold is the name of the Kentucky Derby winner for 1924 and if you remember your racing history you'll recall this winner was owned by an Indian.

Talking to Steve Broidy, head of Monogram, he tells me producer Jeffrey Bernard and Director Phil Karlson have already shot backgrounds at Churchill Downs, and that Clem McCarthy, famed race commentator, will do the announcing. Anthony will surprise you in "Sinbad The Sailor" and Katie is getting a big chance in C. B. De Mille's (her dad) new movie "The Unconquered."

I was told today that Robert Taylor's next picture at MGM is to be "Scarmouche," a remake of Rafael Sabatini's famous swashbuckling novel. Ramon Navarro first brought it to the screen during the days when he and Rudolph Valentino were the top romantic stars. "Scaramouche" is a little different from anything Bob has ever made, but he's very delighted to play the adventurous type that Sabatini made so popular in all his novels.

Thursday or Friday William Goetz and Leo Spitz will again have "Bloomer Girl" on their list of movies to be made. I say "again" because at one time it was to have been made as an independent for Universal, but the original deal fell through. Now Universal-International will hand over $200,000 and a percentage of the profits to bring "Bloomer Girl," which was so highly successful on Broaway and which starred Celeste Holm, to the screen. Agent Nat Goldstone, who owns a piece of the stage play helped negotiate the deal.

I've had a lot of response to the item I ran in the paper asking the disabled veterans to tell me their opinion of Vetville, which song writer Harry Revel is organizing, a town where all of them can live and be together. Ed Sweeney, an ex-Marine, at Birmingham hospital, who is paralyzed from the waist down following spinal meningitis, said, "I canvassed the boys at the hospital and we do not feel we will be isolated at Vetville. We feel it's a wonderful thing. We can live our normal lives and not be secluded. Moreover, we can be together, and those of us who are able can work." Sweeney was a very brilliant young lawyer from Cleveland, Ohio, before the war.

Chatter in Hollywood: I'll always tell when the joke's on me, and here it is. The girl Artie Shaw introduced at King's restaurant as Maria Montejo, was really Kathleen Winsor. The very day we wrote our exclusive story that Bandleader Shaw had married the author of "Forever Amber," I learned that Artie and a very pretty girl had stopped at the Seacombers on their way to Mexico to get married, but it wasn't until her picture was printed in the Los Angeles Examiner that both the King's restaurant and the Seacomber's owners recognized Kathleen as Maria Montejo.

Lana Turner, if you remember rightly, was discovered at a soda fountain and Dorothy Lamour while she was running an elevator. But it has remained for Sandra Spence, a model visiting here from Washington State, to have a talent scout find her on the street. She was waiting for a bus when Jack Class, an agent, saw her, walked up to her and said, "would you be interested in a picture career?" "No, I can't act," she answered. When she saw it wasn't a wolf call, but actually a call to go with him to Universal-International for a part in "Time Out of Mind," she accepted. Robert Siodmak saw her and today she is being tested. Furthermore, Class got her a job posing for a big national advertising layout and a magazine cover. See what can happen in Hollywood?

Walter Horne, the most expensive barber in the world, has been loaned to Phil Raffin for the new barber shop Raffin is installing at the Somerset House, a restaurant in Hollywood. Horne came here to Hollywood with Al Bloomingdale some months ago, and in order to get him here, Al gave him a home and a car, as well as a banker's salary. Now Horne draws down $1000 a month from Raffin. At that rate, I'll bet a lot of people will want to become barbers.

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random: Gloria Swanson looking younger than ever at Ciro's with Martin Jones. She's visiting Zasu Pitts . . . . Frances and Sam Goldwyn will spend exactly four days in London. They go next week to see their son, Sammy, and to show Sam's latest movie, "The Best Years of Our Life" . . . . Mrs. Howard Hawks is visiting the Ernest Hemingways at Sun Valley. She'll be gone six weeks, which makes her friends believe she will get her divorce from Howard there . . . . Congratulations Morning Telegraph. Edith Gwynn has signed to do a movie column. She'll continue, of course, her Hollywood reporter stint . . . . Sorry to say Dorothy Manners kept no diary in New York, so I am unable to report the things she did and didn't do. She's back at her desk, at last . . . . Patricia Morison has an offer to go to Italy for "La Tosca." I said yesterday there was never as beautiful a one as Ann Jeffreys. Well, Pat will be just as beautiful . . . . Alan Ladd does a little singing in his next picture with Dorothy Lamour, and Frank Loesser is writing something about the deep south for them. Seems no one knew Alan had that talent until he sang for the veterans . . . . Spike Jones is the 350th big name—or nearly that—to be signed for "Variety Girl." He and his music are the center of "The Plot" . . . . The very attractive son of Senora Maria Louisa Figueroa, is being married December 20. The bride is Laura Cornejo . . . . Roddy McDowall shared honors at a party given for young Lord Anthony Furness by his mother. Tony is returning to England to school . . . . Did the girls have fun eating all the ice cream they wanted? I mean at the showers Mrs. Kay Kyser gave Mrs. Arhtur Cameron at Will Wright's ice cream emporium . . . . Up to date Laurette Taylor is turning down all movie offers because she didn't live the way she was photographed when she was here 25 years ago. That's all today.

NEW NBC STAR—Ex-GI baritone Mac Morgan, discovery of conductor Paul Lavalle, has been signed as regular singing star on NBC Friday night "Highways In Melody" program.

New Zealand Vets Back in Homeland

AUCKLAND, N. Z. — (AP) — With the return of the last portion of New Zealand's original occupation force from Japan the Dominion has completed repatriation of all large bodies of troops who were serving overseas on VJ-Day.

Out of a population of 632,000 when war started, the Dominion had 355,000 men of military age. A total of 205,000 (including a few thousand women) joined the forces during the war, while there were peak totals of 124,000 in the home guard and 150,000 in the Emergency Precautions Service. The maximum mobilization in the services was 157,000 in Sept., 1942.

A hailstorm occurring in Dallas, Tex., on May 8, 1926, took a toll of $2,000,000 in damages during its duration of 20 minutes.

By LOUELLA PARSONS

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 31. — Ever since I first knew Anthony Quinn and Katherine De Mille, they have been talking about making a movie together and that's quite a long time. They have been married nine years. Now their dream comes true. They co-star in "Black Gold" Monogram's most ambitious film to date, and they'll play Indians. Black Gold is the name of the Kentucky Derby winner for 1924 and if you remember your racing history you'll recall this winner was owned by an Indian.

Talking to Steve Broidy, head of Monogram, he tells me producer Jeffrey Bernard and Director Phil Karlson have already shot backgrounds at Churchill Downs, and that Clem McCarthy, famed race commentator, will do the announcing. Anthony will surprise you in "Sinbad The Sailor" and Katie is getting a big chance in C. B. De Mille's (her dad) new movie "The Unconquered."

I was told today that Robert Taylor's next picture at MGM is to be "Scarmouche," a remake of Rafael Sabatini's famous swashbuckling novel. Ramon Navarro first brought it to the screen during the days when he and Rudolph Valentino were the top romantic stars. "Scaramouche" is a little different from anything Bob has ever made, but he's very delighted to play the adventurous type that Sabatini made so popular in all his novels.

Thursday or Friday William Goetz and Leo Spitz will again have "Bloomer Girl" on their list of movies to be made. I say "again" because at one time it was to have been made as an independent for Universal, but the original deal fell through. Now Universal-International will hand over $200,000 and a percentage of the profits to bring "Bloomer Girl," which was so highly successful on Broaway and which starred Celeste Holm, to the screen. Agent Nat Goldstone, who owns a piece of the stage play helped negotiate the deal.

I've had a lot of response to the item I ran in the paper asking the disabled veterans to tell me their opinion of Vetville, which song writer Harry Revel is organizing, a town where all of them can live and be together. Ed Sweeney, an ex-Marine, at Birmingham hospital, who is paralyzed from the waist down following spinal meningitis, said, "I canvassed the boys at the hospital and we do not feel we will be isolated at Vetville. We feel it's a wonderful thing. We can live our normal lives and not be secluded. Moreover, we can be together, and those of us who are able can work." Sweeney was a very brilliant young lawyer from Cleveland, Ohio, before the war.

Chatter in Hollywood: I'll always tell when the joke's on me, and here it is. The girl Artie Shaw introduced at King's restaurant as Maria Montejo, was really Kathleen Winsor. The very day we wrote our exclusive story that Bandleader Shaw had married the author of "Forever Amber," I learned that Artie and a very pretty girl had stopped at the Seacombers on their way to Mexico to get married, but it wasn't until her picture was printed in the Los Angeles Examiner that both the King's restaurant and the Seacomber's owners recognized Kathleen as Maria Montejo.

Lana Turner, if you remember rightly, was discovered at a soda fountain and Dorothy Lamour while she was running an elevator. But it has remained for Sandra Spence, a model visiting here from Washington State, to have a talent scout find her on the street. She was waiting for a bus when Jack Class, an agent, saw her, walked up to her and said, "would you be interested in a picture career?" "No, I can't act," she answered. When she saw it wasn't a wolf call, but actually a call to go with him to Universal-International for a part in "Time Out of Mind," she accepted. Robert Siodmak saw her and today she is being tested. Furthermore, Class got her a job posing for a big national advertising layout and a magazine cover. See what can happen in Hollywood?

NEW NBC STAR—Ex-GI baritone Mac Morgan, discovery of conductor Paul Lavalle, has been signed as regular singing star on NBC Friday night "Highways In Melody" program.

Walter Horne, the most expensive barber in the world, has been loaned to Phil Raffin for the new barber shop Raffin is installing at the Somerset House, a restaurant in Hollywood. Horne came here to Hollywood with Al Bloomingdale some months ago, and in order to get him here, Al gave him a home and a car, as well as a banker's salary. Now Horne draws down $1000 a month from Raffin. At that rate, I'll bet a lot of people will want to become barbers.

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random: Gloria Swanson looking younger than ever at Ciro's with Martin Jones. She's visiting Zasu Pitts . . . . Frances and Sam Goldwyn will spend exactly four days in London. They go next week to see their son, Sammy, and to show Sam's latest movie, "The Best Years of Our Life" . . . . Mrs. Howard Hawks is visiting the Ernest Hemingways at Sun Valley. She'll be gone six weeks, which makes her friends believe she will get her divorce from Howard there . . . . Congratulations Morning Telegraph. Edith Gwynn has signed to do a movie column. She'll continue, of course, her Hollywood reporter stint . . . . Sorry to say Dorothy Manners kept no diary in New York, so I am unable to report the things she did and didn't do. She's back at her desk, at last . . . . Patricia Morison has an offer to go to Italy for "La Tosca." I said yesterday there was never as beautiful a one as Ann Jeffreys. Well, Pat will be just as beautiful . . . . Alan Ladd does a little singing in his next picture with Dorothy Lamour, and Frank Loesser is writing something about the deep south for them. Seems no one knew Alan had that talent until he sang for the veterans . . . . Spike Jones is the 350th big name—or nearly that—to be signed for "Variety Girl." He and his music are the center of "The Plot" . . . . The very attractive son of Senora Maria Louisa Figueroa, is being married December 20. The bride is Laura Cornejo . . . . Roddy McDowall shared honors at a party given for young Lord Anthony Furness by his mother. Tony is returning to England to school . . . . Did the girls have fun eating all the ice cream they wanted? I mean at the showers Mrs. Kay Kyser gave Mrs. Arhtur Cameron at Will Wright's ice cream emporium . . . . Up to date Laurette Taylor is turning down all movie offers because she didn't live the way she was photographed when she was here 25 years ago. That's all today.

New Zealand Vets Back in Homeland

AUCKLAND, N. Z. — (AP) — With the return of the last portion of New Zealand's original occupation force from Japan the Dominion has completed repatriation of all large bodies of troops who were serving overseas on VJ-Day.

Out of a population of 632,000 when war started, the Dominion had 355,000 men of military age. A total of 205,000 (including a few thousand women) joined the forces during the war, while there were peak totals of 124,000 in the home guard and 150,000 in the Emergency Precautions Service. The maximum mobilization in the services was 157,000 in Sept., 1942.

A hailstorm occurring in Dallas, Tex., on May 8, 1926, took a toll of $2,000,000 in damages during its duration of 20 minutes.

Can't Speak To Women

BOGOTA—(AP)—That police officers here are forbidden to speak to women, "especially to maid-servants," while on duty, was revealed recently by director general Carlos Vanegas.

Stock Market Stages One Of Its Sharpest Rallies In Seven Years

NEW YORK, Oct. 31 (AP)—Buoyed partly by a jump of $10 a bale in recently weak cotton futures, the stock market today negotiated one of its sharpest rallies of the past seven years with leading rails and industries climbing one to seven points or so.

Dealings and prices tapered after an active extension of Wednesday's late sprint but heavy orders for carriers and industrials around midday put the high speed ticker tape as much as three minutes late for an interval. There were subsequent slowdowns with quotations trimmed. Transfers of 1,690,000 shares compared with 1,940,000 the day before which were the largest since October 15.

Bethlehem Steel ended up 3½ at 97½ and directors later voted the usual $1.50 dividend and disclosed net for the September quarter of $2.99 a share against $2.05 in the like 1945 months and $4.29 in the second quarter of the current year.

United States Steel added 2⅜ at 72¾, Youngstown Sheet 3¾ at 66¾, Santa Fe 5¼ at 88½, Atlantic Coast Line 3¼ at 51¼, Southern Pacific 3¼ at 44⅞, Southern Railway 3¼ at 41½, Chrysler 4⅜ at 83, General Motors 2⅝ at 51⅛, Johns-Manville 7½ at 122½, du Pont 4½ at 172, Eastman Kodak four at 208, Western Union "A" 2½ at 21⅜, International Silver 4¾ at 47¼ and Montgomery Ward two at 67.

In front were Republic Steel, Goodyear, United States Rubber, Sears Roebuck, International Harvester, Douglas Aircraft, Northwest Airlines, North American, Anaconda, Kennecott, Air Reduction, Westinghouse Electric, General Electric, New York Central, Pennsylvania Railroad, Baltimore and Ohio, Texas Company, Schenley and National Distillers.

American Telephone was an isolated soft spot, falling 1⅛ to 165¾ as the company's "rights" to its new debentures appeared on the big board on large-scale transactions.

Advancers in the Curb included Cities Service, Colonial Airlines, Creole Petroleum, American Cyanamid, Electric Bond and Share and Pansteel. Turnover here was 360,000 shares versus 500,000 yesterday.

Railroad obligations turned sharply upward in the bond market with some issues moving ahead four points.

Sales of $6,630,000 were the highest since October 15 when the total was $7,590,000, and compared with $4,570,000 Wednesday.

Long term United States government were up 1-32 at 6-32 in dealers' markets. The Victory Loan 2 1-2s of December 67-72 and the 2 1-2s of 65-70 were 6-32 higher and the 2 ⅜s of 60-65 and 2 1-2s of September 67-72 rose 3-32.

Stock Market Stages One Of Its Sharpest Rallies In Seven Years

NEW YORK, Oct. 31 (AP)—Buoyed partly by a jump of $10 a bale in recently weak cotton futures, the stock market today negotiated one of its sharpest rallies of the past seven years with leading rails and industries climbing one to seven points or so.

Dealings and prices tapered after an active extension of Wednesday's late sprint but heavy orders for carriers and industrials around midday put the high speed ticker tape as much as three minutes late for an interval. There were subsequent slowdowns with quotations trimmed. Transfers of 1,690,000 shares compared with 1,940,000 the day before which were the largest since October 15.

Bethlehem Steel ended up 3½ at 97½ and directors later voted the usual $1.50 dividend and disclosed net for the September quarter of $2.99 a share against $2.05 in the like 1945 months and $4.29 in the second quarter of the current year.

United States Steel added 2⅝ at 72¾, Youngstown Sheet 3¾ at 66¼, Santa Fe 5¼ at 88½, Atlantic Coast Line 3¼ at 51¼, Southern Pacific 3¼ at 44⅞, Southern Railway 3¼ at 41½, Chrysler 4⅜ at 83, General Motors 2⅝ at 51¼, Johns-Manville 7½ at 122½, du Pont 4½ at 172, Eastman Kodak four at 208, Western Union "A" 2½ at 21⅜, International Silver 4⅜ at 47¼ and Montgomery Ward two at 67.

In front were Republic Steel, Goodyear, United States Rubber, Sears Roebuck, International Harvester, Douglas Aircraft, Northwest Airlines, North American, Anaconda, Kennecott, Air Reduction, Westinghouse Electric, General Electric, New York Central, Pennsylvania Railroad, Baltimore and Ohio, Texas Company, Schenley and National Distillers.

American Telephone was an isolated soft spot, falling 1⅛ to 165¾ as the company's "rights" to its new debentures appeared on the big board on large-scale transactions.

Advancers in the Curb included Cities Service, Colonial Airlines, Creole Petroleum, American Cyanamid, Electric Bond and Share and Fansteel. Turnover here was 360,000 shares versus 500,000 yesterday.

Railroad obligations turned sharply upward in the bond market with some issues moving ahead four points.

Sales of $6,630,000 were the highest since October 15 when the total was $7,590,000 and compared with $4,570,000 Wednesday.

Long term United States government were up 1-32 at 6-32 in dealers' markets. The Victory Loan 2 1-2s of December 67-72 and the 2 1-2s of 65-70 were 6-32 higher and the 2 ¾s of 60-65 and 2 1-2s of September 67-72 rose 3-32.

Listen World

By ELSIE ROBINSON

I have a pile of letters as tall as your arm and all of them red hot, just because I insinuated that some of us weren't as keen on working as we pretended.

So of course every jobless GI in the country and his mother and his aunt jumped on me for being a cruel, cold blooded capitalist.

All right, go on, jump. I'm used to it. But I'm not a capitalist. Only wish I were. I'm as hard working as any other fellow on the assembly line and even if I weren't you have entirely missed the point of the article, boys.

I believe in work. I believe it gives a man a lot more than a boost to his self respect and I would like to see every veteran making good at some job he loves.

The point is—there is no use griping just because we can't have what we want when we want it. Life is a peculiar thing. It goes ahead a little way and then stops. Then it starts again. And stops. The old timers knew all about that. They knew that human existence was a stop-and-go proposition and they didn't get into a lather because they weren't earning as much at 20 as Pa did at 40. Even at that Pa was no financial wizard at 40. He had usually wished a bunch of kids on himself by that time and his responsibilities increased with his opportunities.

But now most of us think we should be in the upper brackets before we're out of our didies. There's Johnny for example. Johnny served a year in the war. To hear him talk you'd think that Johnny fought ten wars all at once and that we should be correspondingly grateful. That's plain silly. We are grateful to Johnny but that isn't giong to change the course of the stars. Johnny will just have to take his chances like the rest of us did. And chances come slow. They have always come slow. The only difference is that we expected them to be slow, once, and now we're in a big pout if we don't land in millionaire's row tomorrow morning.

There is a particular amount of resentment because some people think the veterans ought to get along on thirty-five or forty dollars per week. One irate young man says—"No matter where we vets and non-vets go today, it's the same story. How can a man with a family to support get along on $35 a week? That's coolie pay for coolie labor, and we're not coolies. What we want is more money to meet today's prices."

I admit it isn't a lot of mazuma with groceries what they are, son, and we would all like to have and see our neighbor have much more than that to support his family. Yet a man can get along on $35 or $40. He can if he'll trim down some of the luxury to which he thinks he's entitled.

We had to do our trimming and plenty of it when I was your age. And we couldn't run in and out buying every little gadget that appealed to our fancy. But now you want—bang off! a car and a radio, an electric refrigerator and a gas stove, a new rug and a lot of trick furniture. These things are nice to have if your tastes incline that way. But they never have been acquired and never will be acquired by standing around and moaning low. If you want good luck you will have to sneak up on it and do a lot of tiptoeing.

And that goes for the oldsters in the game as well as for the youngsters. We Americans have forgotten what necessities really mean. We all want to be in the luxury class. We forget that the men and women who made America wore homespun cloth and molded their own bullets and had a full meal if and when they could get it. Likewise they wore half soled shoes and hand-me-downs and patches.

And this does not refer to our remote ancestors. It refers to a lot of snooty society ladies whose fathers pushed a wheel barrow before they were born.

Also we did not haggle over a five day work week or yipe because somebody expected us to do a little overtime. I have a rapidly growing hunch that what this country needs most is one darn good depression. A real one.

Listen World

By ELSIE ROBINSON

I have a pile of letters as tall as your arm and all of them red hot, just because I insinuated that some of us weren't as keen on working as we pretended.

So of course every jobless GI in the country and his mother and his aunt jumped on me for being a cruel, cold blooded capitalist.

All right, go on, jump. I'm used to it. But I'm not a capitalist. Only wish I were. I'm as hard working as any other fellow on the assembly line and even if I weren't you have entirely missed the point of the article, boys.

I believe in work. I believe it gives a man a lot more than a boost to his self respect and I would like to see every veteran making good at some job he loves.

The point is—there is no use griping just because we can't have what we want when we want it. Life is a peculiar thing. It goes ahead a little way and then stops. Then it starts again. And stops. The old timers knew all about that. They knew that human existence was a stop-and-go proposition and they didn't get into a lather because they weren't earning as much at 20 as Pa did at 40. Even at that Pa was no financial wizard at 40. He had usually wished a bunch of kids on himself by that time and his responsibilities increased with his opportunities.

But now most of us think we should be in the upper brackets before we're out of our didies. There's Johnny for example. Johnny served a year in the war. To hear him talk you'd think that Johnny fought ten wars all at once and that we should be correspondingly grateful. That's plain silly. We are grateful to Johnny but that isn't going to change the course of the stars. Johnny will just have to take his chances like the rest of us did. And chances come slow. They have always come slow. The only difference is that we expected them to be slow, once, and now we're in a big pout if we don't land in millionaire's row tomorrow morning.

There is a particular amount of resentment because some people think the veterans ought to get along on thirty-five or forty dollars per week. One irate young man says—"No matter where we vets and non-vets go today, it's the same story. How can a man with a family to support get along on $35 a week? That's coolie pay for coolie labor, and we're not coolies. What we want is more money to meet today's prices."

I admit it isn't a lot of mazuma with groceries what they are, son, and we would all like to have and see our neighbor have much more than that to support his family. Yet a man can get along on $35 or $40. He can if he'll trim down some of the luxury to which he thinks he's entitled.

We had to do our trimming and plenty of it when I was your age. And we couldn't run in and out buying every little gadget that appealed to our fancy. But now you want—bang off! a car and a radio, an electric refrigerator and a gas stove, a new rug and a lot of trick furniture. These things are nice to have if your tastes incline that way. But they never have been acquired and never will be acquired by standing around and moaning low. If you want good luck you will have to sneak up on it and do a lot of tiptoeing.

And that goes for the oldsters in the game as well as for the youngsters. We Americans have forgotten what necessities really mean. We all want to be in the luxury class. We forget that the men and women who made America wore homespun cloth and molded their own bullets and had a full meal if and when they could get it. Likewise they wore half soled shoes and hand-me-downs and patches.

And this does not refer to our remote ancestors. It refers to a lot of snooty society ladies whose fathers pushed a wheel barrow before they were born.

Also we did not haggle over a five day work week or yipe because somebody expected us to do a little overtime. I have a rapidly growing hunch that what this country needs most is one darn good depression. A real one.

Gourds New Source Of Fats And Oils

Tucson, Ariz., (AP)—Wild gourds bequeathed the white man by ancient Indians may now become a source of vital cooking oils and fats.

The gourd will move from rumba bands to the kitchen if work being conducted by the University of Arizona proves a success.

The white man has adopted such crops as squash, beans, Indian corn and white potatoes from the Indian. Up to the present shortage of cooking oils and fats the seed of the wild gourd has been overlooked.

Attention was concentrated on the gourd by Dr. T. F. Buehrer, head of the agricultural chemistry department at the University of Arizona in studying the fat and oil content of the plants of the desert. He stated that the gourd compares favorably with peanuts in their oil content, and have twice as much oil as the soybean.

Dr. Lawrence Curtis of the Connecticut Experiment Station reported these seeds contain more than one-third of their weight in vegetable oils and another third in proteins.

They grow over a tremendous area of the southwest under the most difficult circumstances, require little or no irrigation, and the plants have been known to grow as much as four inches in a day when nature supplied moisture.

Buehrer states gourd produce about three tons of seeds per acre.

Planting tests are planned by the Arizona experiment station to work out the details of growing the crops on a large scale. Work is also being done to determine if the seeds contain any harmful ingredients.

Winter Casserole Cookery

TUNA FISH CASSEROLE . . . Pretzel crust.

By CHARLOTTE ADAMS
Associated Press Food Editor

Casseroles are wonderful for making meals stick to the ribs in Autumn and Winter weather—and also for making life easy for the cook. Some of them can be prepared in the morning, and stored in the refrigerator until cooking time. Others, though, take so short a time to prepare that they can be whipped up just before cooking without any trouble at all. Like this one:

Cabbage and Tomato Scallop

- 1 small onion, minced
- ¼ cup butter or vitaminized margarine
- 1 No. 3—½ can tomatoes
- ½ teaspoon salt
- ¼ teaspoon pepper
- 4 cups sliced cabbage
- 2 tablespoons flour
- 1 cup grated American cheese
- 1 cup fine cracker crumbs
- 2 tablespoons chopped green pepper

Saute onion in 2 tablespoons of the butter or margarine for 5 minutes. Add tomatoes, salt, pepper and stir well. Arrange alternate layers of cabbage and tomatoes in greased casserole. Sprinkle each layer of cabbage with flour, cheese, crumbs and green pepper. Top with crumbs and dot with remaining butter or margarine. Bake in 350° oven about 40 min.

This one can be prepared in the morning, if you want to go out for the whole day:

Scalloped Oyster Casserole

- 1 cup soda crackers (in coarse pieces)
- 1 pint oysters
- ¼ teaspoon salt
- ¼ teaspoon paprika
- ½ cup thin cream or whole milk
- ¼ cup melted butter or vitaminized margarine
- Oyster liquor

Grease a shallow casserole well, on bottom and sides. Look oysters over carefully, to see that no bits of shell cling to edges. Strain oyster liquor in saucepan, add oysters, cook over low flame until edges curl (about 2 mins).

Sprinkle layer of crumbs on bottom of casserole, cover with layer of oysters, repeat crumbs, oysters until all ingredients are used. Be sure layer of crumbs is on top. Sprinkle with salt and paprika. Put dish in refrigerator. When ready to cook it, sealed the milk, add the butter or margarine and oyster liquor. Just before placing in oven, trickle liquor around sides, so it reaches bottom, but do not pour it directly over the crackers. Liquor should come up to the top from the bottom. Bake in hot oven (425°) for 20 mins.

Have you ever tried pretzels instead of crackers in a casserole? Do it! They have a fine nut-like flavor and a good saltiness.

Tuna Fish Casserole With Pretzels

- 1 can condensed mushroom soup
- ½ cup milk
- 1¼ cups flaked tuna fish
- 1 tablespoon finely diced green pepper
- 2 tablespoons finely diced onion
- ½ cup finely diced celery
- ¼ teaspoon salt
- Dash of pepper
- 1 cup crushed pretzels
- Pretzels—whole

Mix together all ingredients except the pretzels. Place a layer of the fish mixture in the bottom of a greased casserole. Sprinkle a layer of pretzels on top. Alternate layers until the casserole is filled, ending with the fish mixture. Top with whole pretzels. Bake in a 350° oven for 35-40 mins.

Gourds New Source Of Fats And Oils

Tucson, Ariz., (AP)—Wild gourds bequeathed the white man by ancient Indians may now become a source of vital cooking oils and fats.

The gourd will move from rumba bands to the kitchen if work being conducted by the University of Arizona proves a success.

The white man has adopted such crops as squash, beans, Indian corn and white potatoes from the Indian. Up to the present shortage of cooking oils and fats the seed of the wild gourd has been overlooked.

Attention was concentrated on the gourd by Dr. T. F. Buehrer, head of the agricultural chemistry department at the University of Arizona in studying the fat and oil content of the plants of the desert. He stated that the gourd compares favorably with peanuts in their oil content, and have twice as much oil as the soybean.

Dr. Lawrence Curtis of the Connecticut Experiment Station reported these seeds contain more than one-third of their weight in vegetable oils and another third in proteins.

They grow over a tremendous area of the southwest under the most difficult circumstances, require little or no irrigation, and the plants have been known to grow as much as four inches in a day when nature supplied moisture.

Buehrer states gourd produce about three tons of seeds per acre.

The gourd project was started at the university last December but is still in its early stages, Buehrer states. Planting tests are planned by the Arizona experiment station to work out the details of growing the crops on a large scale. Work is also being done to determine if the seeds contain any harmful ingredients.

Woodcock Backs O'Conor In Race

Republican Says Markey Is A 'Professional Veteran'

Amos W. W. Woodcock, a lifelong Republican, last night called the GOP senatorial candidate, Col. D. John Markey, "a professional veteran" and "perpetual seeker for political office" and said he would vote for Colonel Markey's Democratic opponent, Governor O'Conor.

Mr. Woodcock, former president of St. John's College and national prohibition director, asserted Colonel Markey "has no qualifications to be United States Senator from Maryland."

Veterans Of World Wars

Like Colonel Markey, Mr. Woodcock is a veteran of both World War I and II. In the last war he served for a time as acting commander of the 29th Division and recently as a special assistant to the International Prosecution Commission in Japan.

He said his own first office was as secretary to a United States Senator and he felt he had some knowledge of the requirements of a senator. Mr. Woodcock's statement follows:

"Because I have served in the National Guard both as a subordinate and a superior officer of Col. D. John Markey, it may be argued that I should support him in his candidacy for the United States Senate. I consider, however, my obligation to the people of Maryland superior.

Cites Long Association

"The very fact, of long association with him, has given me expert knowledge of his complete lack of equipment in every respect to be a United States Senator.

"I have been a Republican all my life and remain so. But in these critical times the mere fact that a candidate is labeled Republican is not enough to warrant one in voting for him when one is convinced that he has no qualifications to be United States Senator from Maryland.

"Since my first office was that of secretary to a United States Senator, I have a peculiar knowledge of the requirements for that office. Colonel Markey has no record of accomplishment in business and has no knowledge whatsoever of law, constitutional limitations or economics. He would be completely helpless in debate in the United States Senate.

Called A 'Perpetual Seeker'

"He did operate a retail shoe store in Frederick, but since about 1921 has followed no recognized business or profession. He has simply been a professional veteran and as such a perpetual seeker for political office.

"Maryland with its fine tradition and unique political concepts is entitled to have the best available United States Senator, who may follow in the traditions of the notable men who have represented her in this greatest legislative body in the world.

"I shall, therefore, vote for Governor O'Conor."

ORDER OF PUBLICATION

Macie V. Ross, Vs Joseph P. Ross, No. 13677, Equity, in the Circuit Court, for Allegany County, Maryland

The object of this suit is to secure the passage of a decree annulling the marriage of the Complainant and Defendant.

The Bill states that the couple were married on April seventh, 1946 at Cumberland, Maryland, and that the marriage was never consumated; that the Complainant was ill at the time of the marriage, and that the Defendant misrepresented both himself and his financial status to the Complainant, and that he has not been seen or heard from except once over the long distance telephone at which time he requested her to divorce him, and that the Complainant is a resident of Allegany County, Maryland, and that the Defendant also was a citizen of the state of Maryland so far as the Complainant is able to learn.

It is thereupon ORDERED this 17th day of October, 1946, by the Circuit Court, for Allegany County, Maryland, sitting in Equity, that the Plaintiff cause a copy of this order to be inserted in some newspaper published in Allegany County, once each week for four successive weeks, before the 18th day of November, 1946, giving notification to the Defendant of the object and substance of this Bill of Complaint, and warning him to be in this Court either in person, or by solicitor on or before the 4th day of December, 1946, to show cause if any he may have why a decree ought not be passed as prayed.

Woodcock Backs O'Conor In Race

Republican Says Markey Is A 'Professional Veteran'

Amos W. W. Woodcock, a lifelong Republican, last night called the GOP senatorial candidate, Col. D. John Markey, "a professional veteran" and "perpetual seeker for political office" and said he would vote for Colonel Markey's Democratic opponent, Governor O'Conor.

Mr. Woodcock, former president of St. John's College and national prohibition director, asserted Colonel Markey "has no qualifications to be United States Senator from Maryland."

Veterans Of World Wars

Like Colonel Markey, Mr. Woodcock is a veteran of both World War I and II. In the last war he served for a time as acting commander of the 29th Division and recently as a special assistant to the International Prosecution Commission in Japan.

He said his own first office was as secretary to a United States Senator and he felt he had some knowledge of the requirements of a senator. Mr. Woodcock's statement follows:

"Because I have served in the National Guard both as a subordinate and a superior officer of Col. D. John Markey, it may be argued that I should support him in his candidacy for the United States Senate. I consider, however, my obligation to the people of Maryland superior.

Cites Long Association

"The very fact, of long association with him, has given me expert knowledge of his complete lack of equipment in every respect to be a United States Senator.

"I have been a Republican all my life and remain so. But in these critical times the mere fact that a candidate is labeled Republican is not enough to warrant one in voting for him when one is convinced that he has no qualifications to be United States Senator from Maryland.

"Since my first office was that of secretary to a United States Senator, I have a peculiar knowledge of the requirements for that office. Colonel Markey has no record of accomplishment in business and has no knowledge whatsoever of law, constitutional limitations or economics. He would be completely helpless in debate in the United States Senate.

Called A 'Perpetual Seeker'

"He did operate a retail shoe store in Frederick, but since about 1921 has followed no recognized business or profession. He has simply been a professional veteran and as such a perpetual seeker for political office.

"Maryland with its fine tradition and unique political concepts is entitled to have the best available United States Senator, who may follow in the traditions of the notable men who have represented her in this greatest legislative body in the world.

"I shall, therefore, vote for Governor O'Conor."

Saint Francis Preparatory School of Spring Grove, Pa., will be LaSalle High School's opponent tonight in the Explorers' homecoming game in the local stadium at 8 o'clock.

It will mark the Saints' initial appearance here in a football game while it will be LaSalle's first home appearance since October 4 when Coach John J. Long's eleven lost to Fort Hill.

Former Steeler Is Coach

St. Francis, coached by John Patrick McCarthy, has engaged in four contests to date, winning two and losing a like number. McCarthy is a former St. Francis College gridder, played for the Pittsburgh Steelers and made the Little All-America team.

Tom Breen, right halfback, is captain of the Pennsylvania eleven, whose colors are maroon and white. Rev. Terence Burnes, T.O.R., is athletic director of the Spring Grove school.

With a record of three losses and two ties, LaSalle will still be striving to crash the win column for the first time when it goes into action tonight.

Hyndman High School's band, directed by J. Elwood Miller, will play before the game gets under way and during intermission at tonight's game.

Prelim Is Scheduled

In a preliminary contest, scheduled to start at 6:45 bantam football teams of St. Patrick's and St. Mary's will meet in a Catholic Youth Organization contest. This game will be played in eight minutes quarters and must be completed by 7:30 o'clock.

Coach Long last night announced that the following lineup will start for LaSalle in the Explorers receive the kick-off. If LaSalle kicks off O'Toole will play in Nesbit's place and Jack Collins will replace Riggins.

LOS ANGELES, (AP)—Paul Vinola of the Los Angeles Dons saw his five-weeks old baby daughter for the first time recently when the football squad had a half-hour train layover in Denver. The baby was born while Paul was with the Dons in training camp, and the train trip was his first opportunity to return to Denver, his home, since the season opened. Vinola's wife has never seen him play football.

Faust Scores Three Touchdowns As Bedford Defeats Shade, 34-7

Jack Gallops 64 Yards For One Score In Last Game Of Season

BEDFORD, Pa., Oct. 31—Bedford High School's Bisons lowered the curtain on their 1946 football campaign tonight by defeating Shade Township High School by the score of 34 to 7 before a gathering of approximately 1,200 persons.

The Buffaloes finished the season with a record of seven wins and two losses, the defeats having been administered by two Johnstown teams—Ferndale and Westmont.

Jack Faust, right end, accounted for three of the local touchdowns.

A 44-yard run by "Bud" Fisher, which placed the ball on the one-yard stripe, paved the way for the first Bedford score early in the opening period. Dan Budd plunged for the six pointer.

Fisher's 13-yard sprint around right end and another 13-yard dash by Faust produced the second touchdown. Fisher plunged the extra point.

Bedford made it 20-0 before the first quarter ended when Faust, on a reverse, skirted left end for 64 yards. Williams' passed to Fisher for the extra point.

In the second period Claycomb recovered a Shade fumble on the visitors' 22. Fisher went off tackle for 19 yards and then toted the ball over from the three. The extra point was scored on Williams' pass to Fisher.

Later in the period Budd cut through tackle for 30 yards to the Shade 25, Fisher picked up three yards and after Bedford was set back five yards on a penalty, Mike Williams heaved a pass to Faust, who snared the ball in the end zone. Fisher passed to Diehl for the point.

Shade Township drove 58 yards for its lone score in the final period. The visitors marched from their own 42 to Bedford's one in six plays, Brumbaugh smashing over for the score. Pollock placed-kicked the extra point.

Bedford racked up eight first downs to six for the Cairbrook, Pa., team. Lineups:

Plenty Hungry

NEW YORK (AP)—Stories of the tremendous appetite of Assault have turfmen remembering the English horse, Windsor Lad, the "eatenest" horse in turf history. The thoroughbred consumed 13 and a half quarts of oats per day while preparing for a race. The average horse gulps down nine, while Assault puts away about 11 quarts.

Harry Brecheen is the fifth pitcher to win three games without a loss in a World Series.

First place in the Potomac Valley Conference will be at stake today when the Yellow Jackets of Moorefield High School play hosts to the Golden Tornado of Keyser High School in the season's top game in the seven-school circuit at Moorefield, W. Va.

The opening kickoff is set for 1:30 p. m., and the game is expected to attract a large crowd from the Eastern Panhandle section of West Virginia.

Moorefield leads at the conference race with four wins and no losses while Keyser is close on the heels of the Jackets with three victories and no defeats. Coach Johnny Paugh's eleven has turned back Petersburg, Romney, Ridgeley and Franklin while Keyser conquered Fort Ashby, Ridgeley and Romney. Moorefield won the title last year.

The Jackets' squad is reported to be in the proverbial pink of condition for battle while there is some doubt as to whether Tommy Quinn, Keyser's classy 205-pound fullback, will play due to an ailing shoulder. Keyser lost the services of Richard Cline, second string center, who suffered a broken collarbone in last week's Romney game. If Quinn is out of action, Harold Raines will take his place at the fullback position. The probable starting lineups:

With a record of three losses and two ties, LaSalle will still be striving to crash the win column for the first time when it goes into action tonight.

Hyndman High School's band, directed by J. Elwood Miller, will play before the game gets under way and during intermission at tonight's game.

LOS ANGELES, (AP)—Paul Vinola of the Los Angeles Dons saw his five-weeks old baby daughter for the first time recently when the football squad had a half-hour train layover in Denver. The baby was born while Paul was with the Dons in training camp, and the train trip was his first opportunity to return to Denver, his home, since the season opened. Vinola's wife has never seen him play football.

Faust Scores Three Touchdowns As Bedford Defeats Shade, 34-7

Jack Gallops 64 Yards For One Score In Last Game Of Season

BEDFORD, Pa., Oct. 31—Bedford High School's Bisons lowered the curtain on their 1946 football campaign tonight by defeating Shade Township High School by the score of 34 to 7 before a gathering of approximately 1,200 persons.

The Buffaloes finished the season with a record of seven wins and two losses, the defeats having been administered by two Johnstown teams—Ferndale and Westmont.

Jack Faust, right end, accounted for three of the local touchdowns.

A 44-yard run by "Bud" Fisher, which placed the ball on the one-yard stripe, paved the way for the first Bedford score early in the opening period. Dan Budd plunged for the six pointer.

Fisher's 13-yard sprint around right end and another 13-yard dash by Faust produced the second touchdown. Fisher plunged the extra point.

Bedford made it 20-0 before the first quarter ended when Faust, on a reverse, skirted left end for 64 yards. Williams' passed to Fisher for the extra point.

In the second period Claycomb recovered a Shade fumble on the visitors' 22. Fisher went off tackle for 19 yards and then toted the ball over from the three. The extra point was scored on Williams' pass to Fisher.

Later in the period Budd cut through tackle for 30 yards to the Shade 25, Fisher picked up three yards and after Bedford was set back five yards on a penalty, Mike Williams heaved a pass to Faust, who snared the ball in the end zone. Fisher passed to Diehl for the point.

Shade Township drove 58 yards for its lone score in the final period. The visitors marched from their own 42 to Bedford's one in six plays, Brumbaugh smashing over for the score. Pollock placed-kicked the extra point.

Bedford racked up eight first downs to six for the Cairbrook, Pa., team. Lineups:

First place in the Potomac Valley Conference will be at stake today when the Yellow Jackets of Moorefield High School play hosts to the Golden Tornado of Keyser High School in the season's top game in the seven-school circuit at Moorefield, W. Va.

The opening kickoff is set for 1:30 p. m., and the game is expected to attract a large crowd from the Eastern Panhandle section of West Virginia.

Moorefield leads at the conference race with four wins and no losses while Keyser is close on the heels of the Jackets with three victories and no defeats. Coach Johnny Paugh's eleven has turned back Petersburg, Romney, Ridgeley and Franklin while Keyser conquered Fort Ashby, Ridgeley and Romney. Moorefield won the title last year.

The Jackets' squad is reported to be in the proverbial pink of condition for battle while there is some doubt as to whether Tommy Quinn, Keyser's classy 205-pound fullback, will play due to an ailing shoulder. Keyser lost the services of Richard Cline, second string center, who suffered a broken collarbone in last week's Romney game. If Quinn is out of action, Harold Raines will take his place at the fullback position. The probable starting lineups:

Schools Of Four Counties To Make Plans November 9

Ramey Announces Meeting For Hagerstown; Beall Enrollment Up

Arrangements for the inter-county soccer tournament to be conducted in District No. 1 under the sponsorship of the Health and Physical Education Association of Maryland Schools will be made at a meeting of representatives of high schools from four Western Maryland counties at a meeting to be held Saturday, Nov. 9, at 10 a. m., in the Washington County Board of Education building, Hagerstown.

Announcement of the meeting was made yesterday by Arthur G. Ramey, executive board member for District No. 1, which embraces the counties of Garrett, Washington, Frederick and Allegany.

Representatives Named

Bruce Jenkins, of Oakland, will represent Garrett county, and Douglas M. Bivens, principal of Boonsboro High School, will act as spokesman for Washington county. Frederick and Allegany county representatives are yet to be named.

Ramey, who will supervise the tournaments to be staged in the four-county district, also announced that Beall High School, of Frostburg, has been elevated from a Class "B" to a Class "A" school for tournament play because of the fact that the Mountain City institution's enrollment figures for the tenth, eleventh and twelfth grades now exceeds the 500 mark. Beall was mentioned as competing in Class "B" until the latest enrollment figures were tabulated.

Bruce High School, Westernport, or Central High School, Lonaconing, is eligible for play in the Class "C" tournament while Flintstone or Barton will vie in the Class "D" competition. Class "A" games are for schools with 500 or more enrollments, Class "B" from 300 to 500, Class "C" from 150 to 300 and Class "D" for schools of less than 150 enrollment. The enrollment figures apply to only the three top grades in the high schools.

Plans Cross Country Run

The Health and Physical Education Association of Maryland schools will conduct a cross country run at Clifton Park, Baltimore, at 12 o'clock noon, Saturday, November 30, Ramey has been advised. This event is open to all high schools of the state.

William Brish, superintendent of schools of Kent county, heads the state association, with Thomas G. Ferguson, of Baltimore, as secretary-treasurer.

Smackover Scott Is Defense Star

Former Middie Carries Ball Only 16 Times For Razorbacks

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark., Oct. 31 (AP)—Clyde (Smackover) Scott, the "coach's dream" wingback who came to the University of Arkansas with a great offensive record after pacing Navy's ground-gainers last season, has carried the ball only 16 times this fall.

But the former Middie ace has been the heart of the Razorback's defense and his prowess in that field has kept him in the starting lineup.

Scott is one of those rare gridmen who seem to "smell" the opposition's upcoming play and manage to get there before the ball carrier does.

The "Smackover Kid" has been the only member of the Arkansas secondary to hold his own on pass defense. He has intercepted three tosses and batted down virtually every other coming his way.

When Scott has figured in the Poker offense he has been effective. In 16 rushes he has netted 103 yards, an average of 6.4 yards per carry. He has caught four passes for 112 yards, scored two touchdowns and run back one kickoff for 29 5 yards. He returned the passes he intercepted 43 yards

Flintstone Boosters Play At Bruce Today; Barton Visits 'Coney

Bruce High School needs another victory to tie Beall High of Frostburg for first place in the WMI Soccer League and the Westernport eleven hopes to attain that goal when it faces the booters of Flintstone High School today at 3:30 p. m. in Memorial Park, Westernport.

Coach Grindle's aggregation has a record of four wins and one tie game. Flintstone, which made its debut in the league this season, has played exceptionally good soccer and has won two and lost three.

At Lonaconing, Coach "Jake" Carrington's Orange and Black clad warriors will play hosts to their down creek foe, Barton High School. 'Coney has won two and lost four while Barton has yet to gain a decision in six starts.

Terps Name 37 Players For Battle With Indians

COLLEGE PARK, Md., Oct. 31. (AP)—A Maryland squad of 37 men was named today to carry the Terps' spotty gridiron record into perhaps the toughest game of the season Saturday against William and Mary at Williamsburg.

The squad will leave for Richmond Friday night after a final workout, going on to Williamsburg at noon Saturday.

Coach Clark Shaughnessy stuck to his two-team system throughout today's practice and indicated he still intends to start the "Vic Turyn lightweights" against the Indians Saturday.

Records Are Made To Fall

BALTIMORE, Md., Oct. 31 — Some years ago we were talking with Charley Howard at Santa Anita. The apple, the peach and the plum of Charley Howard's, eye or eyes, was a horse named Seabiscuit. Seabiscuit had just lifted his track earnings well over $400,000.

"That's one record," owner Howard said at the time, "that will stand for a long spell. We may not see it broken."

That's how it looked at that much earlier date. Seabiscuit, a half castoff, a crummy looking horse in many respects, had shown what a horse could do with four uncertain legs and a great heart.

I still recall the way Seabiscuit handled the great War Admiral at Pimlico, with War Admiral rated at 1-4. I also recall two $100,000 races that Seabiscuit lost by a whisker.

After Seabiscuit, another money challenger arrived on the scene. His name was Whirlaway, the apple, the peach, the plum and the orange of Ben Jones' Missouri eye.

Old Long Tail, to Ben Jones, was the greatest horse that ever lived. Whirlaway was fast and strong. He was packed with durability. His rush from the rear became a feature of many tracks.

Whirlaway was soon on Seabiscuit's heels. He drew closer and closer to Seabiscuit's financial figures. Whirlaway not only passed Seabiscuit, he also drew away.

Finally the day came when Whirlaway set his all-time earnings at $561,161.

"Now," Ben Jones said, "we ought to be safe. I never thought anyone would catch Seabiscuit. I don't believe, today, that anyone is going to catch Whirlaway. . . $560,000 is a lot of money for one horse to win."

Today, Missouri Ben can understand how Charley Howard once felt. For here is a $1,500 claim horse close enough to nibble at Whirlaway's long tail.

A victory in the Pimlico Special, with two big races still left, would put the Hirsh Jacobs miracle horse over the line.

In any event Stymie has enough good money races left in his stout system to set a new mark. But the job of beating Bridal Flower and one or two others in the Special is no set-up performance — even for Stymie.

The Football Roundup

NAVY-NOTRE DAME—This has been and will probably continue to be one of the worst years in Navy football history. The odds are that Navy will lose at least three more games—Notre Dame, Georgia Tech and Army. Former Navy players are starring all over the map—Minisi at Penn, Ellsworth at Texas, Walmsley at Rice, Scott at Arkansas and Deramee at Tulane. But not at Navy. Notre Dame can call the score, although Notre Dame has never been too harsh against Navy in the past.

GEORGIA-ALABAMA — One of the big Bowl games of the season. Georgia, untied and unbeaten, has Charlie Trippi all set. Alabama, beaten only by Tennessee, has Gilmer poised and ready. This will also be an All-America test between two leading candidates. The illness of Frank Thomas has been a big Alabama drawback all year. Georgia's unbeaten record is in heavy danger. But the vote goes to Georgia, with Alabama given a stout chance.

ARMY-WEST VIRGINIA—With all Army coaches at Baltimore Saturday, and Army waiting only for Notre Dame, this can be a bit closer than it should be on figures. Army by 21 points.

HARVARD-RUTGERS—One of the best and closest games in the East. Harvard, unbeaten so far, has a hard afternoon to face. The vote goes to Harvard by 7 points.

COLUMBIA - CORNELL—Another crash and clash between two strong offensive teams. Another game worth looking at. Columbia's backfield has the call. Columbia by 10 points.

TENNESSEE-NORTH CAROLINA—Another important Bowl collection. North Carolina is still unbeaten. Both teams are strong, but Tennessee is due for a rebound, after the Wake Forest wake. Tennessee by 7 points.

DUKE-GEORGIA TECH—There are more than a few experts from Dixie who now rank Georgia Tech as the best team in the South. Duke has been moving up in a hurry. This game is close to a toss-up, but we'll string with Georgia Tech by 7 points.

Texas is picked over SMU, and Indiana over Pittsburgh. Yale about ready to locate its true offensive strength, is rated over Dartmouth by 18 points. Rice, a stout challenger for the Southwestern toga is picked over Texas Tech by 14 points. Wisconsin gets the call over Purdue by 14 points.

PENNSYLVANIA - PRINCETON—Pennsylvania is now ranked just back of Army and Notre Dame. The Red and Blue is packed with power, speed and experience. Princeton isn't. This game will depend largely on Penn's generosity—something like 21 points. Penn here is mightier than the Tiger.

Michigan is picked over Minnesota by 21 points. Oklahoma, one of the stronger teams, is 19 points above TCU. UCLA, meeting St. Mary's Friday night, should keep on winning in spite of Wedemeyer. Holy Cross is named over Brown, and improving Syracuse should beat Temple. Missouri is given the call over Nebraska in an old traditional tussle, and L. S. U. is named over Mississippi. Southern California has a slight margin over Oregon.

Johnny Lujack
Notre Dame

COMPLETING seven of 11 passes for 136 yards and running for one touchdown himself on a 48-yard sprint, Johnny Lujack, quarterback of the Notre Dame eleven, earns "hero of the week" honors.

Lujack, as fine a T-formation quarter as there is in the land, was the big difference between victory and defeat for the Irish, who rambled to their fourth straight win of the season.

Lujack became the Notre Dame quarter in 1943 when Angelo Bertelli was called into the service. Johnny finished out the season, leading the team to a 26-0 victory over Army.

He was called into the service then and he served in the Navy until this June.

A nine-letter athlete in high school at Connellsville, Pa., Lujack also has proven one of the great athletes at Notre Dame. He has won letters in four sports at South Bend. He is enrolled in the pre-law course.

Dudley Believes He's Too Small For Pro Football

Steelers' Ace, However, Can't Convince Others That It's So

By DUKE MORAN

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 31 (AP) — A halfback who totes a Bible or a pigskin with equal enjoyment today is one of the National Football League's brightest stars although he honestly believes he's "too small" for the rough, tough competition.

That's Bill Dudley, 24-year-old Pittsburgh Steeler, who is better than a Hollywood script writer's dream of clean-cut youth.

This soft-spoken Virginian, who at 172 pounds is a mere stripling alongside most of the league's backs, nevertheless leads the circuit in ground-gaining, in pass interceptions and in punt returns. He also is second in individual scoring and tied for third in punting.

Would Rather Block

The score-saving tackles made by Dudley don't show on the score sheets but his coaches believe Bounding Bill would be worth his pay for his defensive ability if he never gained a yard.

Further, he's so completely a team man he would as soon back for a teammate as he would run the ball.

He's the idol of the fans. But despite the heady wine of fame, Bill is so tractable he never gives his bosses a minute's headache, often playing when he's nursing hurts sufficient to fell even a stouter lad.

Bill has no bad habits and reads his Bible daily, as he's done since he was a little shaver.

"I always read my Bible daily and I still do," the Bluefield, Va., footballer said quitely. "I like it."

Bill's dad long has been active in Sabbath School work at home and hoped Bill would study for the ministry at the University of Virginia.

"I honestly don't know what I want to do," Dudley said, with complete candor. "I wanted to be a football coach and I still do but I'd go into another field if the right offer came along and I thought I'd like the work. I don't think it's right to take somebody's money for doing something you can't put your heart into.

Other Players Doubt It

"I'm really too small for professional football and I know it. I like to play but anything I've done has been done because the other 10 fellows were out there working for me. I realize I can't last too much longer in this league."

Bill undoubtedly believes that—but try and convince other National League teams that it's so.

FEARER, HAHN, ROBY NAMED CAGE REFEREES FOR W.M.I. LEAGUE

Appointment of Clifford P. Fearer, William P. Hahn and Clifton Van Roby as official referees of the Western Maryland Interscholastic Basketball League was announced yesterday by Arthur G. Ramey, supervisor of pupil personnel for the Allegany County Board of Education.

The W.M.I. League season does not get under way until January 7 when Fort Hill plays at Central. Other schools in the cage circuit are Barton, Bruce, Beall and Allegany.

Another referee is yet to be named to give the league a staff of four officials, Ramey said.

Al Johnson Wins

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 31 (AP)—Al Johnson, Indianapolis, scored an easy T.K.O. in 1:20 of the third round bout tonight at Aragon Gardens.

In other fights Del :Haught, 135, Canonsburg, Pa., knocked out Butch Williams 135, Pittsburgh (1); and Gene Briggs, 144 Pittsburgh, won by decision over Joey Adams, 145 Johnstown (R).

Ohio State Gate Will Hit Million

Net For Five Contests At Home Likely To Reach $300,000

COLUMBUS, O., Oct. 31 (AP)—The Ohio State University football team will pull a good million dollars from the fans this season for the first time in its history and the net is likely to approximate $300,000.

Figure jugglers in the ticket sale department today lamented that the Buckeyes play only five home games in 1946. Last year there were six home contests.

E. E. Bernard, department auditor who disclosed the estimates based on the three home games to date and "conservative guesses" on the two left—Pittsburgh and Michigan; issued these figures:

In comparison to last year's gross ticket receipts of $766,220, for six games, the 1946 figure will go to at least $1,000,000. Income from all sources, including concessions, broadcasting and programs, may reach $1,150,000.

The net, which amounted to $202,671 in 1945, should total $280,300. Of this, between $190,000 and $200,000 will come from road guarantees, as compared with $165,681 on the three road games last year.

The take for the first two post-war football seasons is far beyond any season since the pre-depression years of 1926 and 1927, during the so-called "golden era of sports" and better even than those years.

Robert Fulton built one of the earliest submarines.

Georgetown's Use Of Oxygen Machine Is Termed Unfair

Colonials' Coach Blasts Contraption Used By Hoya Gridders

By ARTHUR EDSON

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31 (AP) — Georgetown's oxygen machine—advertised as just the thing for the tuckered out football player—came in for both criticism and praise today.

An athletic director called it "not only unfair but illegal" while a doctor said the contraption eventually may help to prevent athlete's heart.

Georgetown plays George Washington in football Saturday, and today the G-W athletic director Max Farrington, told a reporter:

"I'm sure this oxygen machine is not only unfair but illegal."

Then Farrington added darkly:

"We may demand a saliva test."

Dr. Donald Stubbs, one of Washington's leading anesthetists, said he didn't know anything about football rules and that he hadn't inspected the machine personally.

But in theory, he said in an interview, the use of pure oxygen might lead to a decrease in the number of athletes with enlarged hearts.

What is this oxygen machine?

Well, it's a little two-wheeled cart equipped with two metal bottles of oxygen and 11 masks.

It's wheeled on to the field during time-outs.

John Lookabaugh Joins Washington Redskins

A former Ridgeley High School football star who later was outstanding as a first-stringer on Bainbridge Naval Training Station elevens may make his debut in the National Football League Sunday.

Big John Lookabaugh, who made Ridgeley High grid history five or six years ago, joined the Washington Redskins' squad this week at College Park and indications are that he may get in Sunday's loop tussle with the Pittsburgh Steelers.

Standing six feet, two inches and weighing 212 pounds, Lookabaugh, an end, signed with the Redskins while serving in the Navy. He worked out with the Washington club last summer at Occidental College in California and this past August was sent to the Wilmington, Del., Clippers for further seasoning.

Lookabaugh also attended the University of Maryland and appeared in three of the Terrapins' games during the 1942 season. He is the son of Joseph E. Lookabaugh, 725 Columbia avenue. His wife and youngster are residing in Milville, N. J.

IRISH SEEK FIFTH WIN IN ROW, NAVY HAS LOST FOUR STRAIGHT

Everyone Says It'll Be Romp For Notre Dame Except Middies

By JOHN F. CHANDLER

BALTIMORE, Oct. 31 (AP) — Two football teams with more than passing interest in the number "five" will tangle before a sellout crowd of 65,000 patrons at Baltimore Stadium Saturday.

They are Notre Dame, seeking a fifth straight victory, and Navy, hoping wistfully to avert a fifth consecutive defeat.

Everyone says it will be a romp for the invading Irish — except Capt. Tom Hamilton and his Annapolis crew, knocked down but not out by Columbia, Duke, North Carolina and Pennsylvania in succession.

Reload Both Barrels

"We've reloaded both barrels and will use our No. 2 shot against the Irish," Coach Hamilton said, indicating that the Midshipmen plan to make plenty of trouble for Frank Leahy and his South Bend cohorts.

Of course, the No. 1 shot is for Army, always the top objective in the West Point-Annapolis athletic rivalry.

For Notre Dame, however, it's a one-two shot at the service elevens. Nobody ever takes a Navy team lightly and in stride, and the Irish certainly must be pointed for their big test one week later when they meet Army in New York.

"Notre Dame is a very good team, and rates its standing, but I still say we have a good team down here despite our record," Hamilton said from Annapolis.

The Tars have had no breathers. Since Navy's opening 7-0 victory over Villanova it's been four other tough outfits breathing down the Sailors' necks.

Notre Dame, with triumphs over Illinois, Pitt, Purdue and Iowa, arrives in Washington tomorrow and will work out at Catholic University, coming over to Baltimore Saturday morning.

Emphasizing hard work and deep planning for the Irish, Hamilton and his coaching staff have been drilling the Midides on offense and defensive tactics, with a shuffling of players to capitalize on the strong points of each.

At fullback, Bill Hawkins is the top man on offense, but he's not as strong defensively.

Coach Praises Gerber.

"Our best defensive fullback is Myron Gerber," Captain Tom said. "He has been playing a fine game, and we have to rush him in whenever we can."

On the other hand, the true measure of Notre Dame's greatness is yet to come. The Irish have done much as they pleased, with the opposition unable to stop either their running or passing game.

Whether an eastern team that has been beaten but remains tough and undiscouraged can make Leahy open his bag of tricks is something to await Saturday.

COMPLETING seven of 11 passes for 136 yards and running for one touchdown himself on a 48-yard sprint, Johnny Lujack, quarterback of the Notre Dame eleven, earns "hero of the week" honors.

Lujack, as fine a T-formation quarter as there is in the land, was the big difference between victory and defeat for the Irish, who rambled to their fourth straight win of the season.

Lujack became the Notre Dame quarter in 1943 when Angelo Bertelli was called into the service. Johnny finished out the season, leading the team to a 26-0 victory over Army.

He was called into the service then and he served in the Navy until this June.

A nine-letter athlete in high school at Connellsville, Pa., Lujack also has proven one of the great athletes at Notre Dame. He has won letters in four sports at South Bend. He is enrolled in the pre-law course.

Dudley Believes He's Too Small For Pro Football

Steelers' Ace, However, Can't Convince Others That It's So

By DUKE MORAN

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 31 (AP) — A halfback who totes a Bible or a pigskin with equal enjoyment today is one of the National Football League's brightest stars although he honestly believes he's "too small" for the rough, tough competition.

That's Bill Dudley, 24-year-old Pittsburgh Steeler, who is better than a Hollywood script writer's dream of clean-cut youth.

This soft-spoken Virginian, who at 172 pounds is a mere stripling alongside most of the league's backs, nevertheless leads the circuit in ground-gaining, in pass interceptions and in punt returns. He also is second in individual scoring and tied for third in punting.

Would Rather Block

The score-saving tackles made by Dudley don't show on the score sheets but his coaches believe Bounding Bill would be worth his pay for his defensive ability if he never gained a yard.

Further, he's so completely a team man he would as soon back for a teammate as he would run the ball.

He's the idol of the fans. But despite the heady wine of fame, Bill is so tractable he never gives his bosses a minute's headache, often playing when he's nursing hurts sufficient to fell even a stouter lad.

Bill has no bad habits and reads his Bible daily, as he's done since he was a little shaver.

"I always read my Bible daily and I still do," the Bluefield, Va., footballer said quitely. "I like it."

Bill's dad long has been active in Sabbath School work at home and hoped Bill would study for the ministry at the University of Virginia.

"I honestly don't know what I want to do," Dudley said, with complete candor. "I wanted to be a football coach and I still do but I'd go into another field if the right offer came along and I thought I'd like the work. I don't think it's right to take somebody's money for doing something you can't put your heart into.

Other Players Doubt It

"I'm really too small for professional football and I know it. I like to play but anything I've done has been done because the other 10 fellows were out there working for me. I realize I can't last too much longer in this league."

Bill undoubtedly believes that—but try and convince other National League teams that it's so.

FEARER, HAHN, ROBY NAMED CAGE REFEREES FOR W.M.I. LEAGUE

Appointment of Clifford P. Fearer, William P. Hahn and Clifton Van Roby as official referees of the Western Maryland Interscholastic Basketball League was announced yesterday by Arthur G. Ramey, supervisor of pupil personnel for the Allegany County Board of Education.

The W.M.I. League season does not get under way until January 7 when Fort Hill plays at Central. Other schools in the cage circuit are Barton, Bruce, Beall and Allegany.

Another referee is yet to be named to give the league a staff of four officials, Ramey said.

Al Johnson Wins

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 31 (AP)—Al Johnson, Indianapolis, scored an easy T.K.O. in 1:20 of the third round bout tonight at Aragon Gardens.

Hazlett was battered to the floor five times in the first round and twice in the second. Johnson weighed 170, Hazlett 172.

In other fights Del Haught, 135, Canonsburg, Pa., knocked out Butch Williams 135, Pittsburgh (1); and Gene Briggs, 144 Pittsburgh, won by decision over Joey Adams, 145 Johnstown (R).

Ohio State Gate Will Hit Million

Net For Five Contests At Home Likely To Reach $300,000

COLUMBUS, O., Oct. 31 (AP)—The Ohio State University football team will pull a good million dollars from the fans this season for the first time in its history and the net is likely to approximate $300,000.

Figure jugglers in the ticket sale department today lamented that the Buckeyes play only five home games in 1946. Last year there were six home contests.

E. E. Bernard, department auditor who disclosed the estimates based on the three home games to date and "conservative guesses" on the two left—Pittsburgh and Michigan; issued these figures:

In comparison to last year's gross ticket receipts of $766,220, for six games, the 1946 figure will go to at least $1,000,000. Income from all sources, including concessions, broadcasting and programs, may reach $1,150,000.

The net, which amounted to $202,671 in 1945, should total $280,300. Of this, between $190,000 and $200,000 will come from road guarantees, as compared with $165,681 on the three road games last year.

The take for the first two post-war football seasons is far beyond any season since the pre-depression years of 1926 and 1927, during the so-called "golden era of sports" and better even than those years.

Robert Fulton built one of the earliest submarines.

Georgetown's Use Of Oxygen Machine Is Termed Unfair

Colonials' Coach Blasts Contraption Used By Hoya Gridders

By ARTHUR EDSON

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31 (AP) — Georgetown's oxygen machine—advertised as just the thing for the tuckered out football player—came in for both criticism and praise today.

An athletic director called it "not only unfair but illegal" while a doctor said the contraption eventually may help to prevent athlete's heart.

Georgetown plays George Washington in football Saturday, and today the G-W athletic director Max Farrington, told a reporter:

"I'm sure this oxygen machine is not only unfair but illegal."

Then Farrington added darkly:

"We may demand a saliva test."

Dr. Donald Stubbs, one of Washington's leading anesthetists, said he didn't know anything about football rules and tha he hadn't inspected the machine personally.

But in theory, he said in an interview, the use of pure oxygen might lead to a decrease in the number of athletes with enlarged hearts.

What is this oxygen machine?

Well, it's a little two-wheeled cart equipped with two metal bottles of oxygen and 11 masks.

It's wheeled on to the field during time-outs.

John Lookabaugh Joins Washington Redskins

A former Ridgeley High School football star who later was outstanding as a first-stringer on Bainbridge Naval Training Station elevens may make his debut in the National Football League Sunday.

Big John Lookabaugh, who made Ridgeley High grid history five or six years ago, joined the Washington Redskins' squad this week at College Park and indications are that he may get in Sunday's loop tussle with the Pittsburgh Steelers.

Standing six feet, two inches and weighing 212 pounds, Lookabaugh, an end, signed with the Redskins while serving in the Navy. He worked out with the Washington club last summer at Occidental College in California and this past August was sent to the Wilmington, Del., Clippers for further seasoning.

Lookabaugh also attended the University of Maryland and appeared in three of the Terrapins' games during the 1942 season. He is the son of Joseph E. Lookabaugh, 725 Columbia avenue. His wife and youngster are residing in Milville, N. J.

IRISH SEEK FIFTH WIN IN ROW, NAVY HAS LOST FOUR STRAIGHT

By JOHN F. CHANDLER

BALTIMORE, Oct. 31 (AP) — Two football teams with more than passing interest in the number "five" will tangle before a sellout crowd of 65,000 patrons at Baltimore Stadium Saturday.

They are Notre Dame, seeking a fifth straight victory, and Navy, hoping wistfully to avert a fifth consecutive defeat.

Everyone says it will be a romp for the invading Irish — except Capt. Tom Hamilton and his Annapolis crew, knocked down but not out by Columbia, Duke, North Carolina and Pennsylvania in succession.

Reload Both Barrels

"We've reloaded both barrels and will use our No. 2 shot against the Irish," Coach Hamilton said, indicating that the Midshipmen plan to make plenty of trouble for Frank Leahy and his South Bend cohorts.

Of course, the No. 1 shot is for Army, always the top objective in the West Point-Annapolis athletic rivalry.

For Notre Dame, however, it's a one-two shot at the service elevens. Nobody ever takes a Navy team lightly and in stride, and the Irish certainly must be pointed for their big test one week later when they meet Army in New York.

"Notre Dame is a very good team, and rates its standing, but I still say we have a good team down here despite our record," Hamilton said from Annapolis.

The Tars have had no breathers. Since Navy's opening 7-0 victory over Villanova it's been four other tough outfits breathing down the Sailors' necks.

Notre Dame, with triumphs over Illinois, Pitt, Purdue and Iowa, arrives in Washington tomorrow and will work out at Catholic University, coming over to Baltimore Saturday morning.

Emphasizing hard work and deep planning for the Irish, Hamilton and his coaching staff have been drilling the Midides on offense and defensive tactics, with a shuffling of players to capitalize on the strong points of each.

At fullback, Bill Hawkins is the top man on offense, but he's not as strong defensively.

Coach Praises Gerber.

"Our best defensive fullback is Myron Gerber," Captain Tom said. "He has been playing a fine game, and we have to rush him in whenever we can."

On the other hand, the true measure of Notre Dame's greatness is yet to come. The Irish have done much as they pleased, with the opposition unable to stop either their running or passing game.

Whether an eastern team that has been beaten but remains tough and undiscouraged can make Leahy open his bag of tricks is something to await Saturday.

Four Starters Named For Pimlico Special

Stymie, Assault, Turbine, Bridal Flower To Race

Quartet To Seek $25,000 Purse; Eddie Arcaro Will Ride Assault

By SID FEDER

BALTIMORE, Md., Oct. 31 (AP)—A nervous filly and an over-worked colt reduced the field for tomorrow's Pimlico Special to just four horses today, while the knock-down-the-favorite fraternity held its last meeting and pinned its hopes on Assault.

Of course the solid senders still were stringing along with Stymie, the bargain baby with the half million dollar bankroll, to come home in front of Assault, the flying filly Bridal Power and the refugee from the claiming ranks, Turbine, and pick up the $25,000 pot that goes to the quickest in this winner-take-all mile and three-sixteenths classic.

That would boost the earnings of the one-time $1,500 pater to $541,285 and leave him just $19,876 short of Whirlaway's all-time high.

Two Horses Scratched

Stymie was to have had two others to beat—the mighty Maryland miss, Gallorette, who has finished in front of the bargain baby four out of seven times this year, and the $3,300 yearling buy, Round View, winner of last winter's Flamingo in Florida. Round View has won $41,685 so far this season.

But Gallorette's handlers expained she'd become nervous and skittish travelling from New York to New Jersey to Maryland in recent days, and decided to give her a rest, probably for the remainder of the year.

Round View's "board of directors" figure the four-days between his last outing, on Monday — in which he whipped First Fiddle—and the Special tomorrow didn't leave enough time for him to catch his breath, so they're keeping him out of tomorrow's tussle.

As a result, the members of the let's-beat-the-chalk society made Assault its glamor boy in the final callover tonight. They figured that the mile and three-sixteenths of the Special, admittance to which is by engraved invitation only, is more Assault's slice of pie than it is for Stymie, who usually likes more room to run.

Arcaro To Ride Assault

And finally, the members got their biggest boost when Trainer Maxie Hirsch, in a sudden shift, named heady Eddie Arcaro to do the riding aboard Assault, replacing Warren Mertens after the Brooklyn booter had steered the chocolate champ in 21 straight races.

Heady Eddie has ridden two Special winners in the past—on Challedon in 1939, and Shut Out in '43 and knows his way around this race track.

INJURED—Nick Wall, veteran jockey who has been astride many winners in big stake races, including two wins in the Santa Anita Handicap, is in a serious condition at San Mateo, Calif., following a spill at the Bay Meadows track. Wall suffered 12 broken ribs, one of which had shattered near his heart.

Burton Was Turned Down Because Of Bad Heart

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 31 (AP)—Bobby Burton, Pittsburgh Negro middleweight boxer, who died in the ring in Providence, R. I., last night during a bout with another fighter of the same name was turned down by the local boxing commission medical examiner two years ago because of a bad heart, but his license was later restored.

Lou Shiring, boxing commission deputy, who was acting commissioner at the time, said an examining physician refused to pass Burton because of a murmur in the main valve of the heart, but that Burton insisted on boxing, and the commission gave him approval after he obtained a favorable cardiograph.

Williamsport Becomes Detroit Tigers' Farm

DETROIT, Oct. 31 (AP)—General Manager George M. Trautman of the Detroit Tigers, today announced acquisition of the Williamsport, (Pa.) club of the Eastern Baseball League.

Earl Halstead will be retained vice-president and general manager at Williamsport, Trautman said.

Megogo Annexes Grayson Stakes

Pimlico Winner Earns $13,950; Pot O'Luck, Favorite, Is Third

BALTIMORE, Md., Oct. 31 (AP)—Megogo, five-year-old son of Menow from the Christiana Stables of H. L. Lunger, Wilmington, Del., came from sixth place in the last half mile today to win the Grayson Stakes, opening day feature of Pimlico race track's fall meeting.

Charging around the outside of the pack as the field of ten went to the far turn, Megogo took command near the head of the stretch and hit the wire 2½ lengths in front of the surprising Treasury, an English bred five-year-old from the Rokeby Stables of Paul Mellon of Pittsburgh, Pa., who was making his first start.

Up among the leaders all the way, Treasury held the place spot by a neck over Pot O'Luck, from Warren Wright's Calumet Farm, the betting favorite, to the crowd of some 15,000.

Piloted by the veteran Johnny Gilbert, Megogo was an $6.10 for $2 shot as he chalked up his first victory in seven starts to pick up the $13,950 winner' purse and boost his earnings for the year to $31 695. He covered the mile and a half in 2:34 4-5.

WEST VIRGINIA MAY PLAY NIGHT GAMES

MORGANTOWN, W. Va., Oct. 31 (AP) — President Irvin Stewart of West Virginia University said tonight he had named a committee to explore the factors relative to possible installation of lights for night football games at West Virginia University.

Dr. Stewart said the decision was reached at a meeting with the committee representing the Morgantown Central Labor Union, which recently suggested the installation of lights at Mountaineer Field.

Hutson Issues Denial

GREEN BAY, Wis., Oct. 31 (AP) — Don Hutson, the Green Bay Packers' pass-catching wizard who retired at the close of the 1945 season today characterized as "foolishness" a report that he was planning to come out of retirement for a single game against the Chicago Bears Sunday.

According to the story, Hutson had been practicing in secret for two weeks for action against the Bears in Chicago. Hutson said it wasn't so.

Four Starters Named For Pimlico Special

Stymie, Assault, Turbine, Bridal Flower To Race

Quartet To Seek $25,000 Purse; Eddie Arcaro Will Ride Assault

By SID FEDER

BALTIMORE, Md., Oct. 31 (AP)—A nervous filly and an over-worked colt reduced the field for tomorrow's Pimlico Special to just four horses today, while the knock-down-the-favorite fraternity held its last meeting and pinned its hopes on Assault.

Of course the solid senders still were stringing along with Stymie, the bargain baby with the half million dollar bankroll, to come home in front of Assault, the flying filly Bridal Flower and the refugee from the claiming ranks, Turbine, and pick up the $25,000 pot that goes to the quickest in this winner-take-all mile and three-sixteenths classic.

That would boost the earnings of the one-time $1,500 pater to $541,285 and leave him just $19,876 short of Whirlaway's all-time high.

Two Horses Scratched

Stymie was to have had two others to beat—the mighty Maryland miss, Gallorette, who has finished in front of the bargain baby four out of seven times this year, and the $3,300 yearling buy, Round View, winner of last winter's Flamingo in Florida. Round View has won $41,685 so far this season.

But Gallorette's handlers explained she'd become nervous and skittish travelling from New York to New Jersey to Maryland in recent days, and decided to give her a rest, probably for the remainder of the year.

Round View's "board of directors" figure the four-days between his last outing, on Monday — in which he whipped First Fiddle—and the Special tomorrow didn't leave enough time for him to catch his breath, so they're keeping him out of tomorrow's tussle.

As a result, the members of the let's-beat-the-chalk society made Assault its glamor boy in the final callover tonight. They figured that the mile and three-sixteenths of the Special, admittance to which is by engraved invitation only, is more Assault's slice of pie than it is for Stymie, who usually likes more room to run.

Arcaro To Ride Assault

And finally, the members got their biggest boost when Trainer Maxie Hirsch, in a sudden shift, named heady Eddie Arcaro to do the riding aboard Assault, replacing Warren Mertens after the Brooklyn booter had steered the chocolate champ in 21 straight races.

Heady Eddie has ridden two Special winners in the past—on Challedon in 1939, and Shut Out in '43 and knows his way around this race track.

INJURED—Nick Wall, veteran jockey who has been astride many winners in big stake races, including two wins in the Santa Anita Handicap, is in a serious condition at San Mateo, Calif., following a spill at the Bay Meadows track. Wall suffered 12 broken ribs, one of which had shattered near his heart.

Burton Was Turned Down Because Of Bad Heart

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 31 (AP)—Bobby Burton, Pittsburgh Negro middleweight boxer, who died in the ring in Providence, R. I., last night during a bout with another fighter of the same name was turned down by the local boxing commission medical examiner two years ago because of a bad heart, but his license was later restored.

Lou Shiring, boxing commission deputy, who was acting commissioner at the time, said an examining physician refused to pass Burton because of a murmur in the main valve of the heart, but that Burton insisted on boxing, and the commission gave him approval after he obtained a favorable cardiograph.

Williamsport Becomes Detroit Tigers' Farm

DETROIT, Oct. 31 (AP)—General Manager George M. Trautman of the Detroit Tigers, today announced acquisition of the Williamsport, (Pa.) club of the Eastern Baseball League

Earl Halstead will be retained vice-president and general manager at Williamsport, Trautman said.

Megogo Annexes Grayson Stakes

Pimlico Winner Earns $13,950; Pot O'Luck, Favorite, Is Third

BALTIMORE, Md., Oct. 31 (AP)—Megogo, five-year-old son of Menow from the Christiana Stables of H. L. Lunger, Wilmington, Del., came from sixth place in the last half mile today to win the Grayson Stakes, opening day feature of Pimlico race track's fall meeting.

Charging around the outside of the pack as the field of ten went to the far turn, Megogo took command near the head of the stretch and hit the wire 2½ lengths in front of the surprising Treasury, an English bred five-year-old from the Rokeby Stables of Paul Mellon of Pittsburgh, Pa., who was making his first start.

Up among the leaders all the way, Treasury held the place spot by a neck over Pot O'Luck, from Warren Wright's Calumet Farm, the betting favorite, to the crowd of some 15,000.

Piloted by the veteran Johnny Gilbert, Megogo was an $6.10 for $2 shot as he chalked up his first victory in seven starts to pick up the $13,950 winner' purse and boost his earnings for the year to $31,695. He covered the mile and a half in 2:34 4-5.

Friday also is the weekly fight time, 10 o'clock ABC. Battle listed are Tony Pellone and Johnny Greco, who qualify in the welterweight weights.

Football is coming up, too, although in preview. NBC at 10:45 has listed Bill Stern to do a look-ahead about Saturday's Navy and Notre Dame game at Baltimore.

For the second of the Jim Ameche Love Story Theater plays of MBS at 8:30 there will be the one about the "Bride Is Waiting." . . . Among the other network available drama, the Thin Man of CBS is to do "The Case of the Puzzled Politician," starting at 8:30 for the usual 25 minutes less commercial announcements. Then NBC at 10 in its Mystery Theater Mystery calls on Walter Slezak for "The Rival Dummy," all about a ventriloquist.

Bunion-Free After Walking 70,000 Miles

MT. STERLING, Ky. (AP)—Postman Robert H. Turner, 60, recently made his last round on the route he had followed for 38 years, ever since postal delivery service first was started here.

Entering retirement, Turner said that though he wasn't immune to the common cold during his estimated 70,000 miles of walking, he did escape the mailman's greatest woe—foot trouble.

"I never had a corn or bunion," commented Turner, adding he had worn out at least 200 pairs of shoes.

Student Trucking Is Laundry Problem

SYRACUSE, N. Y. (AP)—Syracuse University's record enrollment of 12,000 students means there's more laundry than ever being sent home. Acting Postmaster Myron J. Parkinson reports that his parcel post unit is taxed almost beyond capacity by packages of laundry from all parts of the country.

He has three trucks for the work and has requested assignment of two army trucks to help out.

Bridge Of Gold

SYDNEY—(AP)—The roadway of a 600-foot suspensoon bridge over the Brisbane River, Queensland, Australia, is probably one of the most expensive in the world. The concrete which covers the roadway was mixed with rich gold-bearing ore. This was not discovered until much of the work had been done.

The paving stones on the porch at Mt. Vernon were imported from England by George Washington.

WIFE PRESERVERS

In Memoriam

In loving memory of our dear Daddy and husband, Pfc. William R. Galford, who passed away November 1, 1945 on his way home from overseas duty.
"MY DARLING"
You fought the pain so bravely,
Your head you did not bend,
I kept the watch with you, dear Robert,
Yes, even to the end.
I watched and waited long in vain,
God grant some day we'll meet again.

Enshrined within my memory
Are fondest thoughts of you,
Your kindly eyes, your loving smile,
Your heart so fond and true.
And time will never never dim
My inmost hearts regret,
At loss of you, my darling,
And I never will forget.
Sadly missed by his
WIFE, SONS and DAUGHTER

In loving memory of Sharon Ann Everly, who died November 1, 1945.
God took our Child, no cruelly; . . . you see,
Jesus had said: "Let children come to me;
Forbid them not" . . .for in His Kingdom
Stands for pure love, for beauty and for truth—
And seeing ours, so beautiful and true,
God held the Gate to let our darling through.
Sadly missed by

Poison For Bugs Grown Into Plants

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Flowering plants booby-trap insects by taking up poison from the soil in a method of greenhouse pest control developed at the Batelle Institute of Ohio State University.

The poison is the chemical element selenium. It is added to the soil in small amounts that will not harm the plants. The growing plant takes it up and insects feeding on the foliage die. The method was used successfully in greenhouses against red spider mites, aphids, and thrips on chrysanthemums, carnations, and hydrangeas, the Institute said, and may save florists large sums annually.

In Memoriam

In loving memory of our dear Daddy and husband, Pfc. William R. Galford, who passed away November 1, 1945 on his way home from overseas duty.
"MY DARLING"
You fought the pain so bravely,
Your head you did not bend,
I kept the watch with you, dear Robert,
Yes, even to the end.
I watched and waited long in vain,
God grant some day we'll meet again.

Enshrined within my memory
Are fondest thoughts of you,
Your kindly eyes, your loving smile,
Your heart so fond and true.
And time will never never dim
My inmost hearts regret,
At loss of you, my darling,
And I never will forget.
Sadly missed by his
WIFE, SONS and DAUGHTER
11-1-1t-NT

In loving memory of Sharon Ann Everly, who died November 1, 1945.
God took our Child, no cruelty; . . . you see,
Jesus had said: "Let children come to me;
Forbid them not" . . .for in His Kingdom youth
Stands for pure love, for beauty and for truth—
And seeing ours, so beautiful and true,
God held the Gate to let our darling through.
Sadly missed by
MOTHER, FATHER,
BROTHER & SISTER

Poison For Bugs Grown Into Plants

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Flowering plants booby-trap insects by taking up poison from the soil in a method of greenhouse pest control developed at the Batelle Institute of Ohio State University.

The poison is the chemical element selenium. It is added to the soil in small amounts that will not harm the plants. The growing plant takes it up and insects feeding on the foliage die. The method was used successfully in greenhouses against red spider mites, aphids, and thrips on chrysanthemums, carnations, and hydrangeas, the Institute said, and may save florists large sums annually.

Amvets To Seek Federal Aid In Housing Situation

Will Lay Building Supply Violations Before U. S. Grand Jury

A federal investigation into alleged "black marketing" of building supplies in this area, and the possibility of laying evidence they have gathered before a Federal Grand Jury, was read into the minutes of John Louis Wolford Post No. 1, Amvets at their regular meeting last night.

William B. Orndorff, post commander said members of a post "illegal housing construction committee," have gathered considerable information regarding construction without proper priorities and non-veteran construction here. At the same time, the committee states here are at least 50 veterans with priorities who cannot get material with which to build.

Members of the committee reported on conferences they had with city officials, National Housing Agency representatives and other officials in an effort to obtain some assistance. It was decided, after the committee reported no results from local efforts, to take the matter through other channels.

Material Coming Here

Members of the committee told the membership last night that there is material for building coming into Cumberland, but it is not being sold to veterans with priorities. Sixteen projects of construction have been photographed and studies, and members of the housing group say all of these are constructions which cannot possibly come under the veterans priority system.

The membership voted to send a communication to Bernard J. Flynn, United States District prosecutor asking for information about the next session of the federal grand jury, and to the national housing expeditor to send a federal investigator here immediately. It was indicated at the meeting that if an investigator is not sent here the Amvets will appear before the Federal grand jury to lay before it their own findings.

Will Enter Parade

The Amvets, established in newly renovated post rooms will meet regularly each second and fourth Thursday at 8 p. m., Orndorff announced. Next Thursday night at 8 o'clock there will be a special showing of sports movies at the post for the membership.

Decision was made by the membership to participate in the Armistice Day parade, November 11, at the invitation of Capt. Thomas A. Conlon, marshal. The parade forms at 6 p. m. and moves at 7 p. m.

Albert Saum was named chairman of the Amvets parade committee and instructed to have as many of the post's 500 members as possible in line, with a banner identifying the post. Uniforms will be worn by those who have them.

Guests at the meeting included Thomas B. Finan, veteran of World War II and candidate for State Senator. Finan spoke on the need for state legislation to fill the gap between Federal legislation and existing problems and needs of veterans. He expressed the opinion, and said he will give every consideration, if elected, to a program of Maryland legislation for veterans. He told the Amvets, "Maryland has failed miserably in any program of veterans legislation which actually meets our needs."

Michael F. Prendergast, representing the United States Employment Service was also a guest speaker. A World War I veteran, Prendergast complimented the Amvets for the progress made in their first year, and said the young men who have just come out of the war, have a great responsibility and equally great opportunity to "make this community and every community, a better place in which to dwell."

Hallowe'en Pranks Keep Police Busy

In the absence of a Hallowe'en parade Cumberland youths took matters into their own hands and staged a celebration which a veteran policeman described as "the worst I have ever seen" although there were no reports of personal injury from the pranks.

In the downtown section the holiday spirit was evidenced by a slight sprinkling of costumed revelers, the presence of patches of confetti and a few soaped windows.

Police, however, said the shortage of soap was clearly evidenced by the fact that not a single complaint was turned in concerning soaped windows.

State police said they received only one Hallowe'en complaint last night.

Most serious was the report early last night that a group of youths were throwing sand into the faces of motorists on Oldtown road and police said one driver ran against the bank after he was momentarily blinded by the sand.

Traffic on Mt. Royal avenue was blocked for a while last night after youths constructed a barrier with 50 or 60 concrete blocks, police reported.

Oil drums at the Dingle Service Station were rolled over the bank and there was no attempt to estimate the number of garbage cans which were tipped over by the pranksters.

Best prepared against such depredations was one West Side citizen who armed himself with some 50 pennies against the threat of "trick or treat".

Complaints were heaviest from 7 to 8 p. m. when police received reports that:

A fence was broken down on Baltimore avenue; a pet ground hog which had the run of the yard was caught in a trap placed by some prankster on Baltimore avenue; a bird bath was upset on Piedmont avenue; rotten tomatoes were thrown upon a Hill Top drive home, lawns and shrubbery were damaged on the West Side and of things being thrown upon a Louisiana avenue home.

All lights in the Wineow street subway had been put out by 7:30 p. m., police said, adding they received reports of stones being thrown at street lights in a number of other localities.

W. Earle Cobey Chosen Kiwanis President

W. Earle Cobey, Cumberland attorney, was elected president of the Cumberland Kiwanis Club for the year 1947 at the annual election of the club held at Central YMCA yesterday.

Cobey, who has been a member of the club for several years, was serving as vice president of the local Kiwanis organization when he entered the Navy during the war. He will assume office at the first meeting next January and will succeed O. J. Hale.

William E. Landefeld, who is employed by the Celanese Corporation of America, was elected vice-president. He will succeed George L. Buckanan.

Fred W. Flurshutz was elected treasurer to succeed Robert S. Barnes.

Marian Anderson Concert Will Be Remembered

Great Contralto Sings To Audience Of 1,700 At Fort Hill

Last night's concert by the "voice of a century" will not be forgotten soon by those who were fortunate enough to hear Marian Anderson, world-famous contralto, sing at Fort Hill auditorium.

The hushed silence during each selection, the packed auditorium and the sustained applause which drew six encores during the program are testimony to the power of the beloved singer who is now making her twelfth consecutive tour of the United States.

Miss Anderson's program ranged from a Brahms lullaby and an impassioned aria from Massenet's "Herodiade" to rollicking folk songs and a group of Negro spirituals.

Shows Power As Actress

The tall, stately singer, wearing a black sequined gown, sang most of her selections with her head slightly bowed and her eyes closed, clasping her hands. Her powers as an actress as well as a great contralto were clearly evident during the varied program, especially in the dramatic selection from "Herodiade," when she matched the passion of her singing with intensity of expression and gestures.

The voice which has won acclaim in major European capitals as well as in her native land was at its best, with effortless, resonant tones in "Crucifixion," a request selection which replaced one of the concluding spirituals, and vibrant warmth in the Brahms group.

Sings "Ave Maria"

It would be impossible to choose the one selection which seemed the best, but perhaps the final encore, the "Ave Maria" of Franz Schubert, would be that choice. As Miss Anderson's accompanist, Franz Rupp, a noted pianist in his own right, played the opening bars, he was interrupted by spontaneous applause from the audience, who were obviously not going to leave until they heard that song.

Hearing Miss Anderson sing that tender, beautiful melody was the fitting climax to the program.

Because this was her first concert in Maryland for several years, persons came from nearby West Virginia, Pennsylvania and Baltimore so as not to miss one of Cumberland's most outstanding musical events.

Miss Anderson will begin her fall concert season in New York on November 10, when she will sing in Carnegie Hall.

Local News In Brief

Six more tons of wastepaper were collected here yesterday as the monthly drive continued. This month's total is now 33 tons. The collection today will cover all sections south of Oldtown road.

West Side Fire Company answered a false alarm from Box 12, city warehouse, last night at 9:30 o'clock.

A meeting of Democratic party workers and members will be held in the Democratic Cosmopolitan Club, 16½ North Mechanic street, at 8 o'clock tonight, according to James E. Kenny, campaign manager. Candidates will be present and poll lists, sample ballots etc, will be distributed.

Seapower Will Be Decisive Factor In Our Future, Kiwanians Are Told

Navy Is Termed Outer Rim Of Defense By Commodore Ernest Eller

Seapower can and will be a decisive factor in our future, it has always played a great part in American history and has been prominent in all wars in which we have engaged, Commodore Ernese McNeill, Eller, Director of Public Information in the Navy Department, declared in an address before the Cumberland Kiwanis Club yesterday at Central YMCA.

Speaking on the subject "The Importance of Seapower to America", Commodore Eller, asserted that seapower is our outer rim of defense, but that we must maintain a balance of power—land and sea. Both have their functions, he added.

"Is seapower going to continue to be our bulwark and defense of the future or will we submit to some other power or have none at all?" This was the question the speaker asked at the outset of his address. He said that seapower is a part of the life and blood of Maryland, pointing out that the Naval Academy is located at Annapolis and one of the greatest Navy Training Stations has been established at Bainbridge.

Must Understand Sea

In explaining what seapower is, Commodore Eller told the Kiwanians that seapower comes from understanding the sea. Germany did not know the sea, and therefore could not cross the English Channel. By not being able to cross the Channel, Germany lost the war, the speaker added. He said Germany could not take Malta because she lacked proper knowledge of the sea.

America with its seapower and knowledge of the sea was able to travel 3,000 miles to North Africa, 3,000 miles to Normandy, 6,000 miles in the Pacific transport, and supply armies, which he added proves conclusively that we know how to use seapower. He asserted that seapower gives you the power to use the sea and denies the use of the sea to your enemies.

The speaker explained that while we still only controlled part of the Pacific that we were able to take troops, ammunition, supplies and provisions to McArthur in Australia. After MacArthur took the offensive in the Pacific our seapower made it possible for him to skip many islands and hit the Japs from behind.

Commodore Eller said seapower allows you to overwhelm, and to conquer He said we left between 600,000 and 700,000 Japs behind when we landed at Okinawa and after the war ended we captured 500,000 Japs which had been bypassed and made helpless because seapower was denied them.

Japan was prevented from holding Okinawa because she was denied

Celanese Official Is Badly Injured When Car Crashes

Edward T. Beall, 38, Suffers Possible Fracture Of Skull

Edward T. Beall, 38, 410 Decatur street, a Celanese official, was critically injured early yesterday morning when the car he was driving careened from Pompey road, one-half mile south of Vale Summit road, and overturned.

Beall, assistant personnel director of the Amcelle plant here, was admitted to Allegany Hospital at 4:15 a. m. in an unconscious condition suffering from a possible fracture of the skull, deep lacerations of the head and right hand and severe shock.

Eight sutures were used to close a cut on the right side of Beall's head and four were used to close the hand injury. He regained consciousness at 7 a. m. but his condition was considered still critical yesterday.

Shows Some Improvement

Attaches reported Beall's condition as "about the same" at 7 p. m. yesterday, but added he has shown improvement.

Beall's companion, identified as Miss Merle Rider, 30 Ridgeway terrace, was uninjured when the car Beall was driving apparently hit a bump in the road and went out of control about 2:45 a. m. in front of the home of Andrew Finn.

State Trooper William McElfish, who investigated, said the car plunged into a field along the side of the road and overturned, adding Beall was pulled from the wreckage by his companion.

Beall's wife was expected to arrive here yesterday from Baltimore where she has been a patient in a hospital.

Five Others Treated

John Plumber, 51, Homewood Addition, was treated yesterday morning in Allegany for possible chest and back injuries. Attaches were told he fell ten feet from a billboard frame owned by the General Outdoor Advertising Company.

Mary Ann Adams, 23, Green Spring, W. Va., suffered a laceration of the left elbow in a fall down 20 steps at her home last night, and two-year-old Susan Wilson, daughter of Ralph Wilson, of Union street, was cut about the left foot by broken glass from a bottle she pulled into a bathtub. Both received treatment yesterday morning in Memorial Hospital

Treated Wednesday in Allegany Hospital were Gary L. Stakem, 1-year-old son of Mrs. Nancy Stakem, 414 Fayette street, for a lacerated lip and Blair Lockard, 18, Corriganville, who injured a finger of the left hand while cutting wood three days ago.

Restaurant Workers Will Discuss Contract

Members of Local 723, Hotel and Restaurant Employes, AFL, will meet Sunday afternoon at 1 o'clock in Allegany Trades Council hall for discussion and possible approval of a proposed new contract, C. E. Stutzman, business agent, said yesterday.

Stutzman said the contract will be presented to some eight local establishments now under contract for negotiation if the waitresses approve the provisions of the agreement.

MEET WITH HERSHEY—Maj. Gen. Lewis B. Hershey, national director of Selective Service, visited the local office of the United States Employment Service here yesterday in his capacity as a member of the federal Veterans Placement Board in order to find out what is going on in the "field" to find jobs for veterans. Pictured in the top photograph (left to right) are Arthur L. Schoenthal, assistant director of Region 4 of the USES; Patrick J. Carroll, manager of the local USES office; Gen. Hershey; Philmore Fleming, commander of Fort Cumberland Post No. 13, American Legion, who came to the USES office to meet the general; Grafton Lee Brown, state USES director, and Michael F. Prendergast, state director of operations for the USES. In the lower picture Hershey is listening in on an interview of Bradford Whetstone, 711 Shawnee avenue, by C. William Spangler, veterans' representative in the USES office here. Whetstone served one year in the European Theatre of Operations.

Hershey Believes Jobless Peak For Veterans Has Been Passed

More Jobs Available Than Economists Believed, General Says

"We've seen the top of this unemployment business as far as veterans are concerned," Maj. Gen. Lewis B. Hershey, national director of Selective Service and a member of the federal Veterans Placement Board, said yesterday while on a visit to the Cumberland office of the United States Employment Service.

Gen. Hershey, en route to Chicago for a meeting there next Wednesday, made Cumberland his first of six stops in as many states to get an idea "in the field" of what is going on in the way of placing veterans in jobs.

Asked if he believes the unemployment peak is past, Gen. Hershey replied that he is "not enough of an economist to take a crack at that," but he added, "If I would take a crack at it I would say yes on the assumption that we are going through no unemployment cycle. I think we've seen the top of this unemployment business as far as veterans are concerned."

Queried as to his opinion of the job that has been done in finding work for veterans, the general replied, "As far as I know we've been pretty well satisfied.

Demobilization Satisfactory

"We've had a lot more jobs than a lot of economists thought we were going to have, and as long as we have the jobs all we have to do is get the men who are able to fill them.

"When you consider the demobilization rate of over 1,000,000 men a month and the cushions—trade schools are one of the cushions—to reduce the suddenness, we've gotten through with demobilizing pretty easily."

Another question asked Gen. Hershey, one which has been of some concern to USES officials who handle veterans' employment activities, was what can be done in finding jobs for veterans who entered the armed forces from high school and never held a job.

The general answered, "Those without jobs, those who hadn't had any experience of training on the job, those are the fellows for whom schools and job training courses are going to have more drawing power.

"I haven't shared all the fears about the younger generation. They begin to respond to responsibilities when they reach them. When they get to the point where they must buckle down they buckle down.

"I believe in delegating responsibility, that you'll get more out of them that way than by taking them by the hand and guiding them along. They'll pull through for you more times than they'll let you down. The trust you put in them makes them feel they must live up to it."

Some Irresponsibility

Gen. Hershey reminded of the trend in moving from the farm to the city and said that in the city "it's hard to get anything for children to do but go to school. There is some irresponsibility in going to school — don't understand me, I'm not criticizing education—that is not associated with a job. It's playing not living."

Arriving here promptly at 10:30 a. m. yesterday, Gen. Hershey conferred with Patrick J. Carroll, manager of the local USES office, and C. William Spangler, veterans' representative here, as well as regional and state USES officials before leaving an hour later for Uniontown, Pa., where another

Order Dismissing OPA Employees Effects 5 Here

Rent Control Workers' Status Unchanged As Clerks Get Notice

Under an order closing all OPA price control offices throughout the country, with the exception of regional offices and rent control offices, five local OPA employes will be dismissed November 4.

Mrs. Mary S. Jones, chief clerk of the local price board said last night she had received no official notification but had heard rumors to that effect. The staff here has already been greatly reduced from a high of 18 paid workers and at least 50 volunteers in addition to scores of school teachers and others who aided in the distribution of ration books.

The Maryland OPA office in the O'Sullivan building in Baltimore announced yesterday it was preparing to move to smaller quarters and the force there will undergo further reductions.

Offices of the local branch in the Union street building occupied several large rooms, but at present is in one room only. The Rent Control office has a smaller separate room and under the order dismissing price panel employes, the one office here is expected to close.

The state organization reached an employment and budget peak during the quarter ending June 30, 1945, with 764 employes and a pay roll of $1507,020. Its low point was during the quarter ended March 31, of this year, when there were only 387 employes and a pay roll of $1,-046,737.

Employment gained during the next quarter, and when the OPA holiday occurred, June 30 to July 20, 415 employes existed in a legal vacuum—the same number as are on the pay roll today.

The pay roll trend of the Maryland OPA is found in these comparisons: During the last quarter of 1933, 699 employes were paid $1,294,200. During the quarter ended September 30 of this year, 415 employes drew $1,274,292.

The cost per employe, went up more more than 50 per cent.

Part of this is explained by the fact that at its inception, the OPA employed large numbers of clerical workers. Today, there is on the pay roll a relatively higher proportion of technical personnel, lawyers, inspectors and other enforcement officials.

The size of the staff dropped rapidly to its present level after the close of the war with Japan, when in a short space of time, rationing on canned and processed foods, gasoline, fuel oil, shoes, meats, and fats, and automobile tires were abandoned.

Divorces Granted

An absolute divorce from Charles K. Mire, Frostburg, was granted Mrs. Genevieve Mire in a decree signed yesterday in Circuit Court by Associate Judge Walter C. Capper.

Chief Judge William A. Huster granted an absolute divorce to Mrs. Hee en G. Davis, negro, Frostburg, from David Davis.

Aged Couple Win Contract Action In Garrett Court

Judge Capper Impresses Property Conveyed With Trust For Plaintiffs

In an opinion handed down yesterday in Garrett County Circuit Court, Associate Judge Walter C. Capper ruled in favor of an aged couple, Peter A. Chisholm, 80, and his wife, Mrs. Cynthia Chisholm, 75, in their dispute with their nephew, Alonzo D. Cummings and his wife, Rosala Cummings, over the terms of an agreement whereby the 500-acre Chisholm farm was conveyed to Mr. and Mrs. Cummings in 1941.

The plaintiffs sought to repudiate the contract after the defendants allegedly failed in the last two years to support them and give them their share of the proceeds from the farm.

Judge Capper said he believes the conveyance was made in trust that the defendants would carry out during the life of the plaintiffs the contract to permit them to live on the farm and support and maintain them, either by dividing a share of the crops with them or providing them with such food, clothing and money as was necessary for their proper support.

"The conveyance was, therefore, in the opinion of the court impressed with a trust to this effect," Judge Capper stated, "which the defendants are in duty bound to carry out so long as the plaintiffs shall live and upon so doing, defendants will be entitled to the property free, clear, and discharged of said trust."

Judge Capper said he will pass a decree impressing the property so conveyed with a trust in favor of the plaintiffs and requiring that the defendants during the lifetime of the plaintiffs, or either of them, shall carry out the terms of the trust agreement.

On failure to carry out the agreement, Judge Capper asserted, trustees will be appointed to sell the property and from the proceeds reimburse the defendants all moneys they paid in satisfaction of a mortgage. He added that the balance of the money shall be used by the trustees for the proper maintenance and support of the plaintiffs. The jurist directed that any money remaining at the death of the survivor of the plaintiffs is to be paid over to the defendants. The court retains jurisdiction in the case for the proper enforcement of the trust.

William R. Offutt and Neil C. Fraley represented the plaintiffs, with A. T. Matthews and Walter W. Dawson counsel for the defendants.

7-Year-Old Keyser Boy Is Burned About Face

Edsel Hanlin, 7, Route 3, Keyser, W. Va., was admitted to Memorial Hospital yesterday at 7:30 p. m. for treatment of burns about the face. Attaches said his condition was "good."

George Weston, 58, 110 Bedford street, an Imperial Ice Cream Company worker, was treated in Allegany Hospital yesterday morning for a laceration on the head suffered, he said, when a gas tank he was removing slipped and struck him.

Wesley J. Kight, Jr., 25, Route 4, a B. and O. worker, was treated in the same hospital at 12:30 p. m. for a mashed right thumb. He said he was injured while working on a locomotive.

97 Men Enlist In Army Here During October

During the calendar month just ended, the local Army recruiting station enlisted 97 men and sent them to Baltimore for examinations, according to Capt. L. M. Bairstow, local recruiter in charge.

Sixty-seven of those enlisted were original enlistments and 30 were veterans. Sixty-two signed for 18 months each, 32 signed for three years, two signed for two years and one for one year.

Preference of service was the Army Air Forces with 20 enlisted. Two selected the Infantry and two the Ordnance Corps, while one each chose Transportation, Quartermaster, Armored Forces, Field Artillery, Signal Corps, Medical Corps and Engineers. Sixty-two men went to the Regular Army unassigned and the balance were not assigned to any service or branch but were general enlistments.

Choice of theater left all unassigned but seven. Six of these volunteered for service in the Pacific and one in Alaska.

Capt. Bairstow said yesterday two men were enlisted and left for Baltimore yesterday morning.

They are Paul Helmick, of Petersburg, W. Va., and Bernard L. Phillips, of Parsons, W. Va. Both signed for three years in the Air Forces.

Phillips has three years and four months previous service and was wounded in action in World War II.

Capt. Bairstow also announced that enlistments can be made direct into several outfits now serving in the Pacific. These include the First Cavalry, Seventh, 24th, and 25th Infantry Divisions, 11th and 82nd Airborne Divisions and the 371st Army Band.

Interesting Copies Of Old Papers From 1904 To 1907 Are Found Here

Glance At Them Shows Many Changes In Newspaper Style

Workmen tearing up a floor at 145 Bedford street yesterday afternoon to remodel a bathroom into a bedroom came across what amounted to a newspaper file in the form of dozens of old newspapers dating from 1904 to 1907, which had been stuffed around water pipes beneath the floor, evidently to keep them from freezing in winter.

Copies of the old Daily News and the Evening Times of that period were discovered, as well as other newspapers which went out of existence many years ago.

One of the most interesting of these is a copy of the Lonaconing Star, dated February 16, 1905, bearing the name of J. J. Robinson, editor and publisher, in the top left-hand corner. Mr. Robinson was the father of Harry H. Robinson, managing editor of the Cumberland News.

The Star, which was sub-titled The Lonaconing Review, states proudly that it is "Independent—Not Neutral," and one of the most striking differences in the front page makeup is that an advertisement for Peruna, lauded as a cure for "catarrhal ills," occupies six columns of space across the top half of the page, with pictures of sufferers, most of them being Lonaconing residents, who were cured by using Peruna, and their enthusiastic testimonials as to its effectiveness.

Old American Found

Another difference from modern newspaper style is the fact that one of the lead stories, regarding coal output from the George's Creek section, has an inconspicuous headline, and is squeezed between the six-column advertisement and a large advertisement, in bold black letters, for baking powder.

A local paper of many years ago, "The American," which had its office at Centre and Harrison streets, is also represented in the wads of old newspapers which were unearthed yesterday. Bearing the date of April 28, 1906, the edition carries a two-column story and editorial about a citizens' meeting called by Mayor Clarence M. King to collect money "for the relief of the sufferers from the earthquake and fire in California."

In the same paper appears a column entitled "Happenings Hereabout," with the sub-title, "Interesting items of interest locally, condensed for our busy readers at home and in nearby towns."

The column contains a variety of news items and comments, ranging from the prophetic observation that "The automobile is rapily coming to the front as a means of travel in this city," to one of the briefest news stories on record: "Thomas

Port Restaurant Plan Submitted To Commission

Group Will Study Lease Proposal Before Meeting Next Week

Following a week's study of a proposed lease submitted by Harry E. Flook, Jr., a former Army pilot and an instructor at the Cumberland Municipal Airport, to construct and operate a restaurant at the field, the Municipal Airport Commission will meet next Thursday at 7:30 p. m. to make any changes or amendments which may be necessary.

This was decided last night at the monthly meeting of the group in the office of Mayor Thomas S. Post, with Edmund S. Burke, chairman, presiding.

In the lease, Flook said he plans to construct a one-story building, with a deck roof, on part of the concrete parking area in front of the administration building. When questioned regarding the cost of the building, which will measure 18 by 41 feet, he told the commission that he has not been able to arrive at an estimate, although he said he expects the cost to be under $10,000. He added that he has made the necessary arrangements with the Civilian Production Administration for materials.

The proposed lease agreement states that Flook will agree to pay Cumberland Airways, Incorporated, operators of the field for the city, eight per cent of gross sales each month, and that the lease shall be renewable from month to month without notice. Written notice from Cumberland Airways must be given at lease six months before cancellation of the lease.

Thomas Lohr Richards, a commission member, suggested that further study be given to the proposal before any action is taken, and said the lease should be amended to name the commission as well as Cumberland Airways in the arrangements, especially in the cancellation clause.

John A. Chapman, airport manager for Cumberland Airways, said that William J. Graham, Pittsburgh, president of the corporation, has not been notified of Flook's proposal but is anxious to see a restaurant put into operation at the field. The lease must be signed by Graham, Burke and Mayor Thomas S. Post before it becomes effective.

Oscar Gurley said that two engineers of the Civil Aeronautics Administration will come here November 13 to make preliminary arrangements for installing a cable trench so that a central switchbord may be established in the administration building to control field lighting.

Labor Unity Conference Lists Affiliated Groups

The Western Maryland Labor Unity Conference, at a special meeting last night, announced it represents some 25,000 members affiliated with some 17 labor organizations of Allegany County, according to Paul I. Burley, secretary.

Burley said there seems to be a question in the minds of people here as to the representation of the organization and that the list will make it clear as to just what labor groups the organization can represent. The locals or councils were listed as:

Beer Distributors-Union Continue Contract Talks

C. E. Stutzman, business agent of Local 453, Teamsters Union, said a preliminary discussion on a contract between the local and some 17 beer distributors of this area was held yesterday afternoon in the union hall with Frederick A. Puderbaugh local attorney, representing the distributors.

The union official reported the drivers renewed their request for a 40 hour week and an 18½ cent wage increase and declined to settle for 15 cents hourly as previously offered by the companies.

A second negotiation meeting will be held tomorrow at 3:30 p. m. in the union hall, Stutzman said, and added drivers will meet Sunday at 2:30 p. m. to act upon the results of the Saturday conference. Prospects for an early settlement seem favorable, he added.

Amvets To Seek Federal Aid In Housing Situation

Will Lay Building Supply Violations Before U. S. Grand Jury

A federal investigation into alleged "black marketing" of building supplies in this area, and the possibility of laying evidence they have gathered before a Federal Grand Jury, was read into the minutes of John Louis Wolford Post No. 1, Amvets at their regular meeting last night.

William B. Orndorff, post commander said members of a post "illegal housing construction committee," have gathered considerable information regarding construction without proper priorities and non-veteran construction here. At the same time, the committee states here are at least 50 veterans with priorities who cannot get material with which to build.

Members of the committee reported on conferences they had with city officials, National Housing Agency representatives and other officials in an effort to obtain some assistance. It was decided, after the committee reported no results from local efforts, to take the matter through other channels.

Material Coming Here

Members of the committee told the membership last night that there is material for building coming into Cumberland, but it is not being sold to veterans with priorities. Sixteen projects of construction have been photographed and studies, and members of the housing group say all of these are constructions which cannot possibly come under the veterans priority system.

The membership voted to send a communication to Bernard J. Flynn, United States District prosecutor asking for information about the next session of the federal grand jury, and to the national housing expeditor to send a federal investigator here immediately. It was indicated at the meeting that if an investigator is not sent here the Amvets will appear before the Federal grand jury to lay before it their own findings.

Will Enter Parade

The Amvets, established in newly renovated post rooms will meet regularly each second and fourth Thursday at 8 p. m., Orndorff announced. Next Thursday night at 8 o'clock there will be a special showing of sports movies at the post for the membership.

Decision was made by the membership to participate in the Armistice Day parade, November 11, at the invitation of Capt. Thomas A. Conlon, marshal. The parade forms at 6 p. m. and moves at 7 p. m.

Albert Saum was named chairman of the Amvets parade committee and instructed to have as many of the post's 500 members as possible in line, with a banner identifying the post. Uniforms will be worn by those who have them.

Guests at the meeting included Thomas B. Finan, veteran of World War II and candidate for State Senator. Finan spoke on the need for state legislation to fill the gap between Federal legislation and existing problems and needs of veterans. He expressed the opinion, and said he will give every consideration, if elected, to a program of Maryland legislation for veterans He told the Amvets, "Maryland has failed miserably in any program of veterans legislation which actually meets our needs."

Michael F. Prendergast, representing the United States Employment Service was also a guest speaker. A World War I veteran, Prendergast complimented the Amvets for the progress made in their first year, and said the young men who have just come out of the war, have a great responsibility and equally great opportunity to "make this community and every community, a better place in which to dwell."

Hallowe'en Pranks Keep Police Busy

In the absence of a Hallowe'en parade Cumberland youths took matters into their own hands and staged a celebration which a veteran policeman described as "the worst I have ever seen" although there were no reports of personal injury from the pranks.

In the downtown section the holiday spirit was evidenced by a slight sprinkling of costumed revelers, the presence of patches of confetti and a few soaped windows.

Police, however, said the shortage of soap was clearly evidenced by the fact that not a single complaint was turned in concerning soaped windows.

State police said they received only one Hallowe'en complaint last night.

Most serious was the report early last night that a group of youths were throwing sand into the faces of motorists on Oldtown road and police said one driver ran against the bank after he was momentarily blinded by the sand.

Traffic on Mt. Royal avenue was blocked for a while last night after youths constructed a barrier with 50 or 60 concrete blocks, police reported.

Oil drums at the Dingle Service Station were rolled over the bank and there was no attempt to estimate the number of garbage cans which were tipped over by the pranksters.

Best prepared against such depredations was one West Side citizen who armed himself with some 50 pennies against the threat of "trick or treat".

Complaints were heaviest from 7 to 8 p. m. when police received reports that:

A fence was broken down on Baltimore avenue; a pet ground hog which had the run of the yard was caught in a trap placed by some prankster on Baltimore avenue; a bird bath was upset on Piedmont avenue; rotten tomatoes were thrown upon a Hill Top drive home, lawns and shrubbery were damaged on the West Side and of things being thrown upon a Louisiana avenue home.

All lights in the Wineow street subway had been put out by 7:30 p. m., police said, adding they received reports of stones being thrown at street lights in a number of other localities.

W. Earle Cobey Chosen Kiwanis President

W. Earle Cobey, Cumberland attorney, was elected president of the Cumberland Kiwanis Club for the year 1947 at the annual election of the club held at Central YMCA yesterday.

Cobey, who has been a member of the club for several years, was serving as vice president of the local Kiwanis organization when he entered the Navy during the war. He will assume office at the first meeting next January and will succeed O. J. Hale.

William E. Landefeld, who is employed by the Celanese Corporation of America, was elected vice-president. He will succeed George L. Buckanan.

Fred W. Flurshutz was elected treasurer to succeed Robert S. Barnes.

Marian Anderson Concert Will Be Remembered

Great Contralto Sings To Audience Of 1,700 At Fort Hill

Last night's concert by the "voice of a century" will not be forgotten soon by those who were fortunate enough to hear Marian Anderson, world-famous contralto, sing at Fort Hill auditorium.

The hushed silence during each selection, the packed auditorium and the sustained applause which drew six encores during the program are testimony to the power of the beloved singer who is now making her twelfth consecutive tour of the United States.

Miss Anderson's program ranged from a Brahms lullaby and an impassioned aria from Massenet's "Herodiade" to rollicking folk songs and a group of Negro spirituals.

Shows Power As Actress

The tall, stately singer, wearing a black sequined gown, sang most of her selections with her head slightly bowed and her eyes closed, clasping her hands. Her powers as an actress as well as a great contralto were clearly evident during the varied program, especially in the dramatic selection from "Herodiade," when she matched the passion of her singing with intensity of expression and gestures.

The voice which has won acclaim in major European capitals as well as in her native land was at its best, with effortless, resonant tones in "Crucifixion," a request selection which replaced one of the concluding spirituals, and vibrant warmth in the Brahms group.

Sings "Ave Maria"

It would be impossible to choose the one selection which seemed the best, but perhaps the final encore, the "Ave Maria" of Franz Schubert, would be that choice. As Miss Anderson's accompanist, Franz Rupp, a noted pianist in his own right, played the opening bars, he was interrupted by spontaneous applause from the audience, who were obviously not going to leave until they heard that song.

Hearing Miss Anderson sing that tender, beautiful melody was the fitting climax to the program.

Because this was her first concert in Maryland for several years, persons came from nearby West Virginia, Pennsylvania and Baltimore so as not to miss one of Cumberland's most outstanding musical events.

Miss Anderson will begin her fall concert season in New York on November 10, when she will sing in Carnegie Hall.

Celanese Official Is Badly Injured When Car Crashes

Edward T. Beall, 38, Suffers Possible Fracture Of Skull

Edward T. Beall, 38, 410 Decatur street, a Celanese official, was critically injured early yesterday morning when the car he was driving careened from Pompey road, one-half mile south of Vale Summit road, and overturned.

Beall, assistant personnel director of the Amcelle plant here, was admitted to Allegany Hospital at 4:15 a. m. in an unconscious condition suffering from a possible fracture of the skull, deep lacerations of the head and right hand and severe shock.

Eight sutures were used to close a cut on the right side of Beall's head and four were used to close the hand injury. He regained consciousness at 7 a. m. but his condition was considered still critical yesterday.

Shows Some Improvement

Attaches reported Beall's condition as "about the same" at 7 p. m. yesterday, but added he has shown improvement.

Beall's companion, identified as Miss Merle Rider, 30 Ridgeway terrace, was uninjured when the car Beall was driving apparently hit a bump in the road and went out of control about 2:45 a. m. in front of the home of Andrew Finn.

State Trooper William McElfish, who investigated, said the car plunged into a field along the side of the road and overturned, adding Beall was pulled from the wreckage by his companion.

Beall's wife was expected to arrive here yesterday from Baltimore where she has been a patient in a hospital.

Five Others Treated

John Plumber, 51, Homewood Addition, was treated yesterday morning in Allegany for possible chest and back injuries. Attaches were told he fell ten feet from a billboard frame owned by the General Outdoor Advertising Company.

Mary Ann Adams, 23, Green Spring, W. Va., suffered a laceration of the left elbow in a fall down 20 steps at her home last night, and two-year-old Susan Wilson, daughter of Ralph Wilson, of Union street, was cut about the left foot by broken glass from a bottle she pulled into a bathtub. Both received treatment yesterday morning in Memorial Hospital Treated Wednesday in Allegany Hospital were Gary L. Stakem, 1-year-old son of Mrs. Nancy Stakem, 414 Fayette street, for a lacerated lip and Blair Lockard, 18, Corriganville, who injured a finger of the left hand while cutting wood three days ago.

Stutzman said the contract will be presented to some eight local establishments now under contract for negotiation if the waitresses approve the provisions of the agreement.

Seapower Will Be Decisive Factor In Our Future, Kiwanians Are Told

Navy Is Termed Outer Rim Of Defense By Commodore Ernest Eller

Seapower can and will be a decisive factor in our future, it has always played a great part in American history and has been prominent in all wars in which we have engaged, Commodore Ernese McNeill, Eller, Director of Public Information in the Navy Department, declared in an address before the Cumberland Kiwanis Club yesterday at Central YMCA.

Speaking on the subject "The Importance of Seapower to America", Commodore Eller, asserted that seapower is our outer rim of defense, but that we must maintain a balance of power—land and sea. Both have their functions, he added.

"Is seapower going to continue to be our bulwark and defense of the future or will we submit to some other power or have none at all?" This was the question the speaker asked at the outset of his address. He said that seapower is a part of the life and blood of Maryland, pointing out that the Naval Academy is located at Annapolis and one of the greatest Navy Training Stations has been established at Bainbridge.

Must Understand Sea

In explaining what seapower is, Commodore Eller told the Kiwanians that seapower comes from understanding the sea. Germany did not know the sea, and therefore could not cross the English Channel. By not being able to cross the Channel, Germany lost the war, the speaker added. He said Germany could not take Malta because she lacked proper knowledge of the sea.

America with its seapower and knowledge of the sea was able to travel 3,000 miles to North Africa, 3,000 miles to Normandy, 6,000 miles in the Pacific transport, and supply armies, which he added proves conclusively that we know how to use seapower. He asserted that seapower gives you the power to use the sea and denies the use of the sea to your enemies.

The speaker explained that while we still only controlled part of the Pacific that we were able to take troops, ammunition, supplies and provisions to McArthur in Australia. After MacArthur took the offensive in the Pacific our seapower made it possible for him to skip many islands and hit the Japs from behind.

Commodore Eller said seapower allows you to overwhelm, and to conquer He said we left between 600,000 and 700,000 Japs behind when we landed at Okinawa and after the war ended we captured 500,000 Japs which had been bypassed and made helpless because seapower was denied them.

Japan was prevented from holding Okinawa because she was denied

MEET WITH HERSHEY—Maj. Gen. Lewis B. Hershey, national director of Selective Service, visited the local office of the United States Employment Service here yesterday in his capacity as a member of the federal Veterans Placement Board in order to find out what is going on in the "field" to find jobs for veterans. Pictured in the top photograph (left to right) are Arthur L. Schoenthal, assistant director of Region 4 of the USES; Patrick J. Carroll, manager of the local USES office; Gen. Hershey; Philmore Fleming, commander of Fort Cumberland Post No. 13, American Legion, who came to the USES office to meet the general; Grafton Lee Brown, state USES director, and Michael F. Prendergast, state director of operations for the USES. In the lower picture Hershey is listening in on an interview of Bradford Whetstone, 711 Shawnee avenue, by C. William Spangler, veterans' representative in the USES office here. Whetstone served one year in the European Theatre of Operations.

Hershey Believes Jobless Peak For Veterans Has Been Passed

More Jobs Available Than Economists Believed, General Says

"We've seen the top of this unemployment business as far as veterans are concerned," Maj. Gen. Lewis B. Hershey, national director of Selective Service and a member of the federal Veterans Placement Board, said yesterday while on a visit to the Cumberland office of the United States Employment Service.

Gen. Hershey, en route to Chicago for a meeting there next Wednesday, made Cumberland his first of six stops in as many states to get an idea "in the field" of what is going on in the way of placing veterans in jobs.

Asked if he believes the unemployment peak is past, Gen. Hershey replied that he is "not enough of an economist to take a crack at that," but he added, "If I would take a crack at it I would say yes on the assumption that we are going through no unemployment cycle. I think we've seen the top of this unemployment business as far as veterans are concerned."

Queried as to his opinion of the job that has been done in finding work for veterans, the general replied, "As far as I know we've been pretty well satisfied.

Demobilization Satisfactory

"We've had a lot more jobs than a lot of economists thought we were going to have, and as long as we have the jobs all we have to do is get the men who are able to fill them.

"When you consider the demobilization rate of over 1,000,000 men a month and the cushions—trade schools are one of the cushions—to reduce the suddenness, we've gotten through with demobilizing pretty easily."

Another question asked Gen. Hershey, one which has been of some concern to USES officials who handle veterans' employment activities, was what can be done in finding jobs for veterans who entered the armed forces from high school and never held a job.

The general answered, "Those without jobs, those who hadn't had any experience of training on the job, those are the fellows for whom schools and job training courses are going to have more drawing power.

"I haven't shared all the fears about the younger generation. They begin to respond to responsibilities when they reach them. When they get to the point where they must buckle down they buckle down.

"I believe in delegating responsibility, that you'll get more out of them that way than by taking them by the hand and guiding them along. They'll pull through for you more times than they'll let you down. The trust you put in them makes them feel they must live up to it."

Some Irresponsibility

Gen. Hershey reminded of the trend in moving from the farm to the city and said that in the city "it's hard to get anything for children to do but go to school. There is some irresponsibility in going to school — don't understand me, I'm not criticizing education—that is not associated with a job. It's playing not living."

Arriving here promptly at 10:30 a. m. yesterday, Gen. Hershey conferred with Patrick J. Carroll, manager of the local USES office, and C. William Spangler, veterans' representative here, as well as regional and state USES officials before leaving an hour later for Uniontown, Pa., where another

Rent Control Workers' Status Unchanged As Clerks Get Notice

Under an order closing all OPA price control offices throughout the country, with the exception of regional offices and rent control offices, five local OPA employes will be dismissed November 4.

Mrs. Mary S. Jones, chief clerk of the local price board said last night she had received no official notification but had heard rumors to that effect. The staff here has already been greatly reduced from a high of 18 paid workers and at least 50 volunteers in addition to scores of school teachers and others who aided in the distribution of ration books.

The Maryland OPA office in the O'Sullivan building in Baltimore announced yesterday it was preparing to move to smaller quarters and the force there will undergo further reductions.

Offices of the local branch in the Union street building occupied several large rooms, but at present is in one room only. The Rent Control office has a smaller separate room and under the order dismissing price panel employes, the one office here is expected to close.

The state organization reached an employment and budget peak during the quarter ending June 30, 1945, with 764 employes and a pay roll of $1507,020. Its low point was during the quarter ended March 31, of this year, when there were only 387 employes and a pay roll of $1,-046,737.

Employment gained during the next quarter, and when the OPA holiday occurred, June 30 to July 20, 415 employes existed in a legal vacuum—the same number as are on the pay roll today.

The pay roll trend of the Maryland OPA is found in these comparisons: During the last quarter of 1933, 699 employes were paid $1,294,200. During the quarter ended September 30 of this year, 415 employes drew $1,274,292.

The cost per employe, went up more more than 50 per cent.

Part of this is explained by the fact that at its inception, the OPA employed large numbers of clerical workers. Today, there is on the pay roll a relatively higher proportion of technical personnel, lawyers, inspectors and other enforcement officials.

The size of the staff dropped rapidly to its present level after the close of the war with Japan, when in a short space of time, rationing on canned and processed foods, gasoline, fuel oil, shoes, meats, and fats, and automobile tires were abandoned.

Divorces Granted

An absolute divorce from Charles K. Mire, Frostburg, was granted Mrs. Genevieve Mire in a decree signed yesterday in Circuit Court by Associate Judge Walter C. Capper.

Chief Judge William A. Huster granted an absolute divorce to Mrs. Hecen G. Davis, negro, Frostburg, from David Davis.

Aged Couple Win Contract Action In Garrett Court

Judge Capper Impresses Property Conveyed With Trust For Plaintiffs

In an opinion handed down yesterday in Garrett County Circuit Court, Associate Judge Walter C. Capper ruled in favor of an aged couple, Peter A. Chisholm, 80, and his wife, Mrs. Cynthia Chisholm, 75, in their dispute with their nephew, Alonzo D. Cummings and his wife, Rosala Cummings, over the terms of an agreement whereby the 500-acre Chisholm farm was conveyed to Mr. and Mrs. Cummings in 1941.

The plaintiffs sought to repudiate the contract after the defendants allegedly failed in the last two years to support them and give them their share of the proceeds from the farm.

Judge Capper said he believes the conveyance was made in trust that the defendants would carry out during the life of the plaintiffs the contract to permit them to live on the farm and support and maintain them, either by dividing a share of the crops with them or providing them with such food, clothing and money as was necessary for their proper support.

"The conveyance was, therefore, in the opinion of the court impressed with a trust to this effect," Judge Capper stated, "which the defendants are in duty bound to carry out so long as the plaintiffs shall live and upon so doing, defendants will be entitled to the property free, clear, and discharged of said trust."

Judge Capper said he will pass a decree impressing the property so conveyed with a trust in favor of the plaintiffs and requiring that the defendants during the lifetime of the plaintiffs, or either of them, shall carry out the terms of the trust agreement.

On failure to carry out the agreement, Judge Capper asserted, trustees will be appointed to sell the property and from the proceeds reimburse the defendants all moneys they paid in satisfaction of a mortgage. He added that the balance of the money shall be used by the trustees for the proper maintenance and support of the plaintiffs. The jurist directed that any money remaining at the death of the survivor of the plaintiffs is to be paid over to the defendants. The court retains jurisdiction in the case for the proper enforcement of the trust.

William R. Offutt and Neil C. Fraley represented the plaintiffs, with A. T. Matthews and Walter W. Dawson counsel for the defendants.

Wesley J. Kight, Jr., 25, Route 4, a B. and O. worker, was treated in the same hospital at 12:30 p. m. for a mashed right thumb. He said he was injured while working on a locomotive.

97 Men Enlist In Army Here During October

During the calendar month just ended, the local Army recruiting station enlisted 97 men and sent them to Baltimore for examinations, according to Capt. L. M. Bairstow, local recruiter in charge.

Sixty-seven of those enlisted were original enlistments and 30 were veterans. Sixty-two signed for 18 months each, 32 signed for three years, two signed for two years and one for one year.

Preference of service was the Army Air Forces with 20 enlisted. Two selected the Infantry and two the Ordnance Corps, while one each chose Transportation, Quartermaster, Armored Forces, Field Artillery, Signal Corps, Medical Corps and Engineers. Sixty-two men went to the Regular Army unassigned and the balance were not assigned to any service or branch but were general enlistments.

Choice of theater left all unassigned but seven. Six of these volunteered for service in the Pacific and one in Alaska.

Capt. Bairstow said yesterday two men were enlisted and left for Baltimore yesterday morning.

They are Paul Helmick, of Petersburg, W. Va., and Bernard L. Phillips, of Parsons, W. Va. Both signed for three years in the Air Forces.

Phillips has three years and four months previous service and was wounded in action in World War II.

Capt. Bairstow also announced that enlistments can be made direct into several outfits now serving in the Pacific. These include the First Cavalry, Seventh, 24th, and 25th Infantry Divisions, 11th and 82nd Airborne Divisions and the 371st Army Band.

Interesting Copies Of Old Papers From 1904 To 1907 Are Found Here

Glance At Them Shows Many Changes In Newspaper Style

Workmen tearing up a floor at 145 Bedford street yesterday afternoon to remodel a bathroom into a bedroom came across what amounted to a newspaper file in the form of dozens of old newspapers dating from 1904 to 1907, which had been stuffed around water pipes beneath the floor, evidently to keep them from freezing in winter.

Copies of the old Daily News and the Evening Times of that period were discovered, as well as other newspapers which went out of existence many years ago.

One of the most interesting of these is a copy of the Lonaconing Star, dated February 16, 1905, bearing the name of J. J. Robinson, editor and publisher, in the top left-hand corner. Mr. Robinson was the father of Harry H. Robinson, managing editor of the Cumberland News.

The Star, which was sub-titled The Lonaconing Review, states proudly that it is "Independent—Not Neutral," and one of the most striking differences in the front page makeup is that an advertisement for Peruna, lauded as a cure for "catarrhal ills," occupies six columns of space across the top half of the page, with pictures of sufferers, most of them being Lonaconing residents, who were cured by using Peruna, and their enthusiastic testimonials as to its effectiveness.

Old American Found

Another difference from modern newspaper style is the fact that one of the lead stories, regarding coal output from the George's Creek section, has an inconspicuous headline, and is squeezed between the six-column advertisement and a large advertisement, in bold black letters, for baking powder.

A local paper of many years ago, "The American," which had its office at Centre and Harrison streets, is also represented in the wads of old newspapers which were unearthed yesterday. Bearing the date of April 28, 1906, the edition carries a two-column story and editorial about a citizens' meeting called by Mayor Clarence M. King to collect money "for the relief of the sufferers from the earthquake and fire in California."

In the same paper appears a column entitled "Happenings Hereabout," with the sub-title, "Interesting items of interest locally, condensed for our busy readers at home and in nearby towns."

The column contains a variety of news items and comments, ranging from the prophetic observation that "The automobile is rapily coming to the front as a means of travel in this city," to one of the briefest news stories on record: "Thomas

Group Will Study Lease Proposal Before Meeting Next Week

Following a week's study of a proposed lease submitted by Harry E. Flook, Jr., a former Army pilot and an instructor at the Cumberland Municipal Airport, to construct and operate a restaurant at the field, the Municipal Airport Commission will meet next Thursday at 7:30 p. m. to make any changes or amendments which may be necessary.

This was decided last night at the monthly meeting of the group in the office of Mayor Thomas S. Post, with Edmund S. Burke, chairman, presiding.

In the lease, Flook said he plans to construct a one-story building, with a deck roof, on part of the concrete parking area in front of the administration building. When questioned regarding the cost of the building, which will measure 18 by 41 feet, he told the commission that he has not been able to arrive at an estimate, although he said he expects the cost to be under $10,000. He added that he has made the necessary arrangements with the Civilian Production Administration for materials.

The proposed lease agreement states that Flook will agree to pay Cumberland Airways, Incorporated, operators of the field for the city, eight per cent of gross sales each month, and that the lease shall be renewable from month to month without notice. Written notice from Cumberland Airways must be given at lease six months before cancellation of the lease.

Thomas Lohr Richards, a commission member, suggested that further study be given to the proposal before any action is taken, and said the lease should be amended to name the commission as well as Cumberland Airways in the arrangements, especially in the cancellation clause.

John A. Chapman, airport manager for Cumberland Airways, said that William J. Graham, Pittsburgh, president of the corporation, has not been notified of Flook's proposal but is anxious to see a restaurant put into operation at the field. The lease must be signed by Graham, Burke and Mayor Thomas S. Post before it becomes effective.

Oscar Gurley said that two engineers of the Civil Aeronautics Administration will come here November 13 to make preliminary arrangements for installing a cable trench so that a central switchbord may be established in the administration building to control field lighting.

Labor Unity Conference Lists Affiliated Groups

The Western Maryland Labor Unity Conference, at a special meeting last night, announced it represents some 25,000 members affiliated with some 17 labor organizations of Allegany County, according to Paul I. Burley, secretary.

Burley said there seems to be a question in the minds of people here as to the representation of the organization and that the list will make it clear as to just what labor groups the organization can represent. The locals or councils were listed as:

Local 1874, Textile Workers Union of America, CIO; Allegany Trades Council, with some 30 affiliated AFL locals; Local 212, Machinists Union, AFL; Western Maryland Industrial Union Council, CIO; Laundry Workers Local 40, CIO; Brewery Workers, Local 265.

Beer Distributors-Union Continue Contract Talks

C. E. Stutzman, business agent of Local 453, Teamsters Union, said a preliminary discussion on a contract between the local and some 17 beer distributors of this area was held yesterday afternoon in the union hall with Frederick A. Puderbaugh local attorney, representing the distributors.

The union official reported the drivers renewed their request for a 40 hour week and an 18½ cent wage increase and declined to settle for 15 cents hourly as previously offered by the companies.

A second negotiation meeting will be held tomorrow at 3:30 p. m. in the union hall, Stutzman said, and added drivers will meet Sunday at 2:30 p. m. to act upon the results of the Saturday conference. Prospects for an early settlement seem favorable, he added.
